Jordan Clash Heatsup

TEL AVIV (AP) — Israeli fighter-bombers streaked through pouring rain today to attack Jordanian tanks with rockets and bombs in the heaviest fighting on the Jordan River cease-fire line since the June war.

Pilots claimed six tanks and an armored car were destroyed, but one French-built Mystere jet was shot down by ground fire, the Israeli army said.

The pilot bailed out. Amman Radio reported he was killed.

The Jordanian radio claimed another Mystere was shot down, but the Israelis denied this.

The planes were ordered in during a fierce battle across the Jordan River— the fourth clash in as many days, which the Israelis charge was planned by Amman— between the Allenby and Umm Shart bridges.

Amman Radio said the Jordanians lost only one military vehicle and there were no casualties to Jordanian personnel. It claimed Israeli tanks and other equipment were set ablaze, two Israeli gun positions were destroyed and most of their personnel were killed.

Amman said King Hussein, now in London, was in constant telephone contact with his brother, Crown Prince Hassan, until the fighting stopped, and that Jordan's delegate to the United Nations had been instructed to inform U.N. members of the battle.

The Israelis said their air force went into action after the Jordanians moved tanks up to the cease-fire line and opened up across the river on a wide front.

The Jordanians charged that the Israelis began the attack with artillery and tank fire, then called in their planes when Jordanian positions returned the fire.

It was the fourth consecutive day of firing across the river.

An Israeli spokesman said Jordanian tanks opened fire at 8:45 a.m. (1:45 a.m. EST) a few miles south of the Umm-Shart Bridge, at a point where Israeli and Jordanian gunners dueled for two hours Monday.

"Israeli forces returned the fire to silence the source of the enemy shelling," the spokesman continued. "The enemy fire did not stop, so the air force was called in."

The Jordanian communique said the Israeli attack was concentrated in the area of the Allenby Bridge, 10 miles north of the Dead Sea and about 260 miles west of Amman, the Jordanian capital.

The Israeli spokesman said the firing stopped at 10:55 a.m. (3:55 a.m. EST) and "the sector is quiet for the moment."

January Draft Call Highest In 14 Months

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Pentagon today ordered the induction of 34,000 men into the Army in January, the highest draft call in 14 months.

The main reason for the high call, the Pentagon said, is that "the Army is now replacing the relatively large number of draftees originally inducted about two years ago when it was in its initial strength build-up" for the Vietnam war.

The total of 34,000 young men tabbed for induction in January compares with the November 1966 call of 37,600.

It more than doubles the average call this year of slightly more than 16,500.

The biggest monthly draft quota in 1967 totaled 29,000 in August.

The Pentagon said it expects that the average draft calls in the January-June period next year will be at a somewhat higher average level than the last six months of this year, with fluctuations from month to month.

Four Killed in Two Bootheel Accidents on Highways

Four lost their lives in highway accidents Monday in the Bootheel.

Three of the victims lost their lives in a headon crash on Interstate 55, one mile north of the Arkansas line. Two were from Hayti. The third was a Chicago woman whose husband was seriously injured.

The fourth lost his life when his truck caught fire after crashing into a bridge. He was Travis Vincent Poe, 50, route two Kennett.

The two-car collision occurred in Pemiscot county at 3:10 p.m. one mile north of the Arkansas line.

A 1967 Plymouth, driven by Lula Patterson, 71, Hayti, was traveling north in a southbound lane when whe collided with a 1966 Mercury, driven by Clarence Tabor, 55, of Chicago.

Killed were Mrs. Patterson, and a passenger in her car, Sarah Harrigan, Hayti, age unavailable.

Mrs. Tabor, a passenger in the Mercury, was the third fatality. The three died enroute to the Blytheville hospital.

Tabor is in the Blytheville hospital with fractured legs, broken ribs and cuts.

The body of Mrs. Patterson was taken to the Osborne Funeral Home in Hayti, and the body of Mrs. Harrigan to the Cobb Funeral Home in Blytheville. The body of Mrs. Tabor was taken to the Howard Funeral Home in Blytheville.

Poe was burned to death, when his 1965 Ford pickup truck struck a bridge bannister at 10:15 p.m. on highway 153, two miles east of White Oak in Dunklin county.

Poe's body was taken to the McDaniel Funeral Home in Kennett.

Westmoreland Says Viet War Nears Phase With End in View

WASHINGTON (AP) -- Gen. William C. Westmoreland declared today the United States is about to enter a new phase of the Vietnam war in which "the end begins to come into view."

Westmoreland, commander of U. S. forces in Vietnam, predicted no target date for the end of the conflict, but he said already "the enemy's hopes are bankrupt."

His remarks came in a speech prepared for a National Press Club luncheon there.

The four-star general said the "new phase" of the war will begin next year with U. S. efforts to bring the South Vietnamese armed forces to such a point of combat effectiveness that eventually thy can "taken on an ever-increasing share of the war."

Beyond 1968 -- he did not predict the exact time -- Westmoreland foresaw the United States moving into what he called "the final phase."

During that period, he predicted:

— The Communist structure in South Vietnam "will be cut up and near collapse."

— The Vietnamese army will show that it can handle the Viet Co g.

— South Vietnam's regional forces and popular forces will reach a higher level of professional performance.

— "U.S. units can begin to phase down as the Vietnamese army is modernized and develops its capacity to the fullest."

— "The military bases and ports will be progressively turned over to the Vietnamese."

Then, Westmoreland said, "the Vietnamese will take charge of the final mopping up of the Viet Cong," a task "which will probably last several years."

Westmoreland has mentioned the possibility of a U.S. phase-down in forces possibly within the next two years.

Today he specified that the first U.S. troops withdrawals would be "token."

"We have reached an important point when the end begins to come into view," Westmoreland asserted.

Beginning next year, he said, the United States plans to decrease the number of American advisers in South Vietnamese training centers "and other places where the professional competence of Vietnamese officers makes this possible."

At the same time more U.S. advisers will begin assisting the Vietnamese regional and popular forces.

As U.S. and allied forces continue "to destroy North Vietnamese foray" the South Vietnamese army will be given new military equipment to "revitalize" its effectiveness and prepared to take on more combat duties.

"I am absolutely certain that whereas in 1965 the enemy was winning, today he is certainly losing," Westmoreland said. "There are indications that the Viet Cong and even Hanoi know this.

"However, the enemy may be operating from the delusion that political pressure here combined with the tactical defeat of a major unit might force the U.S. to 'throw in the towel.'"

Westmoreland is in Washington for high level discussion on the war effort.

He portrayed his speech today as a progress report covering his four years in the war zone.

GOP Social Security Bid Fails

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate rejected 48 to 27 Tuesday a Republican move to boost Social Security taxes next year by $1.4 billion more than its Finance Committee recommended.

Sen. John J. Williams, R-Del., senior Republican on the committee and author of the amendment, argued that it should be adopted to let voters know the cost of the program before the 1968 elections.

Sen. Russell B. Long, D-La., the committee chairman and floor manager for the bill, declared the extra financing was entirely unnecessary.

Williams proposed that the Social Security tax rate paid by the individual and his employer be advanced to 4.8 per cent in 1968.

Under present law, and under both a House-passed version and the Senate committee's bill, it would stay at 4.4 per cent next year. The bill would raise it to 4.8 per cent in 1969.

The Senate bill would raise the taxable base from $6,600 to $8,000. Williams insisted, however, that under this plan two-thirds of the taxpayers would not have to pay any more next year.

Two changes were voted by the Senate Monday. The amendments would provide an extra $250 million a year to pay hospitals for elderly medicare patients, and require that states provide welfare aid for families with unemployed fathers.

Many important amendments remain to be considered.

Republican leaders announced they would make a major effort today to substitute the House version of Social Security cash benefits and taxes for the Senate Finance Committee's proposed schedules.

The committee voted for substantially larger monthly payments than the House as well as for bigger payroll taxes.

A bipartisan group of 15 senators said they plan to push amendments to the welfare sections of the bill designed to remove what they term coercive provisions which might force mothers on welfare to work.

The amendment to boost medicare payments to hospitals, sponsored by Sen. Jack Miller, R-Iowa, and adopted by voice vote, would make it possible to reimburse them on a per diem costs basis.

Social Security administration experts said this would boost payments by $250 million a year since it would mean averaging of costs over all classes of patients.

Elderly patients generally cost less than younger ones, they said, and up to now the administration has insisted on limiting reimbursement closely to the costs for the specific old persons involved.

Sen. Fred R. Harris, D-Okla., offered the amendment to require all states to put into effect by mid-1969 programs to provide welfare aid to families with dependent children and jobless fathers. It was adopted 39 to 36.

Under present law states are not required to include unemployed fathers in welfare assistance programs and only 22 do so.

Harris said this meant many fathers were leaving their families just to make them eligible for the Aid to Dependent Children program.

The cost of Harris' amendment was estimated at $60 million in federal funds plus $30 million to $35 million in state money.

Three senators from the two largest states, Sens. Thomas H. Kuchel, R-Calif., Jacob K. Javits, R-N.Y., and Robert F. Kennedy, D-N.Y., failed in a bid to soften a cutback in federal medicaid funds written into both the House and Senate Finance Committee bills.

Gratitude Mark of Maturity Club Told

"Be thankful God has created us. No people are more blessed than you and I."

It was the Rev. Joseph Wagner, pastor of the First Methodist church, speaking to the Rotary club about Thanksgiving, which will be observed Thursday.

"I am thankful for the things on which I can depend," the Rev. Mr. Wagner told the club meeting at the Rustic Rock Inn, "Honesty, decency, brotherhood, love, mercy and forgiveness."

The minister said that "the grateful heart is the mark of maturity".

"The immature always are wanting, always expecting. They ask 'what is in it for me?' Maturity is based on understanding what an individual has, loving life and letting people know it. The mature person is not a whimpering coward."

The Rev. Mr. Wagner was introduced by Ewart Taylor.

S. F. Duckworth presented the club with a check for $7 for the Rotary Foundation, which finances scholarships for study abroad. The occasion was his 70th birthday.

Paul R. Bumbarger presented the club with banners from the Falmouth and Bourne Rotary clubs in Massachusetts.

President Fred Koch announced that the club's Christmas party would be held Dec. 11 at 6 p.m. at the Holiday Inn. The club voted to have a gift exchange.

Kay Hawkins entertained with piano music.

Report Stolen Electric Guitar, Two Accidents

Douglas Lambert, a member of The Escorts band, reported to police at 5:22 p.m. Monday that an electric guitar and case valued at $330 was stolen from Chambers Electric, 801 Park.

The group had been using the building to practice, and the instrument was taken Friday or Saturday night. A front window had been broken to gain entrance, police reported.

In other activity, Mrs. Vera Praul, 28, 400 William, was charged by police at 5:05 p.m. Monday with failure to yield the right of way. The car she was driving collided with an automobile driven by Neil B. Hahn, 28, Dexter, at Murray Lane and South Kingshighway, police reported.

Roy Roger Davis, 19, 264 East Kathleen, was charged at 12:38 p.m. Monday with failure to yield the right of way. The car he was driving collided on East Malone near Barkett's Big Star with a pickup truck driven by Darwin L. Davis, 39, Doniphan. No injuries resulted from either accident.

Brower to Preach At New Madrid

NEW MADRID - Union Thanksgiving services will be held Wednesday at 7:30 p.m. at the Presbyterian Church. The Rev. Floyd V. Brower, Poplar Bluff, Methodist district superintendent and interim pastor of the New Madrid Methodist church, will speak.

The choir will be of singers from the Baptist, Methodist, General Baptist and Presbyterian churches.

Brutal Battle Goes on

SAIGON (AP) — While U.S. planes and artillery pounded dug-in North Vietnamese gunners, helicopter crews removed today the last of 140 American paratroopers wounded since Sunday in bitter fighting on the slopes of Hill 875.

Associated Press correspondent Peter Arnett reported one of the most brutal fights of the war under way as men of the 173rd Airborne Brigade attempted to take the remaining enemy bunkers on the hill in the central highlands 14 miles southwest of Dak To.

Short of food and water, the paratroopers battled stiff enemy fire as they continued their push to the summit. They used flamethrowers against the enemy's intricate bunker system.

U.S. jets pounded the entire area, attempting to keep to a schedule of one strike every 15 minutes. U.S. artillery gunners filled in the gaps.

Maj. Gen. William R. Peers said he felt the paratroopers would be on the summit of the hill late tonight.

U.S. casualties have mounted to at least 239 dead and 822 wounded during the 19 days of fighting around the Dak To Valley.

Although the North Vietnamese repeatedly drove off medical helicopters, five wounded men were lifted out Monday night. U.S. crewmen sped in and out of a clearing cut in the jungle growth and removed all the rest in a two-hour period today.

This was the second most costly battle of the Viet Nam war for American forces.

It rivaled in intensity the 1965 fighting in the Ia Drang valley — also just before Thanksgiving in the central highlands— in which 247 Americans were killed and 570 wounded. An estimated 1,200 North Vietnamese were killed then in a week of bloody fighting.

Brig. Gen. L. H. Schweiter, commander of the 173rd Airborne Brigade, said the North Vietnamese were dug in so well on Hill 875 the U.S. guns and bombs couldn't hit their bunkers.

"We're going to have to dig them out man by man," he said.

Although the North Vietnamese repeatedly drove off medical heliocpters, a few got through and lifted out five wounded men Monday night and 20 more today. But at least 61 wounded were still with the beleaguered battalions on the hill late Tuesday, AP Correspondent John Lengel reported from the Dak To command post.

Over North Vietnam, U.S. warplanes hit targets in the Hanoi-Haiphong area Monday for the sixth consecutive day and the U.S. Command announced two more U.S. planes were lost, one to a Communist MIG21. One flier was missing.

This brought the total of U.S. combat planes announced lost over the North to 751, including 13 planes and 16 pilots since last Thursday.

The wounded trapped on Hill 875 near Dak To were part of the 173rd Airborne Brigade's 2nd battalion that had been battling Red troops on the hill since Sunday morning.

U.S. spokesmen reported 71 Americans killed so far in the battle for the hill, at least 20 of them when a bomb from a U.S. plane mistakenly dropped onto their position.

Three companies of the 173rd's 4th battalion joined the 2nd battalion on the hill Monday night, but an assault to try to knock out the enemy guns driving off the evacuation helicopters was postponed for the time being while U.S. artillery and planes kept up their attacks.

School Trains Christmas Help

Twenty five high school students will complete a special training session tomorrow to prepare them to work for merchants during the Christmas rush, David Miller, cooperative occupational education teacher, said today.

Wrapping packages, preparing sales slips and operating a cash register were drilled in the eight one-hour sessions conducted daily since Nov. 13, between 3:30 p.m. and 4:30 p.m., Miller said.

Most of the students do not have jobs yet. Merchants interested may contact Miller at the high school.

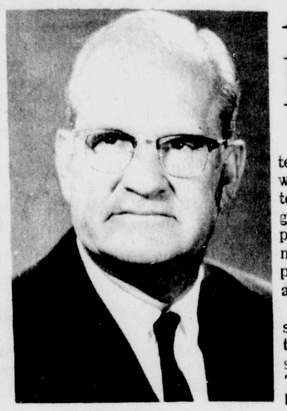
Rhame Will Preach At Union Service

The annual union Thanksgiving Service, sponsored by the Sikeston Ministerial Alliance, will be held at the First Baptist church tomorrow at 7:30 p.m.

Members of all faiths are invited to attend.

The Rev. John Rhame, pastor of the First Church of the Nazarene, will speak. The Rev. Mr. Rhame is a native of South Carolina and has been a pastor in Sikeston seven years. He attended college in Spartanburg, S. C., and studied music in Roanoke, Va., and Miami. He studied voice and choir direction under Dr. Howard Lyman, professor of music at Syracuse University.

He has been a pastor in Miami, Syracuse, Memphis, Jasper, Ala., and Tyler, Texas. He has preached and led music in evangelistic meetings.



John Rhame

The Rev. Joseph Wagner, pastor of the First Methodist church and president of the ministerial alliance, will preside. The Rev. James Hackney, pastor of the First Baptist church, will give a welcome and lead a responsive reading. The Rev. J. W. Guinn will lead the offertory prayer.

The Rev. Durward Penry, pastor of the First Christian church, will give the invocation and Dr. Robert Lively, pastor of Trinity Baptist church, will lead the benediction.

The First Baptists church will be in charge of the music.

A nursery for children three years of age and under will be open.

Judge Fines Six for Traffic Offenses

Henry Watson, Sikeston, charged with felonious burglary, appeared in magistrate court today and was given another week to get legal advice.

Judge M. E. Montgomery presided. Assistant Prosecuting Attorney Tom Gilmore represented the state.

Dorothy T. Kennedy, Charleston, charged with permitting an unauthorized person to operate a motor vehicle, was fined $5 and costs.

Woodrow Cummins, route two, Sikeston, charged with driving a motor vehicle while his operator's license was under suspension, was granted a change of venue to circuit court.

Dennis C. Hancock, Kennett, charged with speeding, was fined $27.50 and costs.

Oscar D. Northern, Benton, charged with illegal possession of intoxicants, continued until Dec. 5.

Stuart H. Kase, Berger, charged with failure to yield right of way, was fined $5 and costs.

Woodrow W. Pearson, route three, Sikeston, charged with operating a trailer without a license, was fined $5 and costs.

Shirley Ann Rudd, Chaffee, charged with speeding, was fined $10 and costs.

Richard J. Billman, Pesotum, Ill., charged with speeding, was fined $17.50 and costs.

City to Open Sewer, Water Work Bids

Bids will be opened at 2 p.m. today at the city administration building on work projects to extend and add to the city's water mains and sewer lines.

Among the projects to be bid is a water main from the south city limits to the north city limits along Highway 61, and a water main from the water plant on Center Street to the Gulf Chemical Co. on West Malone.

A new sewer line from the industrial laundry site will tie in to Malone, and sewer lines at the existing industrial tract at the airport will be increased, I. R. Inman, director of the City Light and Water Co. said.

The work is to be paid from the "$1,200,000 revenue and general obligation bonds approved in 1965, and sold this year.

It is now anticipated that bids will be taken in early December on a new 500,000 gallon elevated water tank north of the steam plant, and bids for expansion of the sewage treatment plant are expected to be let in early January, Inman said.

Council Votes City Clerk Out of Office

POPLAR BLUFF, Mo. (AP) — The city clerk of Poplar Bluff was voted out of office by the City Council Monday. Robert Snider, in the motion to oust him, was charged with neglect of office.

Snider denied the charge of alleged failure to order parking meter parts as directed by the council.

Named to replace Snider was Ralph Rideout.

Soviets Charged With Exploiting Deserters

WASHINGTON (AP) — The United States protested to the Soviet Union Tuesday against "assisting, harboring and exploiting" four young U.S. sailors who appeared on Moscow television and spoke against American policy in Vietnam.

The oral protest denounced Russia's action as "highly improper."

"Such conduct cannot fail to but complicate further the relations between our countries."

The U.S. objections were voiced to Soviet Ambassador Anatoly F. Dobrynin by Deputy Undersecretary of State Foy D. Kohlerin in a breef meeting at the State Department.

Banks Hike Lending Rate

NEW YORK (AP) — Chase Manhattan and First National City Bank, two key banks in the New York money market, today raised their prime lending rate to 6 per cent from 5½ effective immediately.

The move by Chase, second largest in the nation, and First National City, third largest, could trigger a nationwide increase in the prime rate. Banks outside New York usually follow the lead of the big money center institutions.

Other large New York banks, including Morgan Guaranty Trust and Manufacturers Hanover Trust, also joined in the raises. Banks in other sections of the country began raising their rate also.

Only 18 Aboard Located

CINCINNATI, Ohio (AP) — A team of federal investigators went to work today trying to determine why a TWA jet passenger plane crashed while approaching the Greater Cincinnati Airport Monday night, apparently killing 64 of 82 persons aboard.

"We counted up all our passengers again, and now find there were 75 passengers and seven crew members," said TWA District Manager A. B. Krueger. "There are 18 survivors."

"That leaves 64 persons not accounted for. I don't want to say they are all dead, but I don't have much hope for finding any more survivors," Krueger added.

Six of the survivors were reported in serious or critical condition in various area hospitals.

Most of the injured were rushed to St. Elizabeth Hospital in Covington, Ky. Two-thirds of the nurses at the hospital resigned last week in a dispute with the management— but most of them reported back to work Monday night to care for the injured.

The debris-strewn crash scene is in an orchard about 1.5 miles north of the airport and not far from the spot where an American Airlines passenger plane crashed in 1965, killing 58 of 62 persons aboard.

Greater Cincinnati Airport is built south of the edge of a plateau above the Ohio River. The American Airlines plane smashed against the hillside 50 feet below the edge of the plateau. The TWA plane that crashed Monday night came down a few hundred yards past the edge, in plain sight of the runway lights.

The airport is on the Kentucky side of the Ohio River and about 15 miles southwest of downtown Cincinnati.

Members of the National Transport Safety Board team arrived during the night. Several of them visited the crash site in the dark, but one of them, Oscar Laurel, said nothing significant was found. He said the team would be fully organized today.

Woodrow McKay, chief tower controller at the airport, said "a pretty good fire broke out" after the plane hit.

More than a score of persons were waiting inside the airport restaurant for the arrival of friends and relatives.

Mrs. Maude Cuneo of Hebron, Ky., said she saw a "great ball of fire," that it looked to her as though the plane had "exploded in the air."

Dense smoke hung over the area and debris covered the ground at the scene of the crash. Light snow fell sporadically as ambulances hauled bodies away from the orchard. Floodlights illuminated the area.

Among the first at the scene was Capt. Paul Dickmann, commander of the Hebron, Ky., life squad.

"We were running across the field past a man and when we went on there was a man carrying a child from the burning wreckage of the plane," Dickmann said.

Kefauver's Widow Dies of Heart Attack

WASHINGTON (AP) — Nancy Kefauver, 56, widow of Tennessee Sen. Estes Kefauver and a State Department art adviser, collapsed at a formal Washington dinner and died in a hotel room Monday night.

She had been carried from the Mayflower Hotel's grand ballroom only a short time before President Johnson, a longtime friend of the Kefauvers, arrived to make a dinner speech. A police coroner said her death was due to "heart failure."

An aide said Johnson was advised of Mrs. Kefauver's death when he arrived at the hotel but decided to say nothing about it because few of those present were aware of what had happened. Mrs. Kefauver had died in a seventh-floor room of the hotel.

Johnson's speech was in tribute to the dinner's guest of honor, Senate Republican Leader Everett M. Dirksen.

The dinner, attended by more than 500, was an annual award event of the Veterans of the Office of Strategic Services (OSS).

Mrs. Kefauver attended with a cousin of her late husband, Malcolm Fooshee, a New York attorney.

Fooshee said Mrs. Kefauver "didn't seem to be herself" at the dinner.

Fooshee and friends carried Mrs. Kefauver to his hotel room after she slumped forward at the banquet table. An ambulance with oxygen and two doctors were summoned, but resuscitation efforts failed.

Mrs. Kefauver, vivacious and red-haired, was once a familiar figure in politics, campaigning for years with her tall Tennessee husband, who won five terms in the House, three in the Senate and ran in 1956 as vice presidential candidate on the unsuccessful Democratic ticket with Adlai Stevenson.

Kefauver called her "my secret weapon."

When Kefauver died in 1963 at the age of 60, friends and constituents urged Mrs. Kefauver to run for her husband's unexpired Senate term. She declined.

Drive Reaches Plateau

With about 85 per cent of the business solicitation completed the Sikeston United Fund has now collected more than $32,000, chairman Charles D. Matthews said today.

The total was tabulated Nov. 15, and represents a first plateau, Matthews said. The drive last year closed with a little more than $33,000 collected.

The goal this year is nearly $57,000.

About 50 per cent of the employee solicitation has been completed.

A telephone campaign is planned later this week, Matthews said.

A house-to-house canvas planned for December is expected to be the final phase of the drive this year.

Payroll deductions solicited from cooperating employers was the first major step in the drive this year. It was followed by a solicitation of companies with branch representatives serving or located in Sikeston. Business and employees solicitation followed and is still being conducted.

Agencies served by donations to the United Fund are, City Welfare, American Red Cross, Salvation Army, Missouri Delta Community Hospital, U. S. O., Boy Scouts, Girl Scouts and the Civil Air Patrol.

Meat Inspection Bill Advances

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate Agriculture Committee approved unanimously today a bill that would greatly extend federal inspection of the nation's meat supply.

The bill is the result of a compromise reached over the weekend by Sens. Joseph M. Montoya, D.N.M., and Walter F. Mondale, D.Minn., who previously sponsored differing versions.

"This is a remarkable victory for the American consumer," Mondale told newsmen. "It represents the end of a long, hard road," he said, in guaranteeing a wholesome meat supply.

"Our desire is to complete the report and file it as quickly as possible and hopefully bring it before the Senate Wednesday for final action," Montoya said.

If approved it would be sent to a Senate-House conference. The House has passed a bill that would provide federal financing of up to 50 per cent of the total cost to those states wishing to improve their inspection programs, but would not provide for federal inspections.

Federal law now applies only to meat packing, processing and slaughtering plants that are engaged in interstate commerce. The Agriculture Department estimates 15 per cent of the nation's meat supply, or about nine million pounds, is left to state or local inspection.

The Senate committee version would empower the Agriculture Department to take immediate action against any nonfederally inspected plant that endangers public health.

It a so would require states wishing to maintain their own inspection programs to establish standards "at least equal to" those of the federal government.

60 Merchants Are Delinquent

About 60 merchants have failed to pay their license fees, which became due July 1, City Collector Ronald Lee reported today.

The licenses were due and payable July 1, and became delinquent Aug. 1.

The failure to pay on time is in violation of a city ordinance and constitutes a misdemeanor. Persons who have not paid their license fees by Jan. 1, will be referred to the city attorney for collection.

Penalties will be assessed by the city judge.

Two Treated For Injuries

Two were treated Monday in the Missouri Delta Community hospital emergency room.

Richard Campbell, Jackson, turned ankle; Eugene Gardner, Bell City, cut thumb and finger on power saw.

Crash Toll May Hit 64

Jordan Clash Heats up

TEL AVIV (AP) — Israeli fighter-bombers streaked through pouring rain today to attack Jordanian tanks with rockets and bombs in the heaviest fighting on the Jordan River cease-fire line since the June war.

Pilots claimed six tanks and an armored car were destroyed, but one French-built Mystere jet was shot down by ground fire, the Israeli army said.

The pilot bailed out. Amman Radio reported he was killed.

The Jordanian radio claimed another Mystere was shot down, but the Israelis denied this.

The planes were ordered in during a fierce battle across the Jordan River—the fourth clash in as many days, which the Israelis charge was planned by Amman—between the Allenby and Umm Shart bridges.

Amman Radio said the Jordanians lost only one military vehicle and there were no casualties to Jordanian personnel. It claimed Israeli tanks and other equipment were set ablaze, two Israeli gun positions were destroyed and most of their personnel were killed.

Amman said King Hussein, now in London, was in constant telephone contact with his brother, Crown Prince Hassan, until the fighting stopped, and that Jordan's delegate to the United Nations had been instructed to inform U.N. members of the battle.

The Israelis said their air force went into action after the Jordanians moved tanks up to the cease-fire line and opened up across the river on a wide front.

The Jordanians charged that the Israelis began the attack with artillery and tank fire, then called in their planes when Jordanian positions returned the fire.

It was the fourth consecutive day of firing across the river.

An Israeli spokesman said Jordanian tanks opened fire at 8:45 a.m. (1:45 a.m. EST) a few miles south of the Umm-Shart Bridge, at a point where Israeli and Jordanian gunners dueled for two hours Monday.

"Israeli forces returned the fire to silence the source of the enemy shelling," the spokesman continued. "The enemy fire did not stop, so the air force was called in."

The Jordanian communique said the Israeli attack was concentrated in the area of the Allenby Bridge, 10 miles north of the Dead Sea and about 260 miles west of Amman, the Jordanian capital.

The Israeli spokesman said the firing stopped at 10:55 a.m. (3:55 a.m. EST) and "the sector is quiet for the moment."

Four Killed in Two Bootheel Accidents on Highways

Four lost their lives in highway accidents Monday in the Bootheel.

Three of the victims lost their lives in a headon crash on Interstate 55, one mile north of the Arkansas line. Two were from Hayti. The third was a Chicago woman whose husband was seriously injured.

The fourth lost his life when his truck caught fire after crashing into a bridge. He was Travis Vincent Poe, 50, route two Kennett.

The two-car collision occurred in Pemiscot county at 3:10 p.m. one mile north of the Arkansas line.

A 1967 Plymouth, driven by Lula Patterson, 71, Hayti, was traveling north in a southbound lane when whe collided with a 1966 Mercury, driven by Clarence Tabor, 55, of Chicago.

Killed were Mrs. Patterson, and a passenger in her car, Sarah Harrigan, Hayti, age unavailable.

Mrs. Tabor, a passenger in the Mercury, was the third fatality. The three died enroute to the Blytheville hospital.

Tabor is in the Blytheville hospital with fractured legs, broken ribs and cuts.

The body of Mrs. Patterson was taken to the Osborne Funeral Home in Hayti, and the body of Mrs. Harrigan to the Cobb Funeral Home in Blytheville. The body of Mrs. Tabor was taken to the Howard Funeral Home in Blytheville.

Poe was burned to death, when his 1965 Ford pickup truck struck a bridge bannister at 10:15 p.m. on highway 153, two miles east of White Oak in Dunklin county.

Poe's body was taken to the McDaniel Funeral Home in Kennett.

Westmoreland Says Viet War Nears Phase With End in View

WASHINGTON (AP)--Gen. William C. Westmoreland declared today the United States is about to enter a new phase of the Vietnam war in which "the end begins to come into view."

Westmoreland, commander of U. S. forces in Vietnam, predicted no target date for the end of the conflict, but he said already "the enemy's hopes are bankrupt."

His remarks came in a speech prepared for a National Press Club luncheon there.

The four-star general said the "new phase" of the war will begin next year with U. S. efforts to bring the South Vietnamese armed forces to such a point of combat effectiveness that eventually they can "taken on an ever-increasing share of the war."

Beyond 1968 -- he did not predict the exact time -- Westmoreland foresaw the United States moving into what he called "the final phase."

During that period, he predicted:

— The Communist structure in South Vietnam "will be cut up and near collapse."

— The Vietnamese army will show that it can handle the Viet Co g.

— South Vietnam's regional forces and popular forces will reach a higher level of professional performance.

— "U.S. units can begin to phase down as the Vietnamese army is modernized and develops its capacity to the fullest."

— "The military bases and ports will be progressively turned over to the Vietnamese."

Then, Westmoreland said, "the Vietnamese will take charge of the final mopping up of the Viet Cong," a task "which will probably last several years."

Westmoreland has mentioned the possibility of a U.S. phase-down in forces possibly within the next two years.

Today he specified that the first U.S. troops withdrawals would be "token."

"We have reached an important point when the end begins to come into view," Westmoreland asserted.

Beginning next year, he said, the United States plans to decrease the number of American advisers in South Vietnamese training centers "and other places where the professional competence of Vietnamese officers makes this possible."

At the same time more U.S. advisers will begin assisting the Vietnamese regional and popular forces.

As U.S. and allied forces continue "to destroy North Vietnamese foray" the South Vietnamese army will be given new military equipment to "revitalize" its effectiveness and prepared to take on more combat duties.

"I am absolutely certain that whereas in 1965 the enemy was winning, today he is certainly losing," Westmoreland said. "There are indications that the Viet Cong and even Hanoi know this.

"However, the enemy may be operating from the delusion that political pressure here combined with the tactical defeat of a major unit might force the U.S. to 'throw in the towel.'"

Westmoreland is in Washington for high level discussion on the war effort.

He portrayed his speech today as a progress report covering his four years in the war zone.

GOP Social Security Bid Fails

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate rejected 48 to 27 Tuesday a Republican move to boost Social Security taxes next year by $1.4 billion more than its Finance Committee recommended.

Sen. John J. Williams, R.Del., senior Republican on the committee and author of the amendment, argued that it should be adopted to let voters know the cost of the program before the 1968 elections.

Sen. Russell B. Long, D.La., the committee chairman and floor manager for the bill, declared the extra financing was entirely unnecessary.

Williams proposed that the Social Security tax rate paid by the individual and his employer be advanced to 4.8 per cent in 1968.

Under present law, and under both a House-passed version and the Senate committee's bill, it would stay at 4.4 per cent next year. The bill would raise it to 4.8 per cent in 1969.

The Senate bill would raise the taxable base from $6,600 to $8,000. Williams insisted, however, that under this plan two-thirds of the taxpayers would not have to pay any more next year.

Two changes were voted by the Senate Monday. The amendments would provide an extra $250 million a year to pay hospitals for elderly medicare patients, and require that states provide welfare aid for families with unemployed fathers.

Many important amendments remain to be considered.

Republican leaders announced they would make a major effort today to substitute the House version of Social Security cash benefits and taxes for the Senate Finance Committee's proposed schedules.

The committee voted for substantially larger monthly payments than the House as well as for bigger payroll taxes.

A bipartisan group of 15 senators said they plan to push amendments to the welfare sections of the bill designed to remove what they term coercive provisions which might force mothers on welfare to work.

The amendment to boost medicare payments to hospitals, sponsored by Sen. Jack Miller, R.Iowa, and adopted by voice vote, would make it possible to reimburse them on a per diem costs basis.

Social Security administration experts said this would boost payments by $250 million a year since it would mean averaging of costs over all classes of patients.

Elderly patients generally cost less than younger ones, they said, and up to now the administration has insisted on limiting reimbursement closely to the costs for the specific old persons involved.

Sen. Fred R. Harris, D.Okla., offered the amendment to require all states to put into effect by mid-1969 programs to provide welfare aid to families with dependent children and jobless fathers. It was adopted 39 to 36.

Under present law states are not required to include unemployed fathers in welfare assistance programs and only 22 do so.

Harris said this meant many fathers were leaving their families just to make them eligible for the Aid to Dependent Children program.

The cost of Harris' amendment was estimated at $60 million in federal funds plus $30 million to $35 million in state money.

Three senators from the two largest states, Sens. Thomas H. Kuchel, R.Calif., Jacob K. Javits, R.N.Y., and Robert F. Kennedy, D.N.Y., failed in a bid to soften a cutback in federal medicaid funds written into both the House and Senate Finance Committee bills.

January Draft Call Highest In 14 Months

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Pentagon today ordered the induction of 34,000 men into the Army in January, the highest draft call in 14 months.

The main reason for the high call, the Pentagon said, is that "the Army is now replacing the relatively large number of draftees originally inducted about two years ago when it was in its initial strength build-up" for the Vietnam war.

The total of 34,000 young men tabbed for induction in January compares with the November 1966 call of 37,600.

It more than doubles the average call this year of slightly more than 16,500.

The biggest monthly draft quota in 1967 totaled 29,000 in August.

The Pentagon said it expects that the average draft calls in the January-June period next year will be at a somewhat higher average level than the last six months of this year, with fluctuations from month to month.

Gratitude Mark of Maturity Club Told

"Be thankful God has created us. No people are more blessed than you and I."

It was the Rev. Joseph Wagner, pastor of the First Methodist church, speaking to the Rotary club about Thanksgiving, which will be observed Thursday.

"I am thankful for the things on which I can depend," the Rev. Mr. Wagner told the club meeting at the Rustic Rock Inn, "Honesty, decency, brotherhood, love, mercy and forgiveness."

The minister said that "the grateful heart is the mark of maturity".

"The immature always are wanting, always expecting. They ask 'what is in it for me?' Maturity is based on understanding what an individual has, loving life and letting people know it. The mature person is not a whimpering coward."

The Rev. Mr. Wagner was introduced by Ewart Taylor.

S. F. Duckworth presented the club with a check for $7 for the Rotary Foundation, which finances scholarships for study abroad. The occasion was his 70th birthday.

Paul R. Bumbarger presented the club with banners from the Falmouth and Bourne Rotary clubs in Massachusetts.

President Fred Koch announced that the club's Christmas party would be held Dec. 11 at 6 p.m. at the Holiday Inn. The club voted to have a gift exchange.

Kay Hawkins entertained with piano music.

Brutal Battle Goes on

SAIGON (AP) — While U.S. planes and artillery pounded dug-in North Vietnamese gunners, helicopter crews removed today the last of 140 American paratroopers wounded since Sunday in bitter fighting on the slopes of Hill 875.

Associated Press correspondent Peter Arnett reported one of the most brutal fights of the war under way as men of the 173rd Airborne Brigade attempted to take the remaining enemy bunkers on the hill in the central highlands 14 miles southwest of Dak To.

Short of food and water, the paratroopers battled stiff enemy fire as they continued their push to the summit. They used flamethrowers against the enemy's intricate bunker system.

U.S. jets pounded the entire area, attempting to keep to a schedule of one strike every 15 minutes. U.S. artillery gunners filled in the gaps.

Maj. Gen. William R. Peers said he felt the paratroopers would be on the summit of the hill late tonight.

U.S. casualties have mounted to at least 239 dead and 822 wounded during the 19 days of fighting around the Dak To Valley.

Although the North Vietnamese repeatedly drove off medical helicopters, five wounded men were lifted out Monday night. U.S. crewmen sped in and out of a clearing cut in the jungle growth and removed all the rest in a two-hour period today.

This was the second most costly battle of the Viet Nam war for American forces.

It rivaled in intensity the 1965 fighting in the Ia Drang valley — also just before Thanksgiving in the central highlands—in which 247 Americans were killed and 570 wounded. An estimated 1,200 North Vietnamese were killed then in a week of bloody fighting.

Brig. Gen. L. H. Schweiter, commander of the 173rd Airborne Brigade, said the North Vietnamese were dug in so well on Hill 875 the U.S. guns and bombs couldn't hit their bunkers.

"We're going to have to dig them out man by man," he said.

Although the North Vietnamese repeatedly drove off medical helicopters, a few got through and lifted out five wounded men Monday night and 20 more today. But at least 61 wounded were still with the beleaguered battalions on the hill late Tuesday, AP Correspondent John Lengel reported from the Dak To command post.

Over North Vietnam, U.S. warplanes hit targets in the Hanoi-Haiphong area Monday for the sixth consecutive day and the U.S. Command announced two more U.S. planes were lost, one to a Communist MIG21. One flier was missing.

This brought the total of U.S. combat planes announced lost over the North to 751, including 13 planes and 16 pilots since last Thursday.

The wounded trapped on Hill 875 near Dak To were part of the 173rd Airborne Brigade's 2nd battalion that had been battling Red troops on the hill since Sunday morning.

U.S. spokesmen reported 71 Americans killed so far in the battle for the hill, at least 20 of them when a bomb from a U.S. plane mistakenly dropped onto their position.

Three companies of the 173rd's 4th battalion joined the 2nd battalion on the hill Monday night, but an assault to try to knock out the enemy guns driving off the evacuation helicopters was postponed for the time being while U.S. artillery and planes kept up their attacks.

Report Stolen Electric Guitar, Two Accidents

Douglas Lambert, a member of The Escorts band, reported to police at 5:22 p.m. Monday that an electric guitar and case valued at $330 was stolen from Chambers Electric, 801 Park.

The group had been using the building to practice, and the instrument was taken Friday or Saturday night. A front window had been broken to gain entrance, police reported.

In other activity, Mrs. Vera Praul, 28, 400 William, was charged by police at 5:05 p.m. Monday with failure to yield the right of way. The car she was driving collided with an automobile driven by Neil B. Hahn, 28, Dexter, at Murray Lane and South Kingshighway, police reported.

Roy Roger Davis, 19, 264 East Kathleen, was charged at 12:38 p.m. Monday with failure to yield the right of way. The car he was driving collided on East Malone near Barkett's Big Star with a pickup truck driven by Darwin L. Davis, 39, Doniphan. No injuries resulted from either accident.

Brower to Preach At New Madrid

NEW MADRID - Union Thanksgiving services will be held Wednesday at 7:30 p.m. at the Presbyterian Church. The Rev. Floyd V. Brower, Poplar Bluff, Methodist district superintendent and interim pastor of the New Madrid Methodist church, will speak.

The choir will be of singers from the Baptist, Methodist, General Baptist and Presbyterian churches.

School Trains Christmas Help

Twenty five high school students will complete a special training session tomorrow to prepare them to work for merchants during the Christmas rush, David Miller, cooperative occupational education teacher, said today.

Wrapping packages, preparing sales slips and operating a cash register were drilled in the eight one - hour sessions conducted daily since Nov. 13, between 3:30 p.m. and 4:30 p.m., Miller said.

Most of the students do not have jobs yet. Merchants interested may contact Miller at the high school.

Rhame Will Preach At Union Service

The annual union Thanksgiving Service, sponsored by the Sikeston Ministerial Alliance, will be held at the First Baptist church tomorrow at 7:30 p.m.

Members of all faiths are invited to attend.

The Rev. John Rhame, pastor of the First Church of the Nazarene, will speak. The Rev. Mr. Rhame is a native of South Carolina and has been a pastor in Sikeston seven years. He attended college in Spartanburg, S. C., and studied music in Roanoke, Va., and Miami. He studied voice and choir direction under Dr. Howard Lyman, professor of music at Syracuse University.

He has been a pastor in Miami, Syracuse, Memphis, Jasper, Ala., and Tyler, Texas. He has preached and led music in evangelistic meetings.

The Rev. Joseph Wagner, pastor of the First Methodist church and president of the ministerial alliance, will preside. The Rev. James Hackney, pastor of the First Baptist church, will give a welcome and lead a responsive reading. The Rev. J. W. Guinn will lead the offertory prayer.

The Rev. Durward Penry, pastor of the First Christian church, will give the invocation and Dr. Robert Lively, pastor of Trinity Baptist church, will lead the benediction.

The First Baptists church will be in charge of the music.

A nursery for children three years of age and under will be open.

Judge Fines Six for Traffic Offenses

Henry Watson, Sikeston, charged with felonious burglary, appeared in magistrate court today and was given another week to get legal advice.

Judge M. E. Montgomery presided. Assistant Prosecuting Attorney Tom Gilmore represented the state.

Dorothy T. Kennedy, Charleston, charged with permitting an unauthorized person to operate a motor vehicle, was fined $5 and costs.

Woodrow Cummins, route two, Sikeston, charged with driving a motor vehicle while his operator's license was under suspension, was granted a change of venue to circuit court.

Dennis C. Hancock, Kennett, charged with speeding, was fined $27.50 and costs.

Oscar D. Northern, Benton, charged with illegal possession of intoxicants, continued until Dec. 5.

Stuart H. Kase, Berger, charged with failure to yield right of way, was fined $5 and costs.

Woodrow W. Pearson, route three, Sikeston, charged with operating a trailer without a license, was fined $5 and costs.

Shirley Ann Rudd, Chaffee, charged with speeding, was fined $10 and costs.

Richard J. Billman, Pesotum, Ill., charged with speeding, was fined $17.50 and costs.

City to Open Sewer, Water Work Bids

Bids will be opened at 2 p.m. today at the city administration building on work projects to extend and add to the city's water mains and sewer lines.

Among the projects to be bid is a water main from the south city limits to the north city limits along Highway 61, and a water main from the water plant on Center Street to the Gulf Chemical Co. on West Malone.

A new sewer line from the industrial laundry site will tie in to Malone, and sewer lines at the existing industrial tract at the airport will be increased, I. R. Inman, director of the City Light and Water Co. said.

The work is to be paid from the "$1,200,000 revenue and general obligation bonds approved in 1965, and sold this year.

It is now anticipated that bids will be taken in early December on a new 500,000 gallon elevated water tank north of the steam plant, and bids for expansion of the sewage treatment plant are expected to be let in early January, Inman said.

Council Votes City Clerk Out of Office

POPLAR BLUFF, Mo. (AP) — The city clerk of Poplar Bluff was voted out of office by the City Council Monday. Robert Snider, in the motion to oust him, was charged with neglect of office.

Snider denied the charge of alleged failure to order parking meter parts as directed by the council.

Named to replace Snider was Ralph Rideout.

Soviets Charged With Exploiting Deserters

WASHINGTON (AP) — The United States protested to the Soviet Union Tuesday against "assisting, harboring and exploiting" four young U.S. sailors who appeared on Moscow television and spoke against American policy in Vietnam.

The oral protest denounced Russia's action as "highly improper."

"Such conduct cannot fail to but complicate further the relations between our countries."

The U.S. objections were voiced to Soviet Ambassador Anatoly F. Dobrynin by Deputy Undersecretary of State Foy D. Kohlerin in a breef meeting at the State Department.

Banks Hike Lending Rate

NEW YORK (AP) — Chase Manhattan and First National City Bank, two key banks in the New York money market, today raised their prime lending rate to 6 per cent from 5½ effective immediately.

The move by Chase, second largest in the nation, and First National City, third largest, could trigger a nationwide increase in the prime rate. Banks outside New York usually follow the lead of the big money center institutions.

Other large New York banks, including Morgan Guaranty Trust and Manufacturers Hanover Trust, also joined in the raises. Banks in other sections of the country began raising their rate also.

Only 18 Aboard Located

CINCINNATI, Ohio (AP) — A team of federal investigators went to work today trying to determine why a TWA jet passenger plane crashed while approaching the Greater Cincinnati Airport Monday night, apparently killing 64 of 82 persons aboard.

"We counted up all our passengers again, and now find there were 75 passengers and seven crew members," said TWA District Manager A. B. Krueger. "There are 18 survivors."

"That leaves 64 persons not accounted for. I don't want to say they are all dead, but I don't have much hope for finding any more survivors," Krueger added.

Six of the survivors were reported in serious or critical condition in various area hospitals.

Most of the injured were rushed to St. Elizabeth Hospital in Covington, Ky. Two-thirds of the nurses at the hospital resigned last week in a dispute with the management—but most of them reported back to work Monday night to care for the injured.

The debris-strewn crash scene is in an orchard about 1.5 miles north of the airport and not far from the spot where an American Airlines passenger plane crashed in 1965, killing 58 of 62 persons aboard.

Greater Cincinnati Airport is built south of the edge of a plateau above the Ohio River. The American Airlines plane smashed against the hillside 50 feet below the edge of the plateau. The TWA plane that crashed Monday night came down a few hundred yards past the edge, in plain sight of the runway lights.

The airport is on the Kentucky side of the Ohio River and about 15 miles southwest of downtown Cincinnati.

Members of the National Transport Safety Board team arrived during the night. Several of them visited the crash site in the dark, but one of them, Oscar Laurel, said nothing significant was found. He said the team would be fully organized today.

Woodrow McKay, chief tower controller at the airport, said "a pretty good fire broke out" after the plane hit.

More than a score of persons were waiting inside the airport restaurant for the arrival of friends and relatives.

Mrs. Maude Cuneo of Hebron, Ky., said she saw a "great ball of fire," that it looked to her as though the plane had "exploded in the air."

Dense smoke hung over the area and debris covered the ground at the scene of the crash. Light snow fell sporadically as ambulances hauled bodies away from the orchard. Floodlights illuminated the area.

Among the first at the scene was Capt. Paul Dickmann, commander of the Hebron, Ky., life squad.

"We were running across the field past a man and when we went on there was a man carrying a child from the burning wreckage of the plane," Dickmann said.

Drive Reaches Plateau

With about 85 per cent of the business solicitation completed the Sikeston United Fund has now collected more than $32,000, chairman Charles D. Matthews said today.

The total was tabulated Nov. 15, and represents a first plateau, Matthews said. The drive last year closed with a little more than $33,000 collected.

The goal this year is nearly $57,000.

About 50 per cent of the employee solicitation has been completed.

A telephone campaign is planned later this week, Matthews said.

A house-to-house canvas planned for December is expected to be the final phase of the drive this year.

Payroll deductions solicited from cooperating employers was the first major step in the drive this year. It was followed by a solicitation of companies with branch representatives serving or located in Sikeston. Business and employees solicitation followed and is still being conducted.

Agencies served by donations to the United Fund are, City Welfare, American Red Cross, Salvation Army, Missouri Delta Community Hospital, U. S. O., Boy Scouts, Girl Scouts and the Civil Air Patrol.

Meat Inspection Bill Advances

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate Agriculture Committee approved unanimously today a bill that would greatly extend federal inspection of the nation's meat supply.

The bill is the result of a compromise reached over the weekend by Sens. Joseph M. Montoya, D.N.M., and Walter F. Mondale, D.Minn., who previously sponsored differing versions.

"This is a remarkable victory for the American consumer," Mondale told newsmen. "It represents the end of a long, hard road," he said, in guaranteeing a wholesome meat supply.

"Our desire is to complete the report and file it as quickly as possible and hopefully bring it before the Senate Wednesday for final action," Montoya said.

If approved it would be sent to a Senate-House conference. The House has passed a bill that would provide federal financing of up to 50 per cent of the total cost to those states wishing to improve their inspection programs, but would not provide for federal inspections.

Federal law now applies only to meat packing, processing and slaughtering plants that are engaged in interstate commerce. The Agriculture Department estimates 15 per cent of the nation's meat supply, or about nine million pounds, is left to state or local inspection.

The Senate committee version would empower the Agriculture Department to take immediate action against any nonfederally inspected plant that endangers public health.

It a so would require states wishing to maintain their own inspection programs to establish standards "at least equal to" those of the federal government.

Kefauver's Widow Dies of Heart Attack

WASHINGTON (AP) — Nancy Kefauver, 56, widow of Tennessee Sen. Estes Kefauver and a State Department art adviser, collapsed at a formal Washington dinner and died in a hotel room Monday night.

She had been carried from the Mayflower Hotel's grand ballroom only a short time before President Johnson, a longtime friend of the Kefauvers, arrived to make a dinner speech. A police coroner said her death was due to "heart failure."

An aide said Johnson was advised of Mrs. Kefauver's death when he arrived at the hotel but decided to say nothing about it because few of those present were aware of what had happened. Mrs. Kefauver had died in a seventh-floor room of the hotel.

Johnson's speech was in tribute to the dinner's guest of honor, Senate Republican Leader Everett M. Dirksen.

The dinner, attended by more than 500, was an annual award event of the Veterans of the Office of Strategic Services (OSS).

Mrs. Kefauver attended with a cousin of her late husband, Malcolm Fooshee, a New York attorney.

Fooshee said Mrs. Kefauver "didn't seem to be herself" at the dinner.

Fooshee and friends carried Mrs. Kefauver to his hotel room after she slumped forward at the banquet table. An ambulance with oxygen and two doctors were summoned, but resuscitation efforts failed.

Mrs. Kefauver, vivacious and red-haired, was once a familiar figure in politics, campaigning for years with her tall Tennessee husband, who won five terms in the House, three in the Senate and ran in 1956 as vice presidential candidate on the unsuccessful Democratic ticket with Adlai Stevenson.

Kefauver called her "my secret weapon."

When Kefauver died in 1963 at the age of 60, friends and constituents urged Mrs. Kefauver to run for her husband's unexpired Senate term. She declined.

60 Merchants Are Delinquent

About 60 merchants have failed to pay their license fees, which became due July 1, City Collector Ronald Lee reported today.

The licenses were due and payable July 1, and became delinquent Aug. 1.

The failure to pay on time is in violation of a city ordinance and constitutes a misdemeanor. Persons who have not paid their license fees by Jan. 1, will be referred to the city attorney for collection.

Penalties will be assessed by the city judge.

Two Treated For Injuries

Two were treated Monday in the Missouri Delta Community hospital emergency room.

Richard Campbell, Jackson, turned ankle; Eugene Gardner, Bell City, cut thumb and finger on power saw.

POOR CHARLIE SAYS!
A THANKSGIVING MESSAGE

How can anyone put his heart into "Thanksgiving" when there's so much violence and grief in the world?

It's not a new question. The Bible tells of good men who struggled hard for an answer.

But this is what they found:

The times of greatest trouble are the times when men need the spirit of Thanksgiving most of all.

Gratitude in the midst of "good times" and material prosperity comes all too easily, and is apt to be superficial.

When forced to look more deeply into life -- to find a more unselfish love and other riches of Spirit -- only then do we begin to discover the real meaning of Thanksgiving, to see more clearly man's constant debt to God for everything that is truly good.

This kind of thanksgiving, when challenged by adversity, only grows stronger.

Treachery and tyranny were closing in on him, the Bible says, but Daniel "prayed, and gave thanks before his God, as he did aforetime."

In the middle of a raging storm at sea, with the ship he was on about to be smashed on the rocks, Paul "took bread, and gave thanks to God in presence of them all."

Whether faced by hungry multitudes or standing before the tomb of Lazarus, Jesus first gave thanks.

In the sublimest example of all, on the night before his crucifixion, during the darkest hours the world has known, Jesus "took the cup, and gave thanks" -- and then invited those who were with him to share in his life.

The basis of his thanksgiving, as he indicated often, was a deep and constant acknowledgement of his imperishable unity with God -- something that filled his being and governed everything he did.

He expected that we too would feel it -- would say "our Father" because we really had to, because we saw it was so.

Isn't this the only basis for thanksgiving? Material blessings just don't go around. Tables are empty, and sometimes a chair is empty.

But there is always a reason for thanksgiving. It's built into the structure of things, and it never changes. We catch clear glimpses of it when we're moved by compassion, reaching out in totally unselfish love. Then we know ourselves better -- and our neighbor. And thanks flow out.

Perhaps what it comes down to is this:

To give thanks to God really means to give ourselves, our hearts and minds. This is only giving back what we owe to Him in the first place. But we must consciously give ourselves to God in order to know the blessing of what it means to be His sons.

"Simply asking that we may love God will never make us love Him," wrote Mary Baker Eddy, "but the longing to be better and holier, expressed in daily watchfulness and in striving to assimilate more of the divine character, will mould and fashion us anew, until we awake in His likeness."

The prophet Malachi summed it up:

"Bring ye all the tithes into the storehouse, that there may be meat in mine house, and prove me now herewith, saith the Lord of hosts, if I will not open you the windows of heaven, and pour you out a blessing, that there shall not be room enough to receive it."

Man oh man is the post office department after the newspapers. They came back and made us pay third class postage on a supplement that was put in our paper for carrier delivery only and did not go through the post office but in measuring that day's issue for advertising percentage it was, of course, included and sent to the post office and the inspectors jumped on it immediately. Since we had printed these supplements with third class mailing permit and had not removed the permit from those we inserted in our paper.

Due to the hell that the newspapers are giving the postal department over their lousy service and the new rate increase, we can expect trouble every time we fail to dot an i or cross a t.

General Motors is the largest business in the world in terms of sales volume and profits. The company also is the largest user of newspaper advertising among manufacturers.

Sears is the largest retail business in the world. It is also the largest user of retail newspaper advertising in the world.

The relationship of bigness and successful merchandising to the use of newspaper advertising is no coincidence. Sears and General Motors have grown big over the decades as the result of consistent appeal to the consumer on the local level.

Such great national companies have enormous facilities for testing the worth of their advertising efforts. They give every method of advertising a fair trial before investing millions of dollars. They continue to increase their newspaper advertising year after year.

Their sales have increased accordingly. The result is a constant reminder that all sales are local. No business grows so large that it can forget the individual consumer and the factors which cause him to make a final buying decision.

Conversely, no company is so small it can overlook the processes which lead to growth. Indeed the small local firm has more chance than giant national enterprises to profit from local newspaper advertising.

Newspaper advertising is more economical for the small local store than for the national firm.

Because of his specialized knowledge of the community, the local retailer should be able to do a better selling job with less space. And because people are truly interested in the success of a local firm, they will patronize it when advertising proves that the local store is competitive.

The California Taxpayer's Association News says: "California is not the only place with a major tax problem created by erosion of the tax base through exemptions. New York City, which is not only the largest city but the one with the greatest fiscal problems, recently found a third of its real estate is tax exempt. For New York City this meant of $47.4 billion in real estate, $16 billion was not subject to tax because it was owned by religious, charitable, nonprofit or other tax exempt institutions."

"Rube Goldberg" machines -- filled with all kinds of gadgets and materials -- are being used today to make your driving safer.

Some of them, used recently in Chicago on a 15-1/2 mile section of newly resurfaced expressway, include trucks that resemble elephants and hand machines containing hot plastic and millions of tiny glass beads.

What are they used for? These odd-looking machines are used to lay reflective center stripes and road-edge markings to guide your driving during the day and at night.

The truck used in Chicago, for example, was equipped to automatically clean, prime, apply a hot plastic stripe, then dust it with the glass beads.

In operation, a hose mounted 10 feet in front of the truck cleans the pavement. A spray nozzle that applies sealer-primer is located a few inches behind the nose.

Plastic slabs are fed into big heating kettles mounted on the truck. The plastic is melted and agitated at a temperature of 450 degrees. It is then fed into an applicator at the rear of the truck to lay a five-inch wide strip about one-eighth of an inch thick.

As the still-wet plastic sinks into the surface of the asphalt, it is dusted with glass beads by a sprinkler attachment.

Surface beads provide instant reflectivity while those mixed into the plastic become effective as the stripe wears down.

Hand-operated machines, in areas where it's impractical to use the truck, are used to apply sealer and plastic.

Such stripes, lane and road-edge markings provide a highly visible guide for you at night by shining brightly in your headlights.

One hundred and six members of the House of Representatives and 38 Senators joined in introducing the 1967 Home Ownership Bill, authored by Senator Charles Percy of Illinois. The legislation would authorize the establishment of a National Home Ownership Foundation. This foundation would raise $2 billion in private funds through the sale of bonds to provide mortgage assistance for lower income American families unable to afford or obtain conventional mortgage financing.

GENEVA DISARMAMENT CONFERENCES:
QUIXOTIC DASH TOWARD OBLIVION?

Disarmament is a declared aim of our government, having been described by officials in our government as "the only road to peace." Many Americans, puzzled by such statements find it hard to believe that the official disarmers really mean what they say, and write disarmament off as something that will not come to pass in our time.

It is in this kind of amiable tolerance that danger lurks. We should face the fact that disarmament would weaken or destroy us.

There are two difference kinds of disarmament policy today, and it is vital that every public-spirited citizen understand them.

The open, above-board disarmament policy is the policy involved in the long, fruitless -- and at times ridiculous -- quest for a paper agreement with the communist powers on control of armaments. Conducting this policy is the primary aim of the U. S. Arms Control and Disarmament Agency, set up in 1961.

This Agency carries on endless negotiations with the Russians at Geneva seeking some sort of formal disarmament agreement between the two supreme powers. These talks have been characterized by grand gestures by the U. S. to prove its sincerity, and by sullen demands by the Russian delegation for still more concessions.

Fortunately, a majority of Americans have too much common sense to be fooled or beguiled by this kind of shadow-play, and they would reject absolutely any attempt to "prove our good will" by promising to weaken our military strength. No disarmament agreement which required such a weakening, without guarantees of on-site inspection, would stand a chance of approval in the Senate (the Test-Ban Treaty was an exception). Nor would a President make such an agreement on his own authority, great as it is. The Kremlin has rejected any agreement for meaningful inspection, because its system of tyranny and aggression simply will not stand exposure.

This is the reason why this kind of disarmament policy is less dangerous: our present defensive strength is not to be traded away in the open. Any such plan must be debated in the open.

It is a very different case with the other brand of disarmament. This is "unilateral disarmament," which means disarming on our own, weakening ourselves by our own initiative, reducing our defensive strength in the blind hope that the Kremlin will follow suit by reducing its offensive strength.

The almost unbelievable theory on which this policy is based -- a theory quietly promoted for a long time by certain Washington deskmen and middle echelon policymakers -- is that the sole cause for the cold war is the Kremlin's alleged fear of the United States. This weird argument says that by reducing our military forces and making ourselves weaker we will frighten the Kremiln less and thus persuade its leaders to cut back on their own armaments.

This is not just a theory. For several years now it has been put into practice. Our strategic military force, the great reservoir of our war-deterrent strength, has been steadily reduced. Money spent on it has been cut by 40 per cent over a three-year period. Development and production of our new supersonic bombers, the B-58 and the B-70, have been halted or curtailed. Our present B-52 bombers are being retired ahead of schedule.

There is another example of unilateral, or one-way, disarmament. Last year we adopted, after bitter debate, the nuclear Test-Ban agreement with Russia covering all but underground explosions. No inspection to insure compliance was provided. We were told that inspection was unnecessary because any nuclear test in the air anywyere in the world could be detected. But at the same time we were assured that America would not lag in the development of nuclear weapons. We would be prepared at all times to test in the air if the Test-Ban treaty were broken, and from time to time we would carry out the underground tests permitted by the treaty.

There has been no sign since the treaty was ratified that these assurances were anything more than tranquillizers for worried patriots. There have been very few underground tests and no indications that any are being planned on a large scale. Further nuclear weapons development is rarely mentioned. The Test-Ban agreement is hailed again and again as a victory for "peace" -- when actually the only argument in its favor is the reduction in the slight radio-active fallout. As for peace, that does not depend on the absence of weapons but on the absence of aggression; where aggressive tyranny exists, the absence of weapons to oppose it merely makes peace less likely.

The peace we have today has been the result of our policy of deterrence. Deterrence comes from military strength, not weakness. The more terrible the destruction we could work on the aggressor's homeland, the safer we are and the more unlikely war becomes.

What can the American citizen do about our conflicting policies of disarmament and deterrence? Obviously he cannot decide which bombers and missiles should be built and which scrapped, nor can he conduct negotiations at Geneva. But there is one thing every patriotic American can and should do concerning this vital issue: he can help to clear up fuzzy disarmament thinking and persuade his friends and acquaintances to face reality. There is nothing noble about disarmament: it is a policy of weakness and appeasement in the face of a deadly enemy. At best it is foolishness and at worst it is cowardice. True nobility is found instead in resolve to defend ourselves and our liberty at any cost -- a resolve which alone can save freedom in our time.

TOMORROW

NOVEMBER 22 - WEDNESDAY NATIONAL INDEPENDENCE DAY. Nov. 22. Lebanon.

* * *

One of the best ways for motorists to give thanks on Thanksgiving Day, or any day, is to pledge that they will drive with respect for the rights and priveleges of all highway users, it was stated today by Colonel E. I. (Mike) Hockaday, Superintendent of the Missouri State Highway Patrol.

"Traffic accidents in our State have claimed over 1,100 liver so far this year," Hockaday declared. "This is a tragic harvest of death when we know safe practices in driving and walking can prevent such tragedy."

The Patrol Superintendent noted that 24 persons lost their lives over the Thanksgiving weekend last year. This was only six less than the record high for the past ten years of 30 deaths recorded in 1965.

Colonel Hockaday advised drivers to allow plenty of time to get to their destination over the coming holiday weekend and to practice patience in the heavy traffic which is sure to be in evidence.

"The Highway Patrol will be out in force to help keep traffic flowing smoothly over the Thanksgiving holiday weekend," he added. "We will also do our best to serve and protect the many people who will be using the State's highways. I urge drivers to take time to display an attitude of thanksgiving in their actions at the wheel and to be considerate of all they meet in their travels."

The official traffic fatality count for the Tnakdsgiving hiliday begins at 6 p.m., Wednesday, November 22, and ends at midnight, Sunday, November 26.

YOU, GOLD, & THE DRAIN

Recently, I was asked a serious question by a journalist who wondered if I saw any encouraging signs to indicate a chance that our American currency might be strengthened. He also tossed in a question about reversal of our present inflationary trends.

The only reply I could give was a cautious reference to the role of this country's bankers and general managers of our dollar economy. It is entirely possible, soundly, savely and slowly, to reverse the downward drift of dollar value, and to halt the rapid exodus of American dollars to foreign places. The only trouble is it takes an aroused and informed public to turn the trick.

Few of us fully understand just why the dollar bills we carry in our wallets and purses are the subject of so much controversy. To be sure, we know that business, industry and the public pay more dollars for the same goods and services and more in wages and fees than they did one or two decades ago. Our mental adding machines whir like mad and tell us it doesn't really matter, since most of us have more dollars than we used to have.

WHERE THE PROBLEM IS

That is where the problem begins. The number of dollars earned in labor, from investments, and in business do not keep pace with the increased cost of articles. In just six years, since the fiscal year 1959-1960, the real value of our dollar has dropped 10¢. Since the pivot year of 1939, it has lost in real value to a point below 40¢ of its purchasing value at that time. Thus, it takes $2.50 now to purchase the same amount of goods $1 bought in 1939; but that figure applies essentially to the basics of food, clothing, housing and health care. The base year of 1939 is of no use in testing resistance to inflation in newly-invented goods and services. Television, household appliances, electrical gadgets, air conditioning, widespread use of commercial air service, and a multitude of domestic goods and services were not purchased by the average family 25 years ago. The addition of these goods, services, and activities made credit mushroom rapidly in recent years.

Late last year, Federal Reserve Board Chairman William McChesney Martin in Washington warned that the only "chance to avoid another such disaster as the Great Depression" would be to heed certain danger signals. His frame of reference was in the spectrum of American currency use.

With much of the world depending upon the stability of the American dollar to suppoert international trade, we ought to look closely at the world picture, and the much talked about "balance of payments" problem. In July, 1944, a world money conference was held at Bretton Woods, N. H The United States, Great Britain, France and 41 other free world nations signed a remarkable treaty, which practically every non-Communist country on earth has embraced.

The treaty provides that every party to the agreement must set and maintain an official value for its money. The values set are translated in terms of United States dollars, or $35 per ounce of gold. All agree that when a nation has a surplus of another currency the latter nation will buy back its own money with either gold or United States currency. That naturally means that the nation holding such surpluses is obligated to sell its excess on those fixed terms.

The result is that the nation with a favorable balance of payments receives gold or American dollars; the country with an unfavorable balance of payments loses gold or dollars. It also pegs the United States dollar as the primary currency in the international system of money.

IMBALANCE

United States businesses have steadily invested more overseas than has been invested by here foreign nations for 14 of the last 15 years. The foreign aid programs contributed to this steady deficit in our balance of payments, and we have spent more than $100 billion in Europe, Asia, Africa and Latin America. During these years, we engaged in foreign give-away programs and our loss in gold since 1957 has totalled $9 billion.

The second most powerful currency in free world trade is the British pound sterling system. Late in 1964, the British pound all but collapsed, and would have created financial havoc had it not been for an emergency action by 11 friendly nations. These western powers, including the United States, pledged up to $3 billion to bolster the faltering pound.

The warning from Federal Reserve Board Chairman Martin drew hard, long looks from private and public currency authorities in the United States. England's near crisis was born almost entirely of an unfavorable balance of payments.

MEANING FOR INDIVIDUALS

So that we can identify ourselves with this complex picture, let's use an example. First of all, gold is the world standard of value for currency. In our circles in world commerce gold is pegged at that famous $35 an ounce. The plan is that you could go to a London bank that deals in foreign exchange. There you would take your United States dollars and buy British pounds and smaller denominations. What you have done is issue a "check" against U.S. gold reserves in Fort Knox. England, in fact any holding country, has a legal claim on U.S. gold equal to the dollar holding. Remember, this means dollars in bank vaults, stores, or in a private citizens pocket. It's the same in every country where we do business. Only because these transactions go on constantly, treaty nations accept currency rather than insist on gold each time. But the obligations is there, all the same. If demand is made, gold will have to be paid. That is why the drain on U.S. gold reserves is a grave matter.

The United States gold reserves in 1957 stood at a healthy $22.8 billion. That was sufficient to back U. S. currency in circulation both at home and abroad. Today that reserve stands at less than $13.8 billion and is far from sufficient. The American obligation in dollars currently held by foreign countries totals more than $13 billion, almost as much as the remaining U. S. balance. In addition to obligations in foreign exchange we also must guarantee the domestic money supply. With approximately $55 billion in currency. Obviously one $14 billion supply cannot match both the balance of payments and currency support obligations.

One recommendation is to eliminate the 25 percent gold base for our American currency in circulation. Proponents of this plan argue that deleting the required gold support at home would free our entire reserve to guarantee our foreign obligations. But this probably will not accomplish either desired objective. First, we should be reducing the total of American dollars held as a result of foreign trade: the removal of gold guarantees of the dollar could accelerate the imbalance. Second, tightening the dollar flow overseas would increase foreign confidence in our domestic stability, while deletion of the 25 percent factor would serve to frightened foreign governments holding dollars. That would, in turn, surely result in even greater runs on the U.S. gold supply.

STABILIZER ROLE

Unless American outpouring of dollars to other nations is reduced, those countries will lose confidence in our currency. The U. S. could easily lose position as the stabilizer of western international trade.

An encouraging sign is that leading bankers all over the United States are sounding words of caution. Backstage moves are being made to encourage a reduction on the overseas deficits we have been running up in recent years. A move to tighten credit gradually, increase interest rates, and slowly reduce overall credit is gaining momentum.

At the same time, eliminating waste in federal giveaway programs, and slowing or halting the process that builds superhighways to raids on the treasury would add power to our currency.

That is why men like George Champion, Board Chairman of the Chase Manhattan Bank, are adding their voices to that of William McChesney Martin. Champion says:

"The government's programs consist of short-run measures aimed at achieving quick results. But the balance of payments is essentially a long-run problem."

That is precisely why the individual citizen must raise questions about mismanagement which jeopardizes the value of the dollars he earns.

FIRE BUFF PLAYS IT COOL

Applicants for membership in the International Fire Buffs Association are carefully screened for six months.

One of the prime qualifications is that these compulsive fire-attenders know how to behave themselves at fires.

"We don't want somebody trying to tell the fire chief how to run the show," IFBS President George Beaumont emphasized at a recent convention in St. Louis.

People responsible for getting things done in almost any line of endeavor will voice a hearty "Amen!" to that -- especially and most literally those in the theatrical profession.

How they must wish the same rule applied to reviewers and critics!

H.L. Hunt Says

GROWTH OF COMMUNIST PARTIES IN WESTERN EUROPE

One of the main arguments given for encouraging trade and greater contacts with Eastern European countries and the Soviet Union is that "better understanding" and a more tolerant relationship between East and West will result. This assumes that a lessening of our opposition of communism is desirable; that we would benefit by opening our gates to the natural enemy of everything constructive throughout the free world.

If the people in Western Europe and the United States see that our government is not only condoning but actually advocating trade with Eastern Europe, they will come to believe that the communist dictatorships are the legitimate governments of these countries. They will begin to think of communism as merely a different form of government, rather than as an ideology completely alien and hostile to freedom.

Recent events in two Western European countries have provided evidence that an increasing number of people are losing sight of the dangers of communism. In both France and Italy, the local communist parties have scored significant election gains.

It seems likely, therefore, that the growing acceptance of communist dictator governments by the duly constituted governments of free people in the West has produced a sense of false security and complacency toward communism in general. This attitude can be very dangerous consequences for the future of the free world.

Especially now that we are actually at war with communism in Vietnam, the U. S. must recognize the communism is evil and remains an enemy of freedom. All trade and aid to communist nations should be stopped and contact sought with the oppressed people, not the communist governments and their chosen representatives. HLH

NEW YORK (AP) — Barbie is off for Vietnam, along with Batman, Little Snoopy and a host of other toys American children will find under the Christmas tree.

A toy salesman on a one-man campaign, individual toy companies, charity organizations and GIs in Vietnam already have helped get toys to thousands of Vietnamese youngsters for Tet Tan Sun, the Vietnamese new year. More are on the way.

"Last year we donated a few toys to two orphanages in Vietnam, and from the letters of gratitude and the pictures of the children receiving the toys, we know how much good it can do, not only for these needy tots, but for the American image abroad," said H. H. Coords, president of Fisher-Price Toys, Inc., the preschool toy manufacturer in East Aurora, N.Y.

This fall, 100,000 wagons and balls, wheelbarrows and balloons, dolls and games, have been donated to be distributed by the Marines as part of their civic action program.

"I'm not a crusader or anything, but I thought it was right," said Jay Krotman, 31, the New York toy salesman who organized drive. "My next-door neighbor is a retired Marine major, and he told me about this civic action program to help the Vietnamese.

"I sent out 325 letters, and 60 per cent responded. They were great. One manufacturer in New Jersey sent 96 cartons."

Krotman asked for—and got—art supplies, baby toys, gym sets, plastic toys, puzzles, models and plush animals.

"Please don't send any guns and war toys," he asked. He said Marines suggested no guns.

Some toy guns have been shipped to Vietnam under other programs, however.

Daisy-Heddon division of Victor Comptometer Corp., Rogers, Ark., has sent cap pistols, toy rifles and gun holster sets to individual servicemen to give to children in their areas "almost since the first Christmas U.S. servicemen spent in Vietnam." This year it increased its contribution to 1,000 items, 200 more than in 1966.

Catholic Rlief Services will distribute nearly 2,000 abandoned Barbie dolls traded in by their young American owners on a newer, twistier model.

Hundreds of other toys will be distributed by servicemen.

Pfc. Mike Voorhees saw the children in the village of Xuam Ho and wrote home to Tonka Corp. at Mound, Minn., which sent off 125 steel trucks.

"What you have done has brought smiles and happiness over the faces of 125 children," Voorhees wrote back.

Washington Merry - Go - Round

By Drew Pearson

DREW PEARSON AND JACK ANDERSON SAY: Westmoreland says present Vietnam force is adequate; he disclaims "problems" with McNamara; Bobby Kennedy was once urged to become ambassador to South Vietnam.

WASHINGTON -- Gen. William Westmoreland told a closed meeting of the house armed services committee that he saw no need at the present time to increase our armed forces in Vietnam, now numbering about 500,000 troops.

He also strongly indicated that this number might be enough to carry us through the war, though he didn't definitely commit himself. Nor would he comment on how soon the war could be brought to a close.

He did, however, say that we could begin a "phaseout" of our mission in Vietnam -- meaning a turnover of combat operations on a larger scale to the South Vietnamese -- if the effectiveness of South Vietnamese troops continued to improve.

"I can report to you that there has been a steady improvement in the effectiveness of these troops in every way, including morale and discipline," he said. "They are reliable combat soldiers in the majority and we are not having AWOL problems to speak of.

"We have already served notice on Vietnamese leaders regarding these phaseout plans and have told them that they must buckle down and unite their people for this eventuality. We have emphasized that we are not a colonial power, that we can't stay there permanently, and that we intend to start pulling out."

One important factor that could upset phaseout plans, he said, would be if the Russians and Chinese sent in technicians and workmen to replace North Vietnamese now engaged in noncombat chores behind the lines, such as repairing roads, bridges and airfields.

Under questioning by chairman Mendel Rivers, D-S.C., a bitter foe of defense secretary Robert McNamara, Westmoreland flatly denied that he was having any "problems" with McNamara.

"Our relations have been quite good, in fact," he said. "I'm a military man and realize that the secretary has to deal with nonmilitary considerations as the civilian head of the defense department."

"Are you getting all the men you need?" asked Rivers.

"Yes, I am getting all I need at the present time-- all I am asking for," he replied.

AMBASSADOR KENNEDY?

Only a few people know it, but at one time President Johnson tried to persuade Sen. Robert F. Kennedy to become ambassador to South Vietnam.

Bobby toyed with the idea quite seriously but finally rejected the venture into diplomacy.

The idea was challenging, because Sen. Kennedy has long felt more could be done toward peace negotiations with the north; and if he had been in the strategic post of U.S. Ambassador in Saigon, he could have helped to mold South Vietnamese leaders toward a more conciliatory position toward Ho Chi Minh. Most of the South Vietnamese leaders are refugees from North Vietnam and know Ho well.

Bobby was also not unaware of the fact that it was his late brother, the President, who took the most important step in involving the United States in the war by sending approximately 30,000 troops to South Vietnam in the fall of 1961. Previously, Eisenhower had kept only 1,000 to 2,000 American troop advisers in South Vietnam. But President Kennedy, worried over the bay of pigs fiasco and his psychological defeat at the Vienna conference with Premier Khrushchev, was looking for a move to build up his own prestige and that of the United States.

So in the late summer of 1961 he sent Gen. Maxwell Taylor and his chief foreign affairs adviser, Walt Rostow, to Saigon to make a survey. Where they wrote a strong recommendation that the United States intervene on a massive scale. President Kennedy accepted that recommendation.

This was how U.S. intervention in depth first began.

Note -- Some critics believe part of Johnson's troubles stem from the fact that he has kept Walt Rostow as his No. 1 foreign affairs adviser, a man who wants to prove that his original recommendation, no matter how wrong, was right.

Mrs. Green -- "Yes."

Hays -- "Well, I must say that I cannot agree with that. I just do not believe it has happened in that way."

Rep. Hastings Keith, R-Mass.-- "This recalls a debate that allegedly occurred in the French parliament, where they were talking about the difference be-

Hays -- "And someone said, 'Vive La Difference?"

Keith -- "Yes."

Hays -- "I am for that, also."

Keith -- "Merci Beaucoup."

POOR CHARLIE SAYS!
A THANKSGIVING MESSAGE

How can anyone put his heart into "Thanksgiving" when there's so much violence and grief in the world?

It's not a new question. The Bible tells of good men who struggled hard for an answer.

But this is what they found:

The times of greatest trouble are the times when men need the spirit of Thanksgiving most of all.

Gratitude in the midst of "good times" and material prosperity comes all too easily, and is apt to be superficial.

When forced to look more deeply into life -- to find a more unselfish love and other riches of Spirit -- only then do we begin to discover the real meaning of Thanksgiving, to see more clearly man's constant debt to God for everything that is truly good.

This kind of thanksgiving, when challenged by adversity, only grows stronger.

Treachery and tyranny were closing in on him, the Bible says, but Daniel "prayed, and gave thanks before his God, as he did aforetime."

In the middle of a raging storm at sea, with the ship he was on about to be smashed on the rocks, Paul "took bread, and gave thanks to God in presence of them all."

Whether faced by hungry multitudes or standing before the tomb of Lazarus, Jesus first gave thanks.

In the sublimest example of all, on the night before his crucifixion, during the darkest hours the world has known, Jesus "took the cup, and gave thanks" -- and then invited those who were with him to share in his life.

The basis of his thanksgiving, as he indicated often, was a deep and constant acknowledgement of his imperishable unity with God -- something that filled his being and governed everything he did.

He expected that we too would feel it -- would say "our Father" because we really had to, because we saw it was so.

Isn't this the only basis for thanksgiving? Material blessings just don't go around. Tables are empty, and sometimes a chair is empty.

But there is always a reason for thanksgiving. It's built into the structure of things, and it never changes. We catch clear glimpses of it when we're moved by compassion, reaching out in totally unselfish love. Then we know ourselves better -- and our neighbor. And thanks flow out.

Perhaps what it comes down to is this:

To give thanks to God really means to give ourselves, our hearts and minds. This is only giving back what we owe to Him in the first place. But we must consciously give ourselves to God in order to know the blessing of what it means to be His sons.

"Simply asking that we may love God will never make us love Him," wrote Mary Baker Eddy, "but the longing to be better and holier, expressed in daily watchfulness and in striving to assimilate more of the divine character, will mould and fashion us anew, until we awake in His likeness."

The prophet Malachi summed it up:

"Bring ye all the tithes into the storehouse, that there may be meat in mine house, and prove me now herewith, saith the Lord of hosts, if I will not open you the windows of heaven, and pour you out a blessing, that there shall not be room enough to receive it."

Man oh man is the post office department after the newspapers. They came back and made us pay third class postage on a supplement that was put in our paper for carrier delivery only and did not go through the post office but in measuring that day's issue for advertising percentage it was, of course, included and sent to the post office and the inspectors jumped on it immediately. Since we had printed these supplements with third class mailing permit and had not removed the permit from those we inserted in our paper.

Due to the hell that the newspapers are giving the postal department over their lousy service and the new rate increase, we can expect trouble every time we fail to dot an i or cross a t.

General Motors is the largest business in the world in terms of sales volume and profits. The company also is the largest user of newspaper advertising among manufacturers.

Sears is the largest retail business in the world. It is also the largest user of retail newspaper advertising in the world.

The relationship of bigness and successful merchandising to the use of newspaper advertising is no coincidence. Sears and General Motors have grown big over the decades as the result of consistent appeal to the consumer on the local level.

Such great national companies have enormous facilities for testing the worth of their advertising efforts. They give every method of advertising a fair trial before investing millions of dollars. They continue to increase their newspaper advertising year after year.

Their sales have increased accordingly. The result is a constant reminder that all sales are local. No business grows so large that it can forget the individual consumer and the factors which cause him to make a final buying decision.

Conversely, no company is so small it can overlook the processes which lead to growth. Indeed the small local firm has more chance than giant national enterprises to profit from local newspaper advertising.

Newspaper advertising is more economical for the small local store than for the national firm.

Because of his specialized knowledge of the community, the local retailer should be able to do a better selling job with less space. And because people are truly interested in the success of a local firm, they will patronize it when advertising proves that the local store is competitive.

The California Taxpayer's Association News says: "California is not the only place with a major tax problem created by erosion of the tax base through exemptions. New York City, which is not only the largest city but the one with the greatest fiscal problems, recently found a third of its real estate is tax exempt. For New York City this meant of $47.4 billion in real estate, $16 billion was not subject to tax because it was owned by religious, charitable, nonprofit or other tax exempt institutions."

"Rube Goldberg" machines -- filled with all kinds of gadgets and materials -- are being used today to make your driving safer.

Some of them, used recently in Chicago on a 15-1/2 mile section of newly resurfaced expressway, include trucks that resemble elephants and hand machines containing hot plastic and millions of tiny glass beads.

What are they used for? These odd-looking machines are used to lay reflective center stripes and road-edge markings to guide your driving during the day and at night.

The truck used in Chicago, for example, was equipped to automatically clean, prime, apply a hot plastic stripe, then dust it with the glass beads.

In operation, a hose mounted 10 feet in front of the truck cleans the pavement. A spray nozzle that applies sealer-primer is located a few inches behind the nose.

Plastic slabs are fed into big heating kettles mounted on the truck. The plastic is melted and agitated at a temperature of 450 degrees. It is then fed into an applicator at the rear of the truck to lay a five-inch wide strip about one-eighth of an inch thick.

As the still-wet plastic sinks into the surface of the asphalt, it is dusted with glass beads by a sprinkler attachment.

Surface beads provide instant reflectivity while those mixed into the plastic become effective as the stripe wears down.

Hand-operated machines, in areas where it's impractical to use the truck, are used to apply sealer and plastic.

Such stripes, lane and road-edge markings provide a highly visible guide for you at night by shining brightly in your headlights.

One hundred and six members of the House of Representatives and 38 Senators joined in introducing the 1967 Home Ownership Bill, authored by Senator Charles Percy of Illinois. The legislation would authorize the establishment of a National Home Ownership Foundation. This founcation would raise $2 billion in private funds through the sale of bonds to provide mortgage assistance for lower income American families unable to afford or obtain conventional mortgage financing.

GENEVA DISARMAMENT CONFERENCES:
QUIXOTIC DASH TOWARD OBLIVION?

Disarmament is a declared aim of our government, having been described by officials in our government as "the only road to peace." Many Americans, puzzled by such statements find it hard to believe that the official disarmers really mean what they say, and write disarmament off as something that will not come to pass in our time.

It is in this kind of amiable tolerance that danger lurks. We should face the fact that disarmament would weaken or destroy us.

There are two difference kinds of disarmament policy today, and it is vital that every public-spirited citizen understand them.

The open, above-board disarmament policy is the policy involved in the long, fruitless -- and at times ridiculous -- quest for a paper agreement with the communist powers on control of armaments. Conducting this policy is the primary aim of the U. S. Arms Control and Disarmament Agency, set up in 1961.

This Agency carries on endless negotiations with the Russians at Geneva seeking some sort of formal disarmament agreement between the two supreme powers. These talks have been characterized by grand gestures by the U. S. to prove its sincerity, and by sullen demands by the Russian delegation for still more concessions.

Fortunately, a majority of Americans have too much common sense to be fooled or beguiled by this kind of shadow-play, and they would reject absolutely any attempt to "prove our good will" by promising to weaken our military strength. No disarmament agreement which required such a weakening, without guarantees of on-site inspection, would stand a chance of approval in the Senate (the Test-Ban Treaty was an exception). Nor would a President make such an agreement on his own authority, great as it is. The Kremlin has rejected any agreement for meaningful inspection, because its system of tyranny and aggression simply will not stand exposure.

This is the reason why this kind of disarmament policy is less dangerous: our present defensive strength is not to be traded away in the open. Any such plan must be debated in the open.

It is a very different case with the other brand of disarmament. This is "unilateral disarmament," which means disarming on our own, weakening ourselves by our own initiative, reducing our defensive strength in the blind hope that the Kremlin will follow suit by reducing its offensive strength.

The almost unbelievable theory on which this policy is based -- a theory quietly promoted for a long time by certain Washington deskmen and middle echelon policymakers -- is that the sole cause for the cold war is the Kremlin's alleged fear of the United States. This weird argument says that by reducing our military forces and making ourselves weaker we will frighten the Kremiln less and thus persuade its leaders to cut back on their own armaments.

This is not just a theory. For several years now it has been put into practice. Our strategic military force, the great reservoir of our war-deterrent strength, has been steadily reduced. Money spent on it has been cut by 40 per cent over a three-year period. Development and production of our new supersonic bombers, the B-58 and the B-70, have been halted or curtailed. Our present B-52 bombers are being retired ahead of schedule.

There is another example of unilateral, or one-way, disarmament. Last year we adopted, after bitter debate, the nuclear Test-Ban agreement with Russia covering all but underground explosions. No inspection to insure compliance was provided. We were told that inspection was unnecessary because any nuclear test in the air anywyere in the world could be detected. But at the same time we were assured that America would not lag in the development of nuclear weapons. We would be prepared at all times to test in the air if the Test-Ban treaty were broken, and from time to time we would carry out the underground tests permitted by the treaty.

There has been no sign since the treaty was ratified that these assurances were anything more than tranquillizers for worried patriots. There have been very few underground tests and no indications that any are being planned on a large scale. Further nuclear weapons development is rarely mentioned. The Test-Ban agreement is hailed again and again as a victory for "peace" -- when actually the only argument in its favor is the reduction in the slight radio-active fallout. As for peace, that does not depend on the absence of weapons but on the absence of aggression; where aggressive tyranny exists, the absence of weapons to oppose it merely makes peace less likely.

The peace we have today has been the result of our policy of deterrence. Deterrence comes from military strength, not weakness. The more terrible the destruction we could work on the aggressor's homeland, the safer we are and the more unlikely war becomes.

What can the American citizen do about our conflicting policies of disarmament and deterrence? Obviously he cannot decide which bombers and missiles should be built and which scrapped, nor can he conduct negotiations at Geneva. But there is one thing every patriotic American can and should do concerning this vital issue: he can help to clear up fuzzy disarmament thinking and persuade his friends and acquaintances to face reality. There is nothing noble about disarmament; it is a policy of weakness and appeasement in the face of a deadly enemy. At best it is foolishness and at worst it is cowardice. True nobility is found instead in resolve to defend ourselves and our liberty at any cost -- a resolve which alone can save freedom in our time.

TOMORROW
NATIONAL INDEPENDENCE DAY. Nov. 22. Lebanon.

* * *

One of the best ways for motorists to give thanks on Thanksgiving Day, or any day, is to pledge that they will drive with respect for the rights and priveleges of all highway users, it was stated today by Colonel E. I. (Mike) Hockaday, Superintendent of the Missouri State Highway Patrol.

"Traffic accidents in our State have claimed over 1,100 liver so far this year," Hockaday declared. "This is a tragic harvest of death when we know safe practices in driving and walking can prevent such tragedy."

The Patrol Superintendent noted that 24 persons lost their lives over the Thanksgiving weekend last year. This was only six less than the record high for the past ten years of 30 deaths recorded in 1965.

Colonel Hockaday advised drivers to allow plenty of time to get to their destination over the coming holiday weekend and to practice patience in the heavy traffic which is sure to be in evidence.

"The Highway Patrol will be out in force to help keep traffic flowing smoothly over the Thanksgiving holiday weekend," he added. "We will also do our best to serve and protect the many people who will be using the State's highways. I urge drivers to take time to display an attitude of thanksgiving in their actions at the wheel and to be considerate of all they meet in their travels."

The official traffic fatality count for the Tnakdsgiving hilliday begins at 6 p.m., Wednesday, November 22, and ends at midnight, Sunday, November 26.

YOU, GOLD, & THE DRAIN

Recently, I was asked a serious question by a journalist who wondered if I saw any encouraging signs to indicate a chance that our American currency might be strengthened. He also tossed in a question about reversal of our present inflationary trends.

The only reply I could give was a cautious reference to the role of this country's bankers and general managers of our dollar economy. It is entirely possible, soundly, savely and slowly, to reverse the downward drift of dollar value, and to halt the rapid exodus of American dollars to foreign places. The only trouble is it takes an aroused and informed public to turn the trick.

Few of us fully understand just why the dollar bills we carry in our wallets and purses are the subject of so much controversy. To be sure, we know that business, industry and the public pay more dollars for the same goods and services and more in wages and fees than they did one or two decades ago. Our mental adding machines whir like mad and tell us it doesn't really matter, since most of us have more dollars than we used to have.

WHERE THE PROBLEM IS

That is where the problem begins. The number of dollars earned in labor, from investments, and in business do not keep pace with the increased cost of articles. In just six years, since the fiscal year 1959-1960, the real value of our dollar has dropped 10¢. Since the pivot year of 1939, it has lost in real value to a point below 40¢ of its purchasing value at that time. Thus, it takes $2.50 now to purchase the same amount of goods $1 bought in 1939; but that figure applies essentially to the basics of food, clothing, housing and health care. The base year of 1939 is of no use in testing resistance to inflation in newly-invented goods and services. Television, household appliances, electrical gadgets, air conditioning, widespread use of commercial air service, and a multitude of domestic goods and services were not purchased by the average family 25 years ago. The addition of these goods, services, and activities made credit mushroom rapidly in recent years.

Late last year, Federal Reserve Board Chairman William McChesney Martin in Washington warned that the only "chance to avoid another such disaster as the Great Depression" would be to heed certain danger signals. His frame of reference was in the spectrum of American currency use.

With much of the world depending upon the stability of the American dollar to suppoert international trade, we ought to look closely at the world picture, and the much talked about "balance of payments" problem. In July, 1944, a world money conference was held at Bretton Woods, N. H. The United States, Great Britain, France and 41 other free world nations signed a remarkable treaty, which practically every non-Communist country on earth has embraced.

The treaty provides that every party to the agreement must set and maintain an official value for its money. The values set are translated in terms of United States dollars, or $35 per ounce of gold. All agree that when a nation has a surplus of another currency the latter nation will buy back its own money with either gold or United States currency. That naturally means that the nation holding such surpluses is obligated to sell its excess on those fixed terms.

The result is that the nation with a favorable balance of payments receives gold or American dollars; the country with an unfavorable balance of payments loses gold or dollars. It also pegs the United States dollar as the primary currency in the international system of money.

IMBALANCE

United States businesses have steadily invested more overseas than has been invested by here foreign nations for 14 of the last 15 years. The foreign aid programs contributed to this steady deficit in our balance of payments, and we have spent more than $100 billion in Europe, Asia, Africa and Latin America. During these years, we engaged in foreign give-away programs and our loss in gold since 1957 has totalled $9 billion.

The second most powerful currency in free world trade is the British pound sterling system. Late in 1964, the British pound all but collapsed, and would have created financial havoc had it not been for an emergency action by 11 friendly nations. These western powers, including the United States, pledged up to $3 billion to bolster the faltering pound.

The warning from Federal Reserve Board Chairman Martin drew hard, long looks from private and public currency authorities in the United States. England's near crisis was born almost entirely of an unfavorable balance of payments.

MEANING FOR INDIVIDUALS

So that we can identify ourselves with this complex picture, let's use an example. First of all, gold is the world standard of value for currency. In our circles in world commerce gold is pegged at that famous $35 an ounce. The plan is that you could go to a London bank that deals in foreign exchange. There you would take your United States dollars and buy British pounds and smaller denominations. What you have done is issue a "check" against U.S. gold reserves in Fort Knox. England, in fact any holding country, has a legal claim on U.S. gold equal to the dollar holding. Remember, this means dollars in bank vaults, stores, or in a private citizens pocket. It's the same in every country where we do business. Only because these transactions go on constantly, treaty nations accept currency rather than insist on gold each time. But the obligations is there, all the same. If demand is made, gold will have to be paid. That is why the drain on U.S. gold reserves is a grave matter.

The United States gold reserves in 1957 stood at a healthy $22.8 billion. That was sufficient to back U. S. currency in circulation both at home and abroad. Today that reserve stands at less than $13.8 billion and is far from sufficient. The American obligation in dollars currently held by foreign countries totals more than $13 billion, almost as much as the remaining U. S. balance. In addition to obligations in foreign exchange we also must guarantee the domestic money supply. With approximately $55 billion in currency. Obviously one $14 billion supply cannot match both the balance of payments and currency support obligations.

One recommendation is to eliminate the 25 percent gold base for our American currency in circulation. Proponents of this plan argue that deleting the required gold supnort at home would free our entire reserve to guarantee our foreign obligations. But this probably will not accomplish either desired objective. First, we should be reducing the total of American dollars held as a result of foreign trade: the removal of gold guarantees of the dollar could accelerate the imbalance. Second, tightening the dollar flow overseas would increase foreign confidence in our domestic stability, while deletion of the 25 percent factor would serve to frightened foreign governments holding dollars. That would, in turn, surely result in even greater runs on the U.S. gold supply.

STABILIZER ROLE

Unless American outpouring of dollars to other nations is reduced, those countries will lose confidence in our currency. The U. S. could easily lose position as the stabilizer of western international trade.

An encouraging sign is that leading bankers all over the United States are sounding words of caution. Backstage moves are being made to encourage a reduction on the overseas deficits we have been running up in recent years. A move to tighten credit gradually, increase interest rates, and slowly reduce overall credit is gaining momentum.

At the same time, eliminating waste in federal giveaway programs, and slowing or halting the process that builds superhighways to raids on the treasury would add power to our currency.

That is why men like George Champion, Board Chairman of the Chase Manhattan Bank, are adding their voices to that of William McChesney Martin. Champion says:

"The government's programs consist of short-run measures aimed at achieving quick results. But the balance of payments is essentially a long-run problem."

That is precisely why the individual citizen must raise questions about mismanagement which jeopardizes the value of the dollars he earns.

FIRE BUFF PLAYS IT COOL

Applicants for membership in the International Fire Buffs Association are carefully screened for six months.

One of the prime qualifications is that these compulsive fire-attenders know how to behave themselves at fires.

"We don't want somebody trying to tell the fire chief how to run the show," IFBS President George Beaumont emphasized at a recent convention in St. Louis.

People responsible for getting things done in almost any line of endeavor will voice a hearty "Amen!" to that -- especially and most literally those in the theatrical profession.

How they must wish the same rule applied to reviewers and critics!

FLAGPOLE DELUXE

Commenting on the spending of taxpayer's money, Rep. H. R. Gross (R-Iowa) said "In the Washington area a new building has been constructed for the Commerce Department's Bureau of Standards. It was supposed to cost $65 million. It is not yet completed and the cost if $107 million. But what really takes the cake in this deal was the erection at the front of the building of a 90-foot, stainless steel flagpole at a cost of $44,768. A $550 per-foot flagpole ought to make the eagle scream in any language!"

H.L. Hunt Says

GROWTH OF COMMUNIST PARTIES IN WESTERN EUROPE

One of the main arguments given for encouraging trade and greater contacts with Eastern European countries and the Soviet Union is that "better understanding" and a more tolerant relationship between East and West will result. This assumes that a lessening of our opposition of communism is desirable; that we would benefit by opening our gates to the natural enemy of everything constructive throughout the free world.

If the people in Western Europe and the United States see that our government is not only condoning but actually advocating trade with Eastern Europe, they will come to believe that the communist dictatorships are the legitimate governments of these countries. They will begin to think of communism as merely a different form of government, rather than as an ideology completely alien and hostile to freedom.

Recent events in two Western European countries have provided evidence that an increasing number of people are losing sight of the dangers of communism. In both France and Italy, the local communist parties have scored significant election gains.

It seems likely, therefore, that the growing acceptance of communist dictator governments by the duly constituted governments of free people in the West has produced a sense of false security and complacency toward communism in general. This attitude can be very dangerous consequences for the future of the free world.

Especially now that we are actually at war with communism in Vietnam, the U. S. must recognize the communism is evil and remains an enemy of freedom. All trade and aid to communist nations should be stopped and contact sought with the oppressed people, not the communist governments and their chosen representatives. HLH

NEW YORK (AP) — Barbie is off for Vietnam, along with Batman, Little Snoopy and a host of other toys American children will find under the Christmas tree.

A toy salesman on a one-man campaign, individual toy companies, charity organizations and GIs in Vietnam already have helped get toys to thousands of Vietnamese youngsters for Tet Tan Sun, the Vietnamese new year. More are on the way.

"Last year we donated a few toys to two orphanages in Vietnam, and from the letters of gratitude and the pictures of the children receiving the toys, we know how much good it can do, not only for these needy tots, but for the American image abroad," said H. H. Coords, president of Fisher-Price Toys, Inc., the preschool toy manufacturer in East Aurora, N.Y.

This fall, 100,000 wagons and balls, wheelbarrows and balloons, dolls and games, have been donated to be distributed by the Marines as part of their civic action program.

"I'm not a crusader or anything, but I thought it was right," said Jay Krotman, 31, the New York toy salesman who organized drive. "My next-door neighbor is a retired Marine major, and he told me about this civic action program to help the Vietnamese.

"I sent out 325 letters, and 60 per cent responded. They were great. One manufacturer in New Jersey sent 96 cartons."

Krotman asked for—and got—art supplies, baby toy,s gym sets, plastic toys, puzzles, models and plush animals.

"Please don't send any guns and war toys," he asked. He said Marines suggested no guns.

Some toy guns have been shipped to Vietnam under other programs, however.

Daisy-Heddon division of Victor Comptometer Corp., Rogers, Ark., has sent cap pistols, toy rifles and gun holster sets to individual servicemen to give to children in their areas "almost since the first Christmas U.S. servicemen spent in Vietnam." This year it increased its contribution to 1,000 items, 200 more than in 1966.

Catholic Rlief Services will distribute nearly 2,000 abandoned Barbie dolls traded in by their young American owners on a newer, twistier model.

Hundreds of other toys will be distributed by servicemen.

Pfc. Mike Voorhees saw the children in the village of Xuam Ho and wrote home to Tonka Corp. at Mound, Minn., which sent off 125 steel trucks.

"What you have done has brought smiles and happiness over the faces of 125 children," Voorhees wrote back.

Washington Merry - Go - Round

By Drew Pearson

DREW PEARSON AND JACK ANDERSON SAY: Westmoreland says present Vietnam force is adequate; he disclaims "problems" with McNamara; Bobby Kennedy was once urged to become ambassador to South Vietnam.

WASHINGTON -- Gen. William Westmoreland told a closed meeting of the house armed services committee that he saw no need at the present time to increase our armed forces in Vietnam, now numbering about 500,000 troops.

He also strongly indicated that this number might be enough to carry us through the war, though he didn't definitely commit himself. Nor would he comment on how soon the war could be brought to a close.

He did, however, say that we could begin a "phaseout" of our mission in Vietnam -- meaning a turnover of combat operations on a larger scale to the South Vietnamese -- if the effectiveness of South Vietnamese troops continued to improve.

"I can report to you that there has been a steady improvement in the effectiveness of these troops in every way, including morale and discipline," he said. "They are reliable combat soldiers in the majority and we are not having AWOL problems to speak of.

"We have already served notice on Vietnamese leaders regarding these phaseout plans and have told them that they must buckle down and unite their people for this eventuality. We have emphasized that we are not a colonial power, that we can't stay there permanently, and that we intend to start pulling out."

One important factor that could upset phaseout plans, he said, would be if the Russians and Chinese sent in technicians and workmen to replace North Vietnamese now engaged in noncombat chores behind the lines, such as repairing roads, bridges and airfields.

Under questioning by chairman Mendel Rivers, D-S.C., a bitter foe of defense secretary Robert McNamara, Westmoreland flatly denied that he was having any "problems" with McNamara.

"Our relations have been quite good, in fact," he said. "I'm a military man and realize that the secretary has to deal with nonmilitary considerations as the civilian head of the defense department."

"Are you getting all the men you need?" asked Rivers.

"Yes, I am getting all I need at the present time-- all I am asking for," he replied.

AMBASSADOR KENNEDY?

Only a few people know it, but at one time President Johnson tried to persuade Sen. Robert F. Kennedy to become ambassador to South Vietnam.

Bobby toyed with the idea quite seriously but finally rejected the venture into diplomacy.

The idea was challenging, because Sen. Kennedy has long felt more could be done toward peace negotiations with the north; and if he had been in the strategic post of U.S. Ambassador in Saigon, he could have helped to mold South Vietnamese leaders toward a more conciliatory position toward Ho Chi Minh. Most of the South Vietnamese leaders are refugees from North Vietnam and know Ho well.

Bobby was also not unaware of the fact that it was his late brother, the President, who took the most important step in involving the United States in the war by sending approximately 30,000 troops to South Vietnam in the fall of 1961. Previously, Eisenhower had kept only 1,000 to 2,000 American troop advisers in South Vietnam. But President Kennedy, worried over the bay of pigs fiasco and his psychological defeat at the Vienna conference with Premier Khrushchev, was looking for a move to build up his own prestige and that of the United States.

So in the late summer of 1961 he sent Gen. Maxwell Taylor and his chief foreign affairs adviser, Walt Rostow, to Saigon to make a survey. Where they wrote a strong recommendation that the United States intervene on a massive scale. President Kennedy accepted that recommendation.

This was how U.S. intervention in depth first began.

Note -- Some critics believe part of Johnson's troubles stem from the fact that he has kept Walt Rostow as his No. 1 foreign affairs adviser, a man who wants to prove that his original recommendation, no matter how wrong, was right.

"I doubt that there has been discrimination because these people are girls. Is the gentlewoman saying that there has been deliberate discrimination against women simply because they were women?"

Mrs. Green -- "Yes."

Hays -- "Well, I must say that I cannot agree with that. I just do not believe it has happened in that way."

Rep. Hastings Keith, R-Mass.-- "This recalls a debate that allegedly occurred in the French parliament, where they were talking about the difference be-

Hays -- "And someone said, 'Vive La Difference?'"

Keith -- "Yes."

Hays -- "I am for that, also."

Keith -- "Merci Beaucoup."

Kegler's Korner

By MARY MEYER

Some state tournament news is first this week. The Bank of Sikeston team reports good bowling by the team members. In the singles event, Mable Merrick bowled a 599 and Ruby Smith, 596. (Both scores were with handicap). Mable and Carletta Boardman bowled an 1,174 in doubles event.

The team's scratch series was 2,421. Members of this team are mable Merrick, Carletta Boardman, Mildred Cockrell, Ruby Andres, Flora Crouthers and Ruby Smith.

Another team left Friday for Springfield. The First National Bank team's members are Billie Garner, Donna Hodges, Freda Layton, Nora McMullin, Boots Schrader and Glenda Becker. The spokesman for the team said if the team bowls good, the results will be reported for the column; if not, she will just report a good time had by all. So be watching next week to see how this team does in the state tournament.

In weekly league bowling, with the Newcomers, Lois Blacker had high individual game of 168 and Willie Burrow had the high individual series of 465. The Witches had the high team game, 793, and the Percolators had the high team series, 2,299. Betty Ramsey picked up the 5-7 split; Norma Johns, 4-5-7 and Shirley Crowley, 4-5.

The Sparettes blanked the Go-Getters, 4-0; the Percolators won 3 to the Witches' 1. The Hi-Los won 3 to the Peanuts' 1.

No report from the Housewives and Delta Imperialettes Leagues.

With Royal Keglers League, Jean Lee collected high individual game and series with scores of 214 and 561. There was a tie for high team 1,008. General Oil Company also had the high team series with 2,966.

There were some firsts for two of the bowlers in the league. Alma York bowled her highest game 156 and her first 400 series. Anna Schumacher bowled her highest game 190 and also the highest series she has ever bowled, a 480. Congratulations to both. Incidentally, they are both members of the same team, General Oil, which probably helped the team acquire that high team game and series Wednesday night.

Reported splits: Pat Duncan, 5-10; Betty Estes, 5-7; Mary Meyer, 5-6-10; Peggy Swacker, 4-7; Rose Bryant, 9-10; Anita Hope, 3-7-10 and Mable Merrick, 5-6.

General Oil Company blanked Wade's Body Shop 4-0; Malone and Hyde, 4-Hope's Auto Electric 0; Liberty Super Market 3-H. Herb Stephens 1 and C. D. Alcorn 3½ - Lewis Furniture Company ½. Bank of Sikeston split 2-2 with Busch Bavarian as did First National Bank and Holyfield Flying 2-2.

A note of appreciation to the Royal Keglers League was received from Alma York, Ruby Smith and Sandy York on behalf of their family, the Schaefer family.

Charleston Native Will Receive Merit Citation

COLUMBIA - Three citations of merit will be presented by the University of Missouri College of arts and science, and the University Alumni association Dec. 5. One will go to a woman scholar and educator, one to an internationally-known comic strip artist, and the third to an outstanding lawyer and businessman. All three are alumni of the college.

The presentation will be a highlight of the college's annual arts and science week Nov. 29-Dec. 6.

The award recipients are Dr. Geneva H. Drinkwater, Columbia and Winter Park, Fla., bachelor of arts and bachelor of science in education, 1917; Mort (Addison Morton) Walker, Greenwich, Conn., bachelor of arts 1948; and Paul Carrington, Dallas, Tex., bachelor of arts 1914.

Dean W. Francis English of arts and science said today the awards will be made at a noon buffet luncheon in the large ballroom of Memorial Student Union. Students honored by Phi Beta Kappa and arts and science departmental honors students also will be recognized at the luncheon.

Each year the college selects outstanding graduates as recipients of the award, which are given in recognition of the recipients' contributions to education, the arts or sciences, public affairs, scholarship, or other fields.

Dr. Drinkwater has been a member of the Stephens college board of curators since 1945 and is a Stephens college alumna and former instructor. She also taught at Rollins College, Winter Park, from 1952 until her retirement, and at Carleton College, Northfield, the University of North Carolina, Chapel Hill, and Vassar College. Born in Charleston, Mo., she received a bachelor of arts and a bachelor of science in education from the University of Missouri in 1917.

Walker is creator of the comic strip "Beetle Bailey," which appears in over 1,000 papers all over the world, including the Sikeston Daily Standard, his "Hi and Lois" is in more than 500 papers. Walker grew up in Kansas City.

Carrington, lawyer and business executive of Dallas, was born in Mexico, Mo. In 1962 he was honored by the University of Missouri Alumni Club of Dallas as an outstanding graduate of the University.

Dr. Drinkwater attended public schools in Charleston and earned an associate in arts degree from Stephens College in 1915. After graduation from the University she was a Latin scholar at Bryr Mawr college in 1917-18. She taught at Stephens college from 1918 to 1922, received a master of arts degree from the University of Chicago in 1923, and taught at Stephens from 1923 to 1927. While doing graduate work at the University of Chicago for her doctorate, she was a Carnegie Fellow in 1929-31, and studied at the Vatican school of paleography and diplomatique and in the archives of the monastery of Santa Scolastica in Subiaco, Italy. She received her doctor of philosophy degree from the University of Chicago in 1931.

Dr. Drinkwater later taught in Minnesota and North Carolina, and from 1935 to 1945 was associate professor of history at Vassar College.

She retired from Vassar after her father's death to return to Charleston to live with her mother. There she helped organize the Mississippi county library district and the Mississippi county health department, serving on the board of the latter agency and on the school board. She became professor of history at Rollins college on the death of her mother in 1952, retiring from Rollins on reaching 65 years of age.

Dr. Geneva H. Drinkwater

Since retirement her activities have included that of member of the American delegation to the 15th conference of the International Federation of University Women in Brisbane, Australia, and of visiting lecturer at Sweet Briar College, Va., and St. Andrews Presbyterian College in North Carolina. Her memberships have included the Medieval Academy of America, American Historical Association, Southern Historical Association, Florida Academy of Science, American Association of University Professors, American Association of University of Women, and the State Historical Society of Missouri. She is on the board of the United Nations Association and of Church Women United.

Poisoning Caused By Bacteria

JEFFERSON CITY -- As parties and dinners of the holiday season approach, the Missouri Division of Health warns of the danger of food poisoning which can easily occur in serving groups of people. Those who understand the danger can easily prevent most food poisoning.

The most common form of food poisoning is due to the invasion of food by bacteria. The bacteria may be poisonous in themselves or they may produce poisons. Generally speaking, bacteria will not grow if food is kept cold (below 45 degrees Fahrenheit). The best rule is to keep hot things hot and cold things cold.

Proper Food Storage

A crowded refrigerator at holiday may tempt the cooks to leave some foods out at room temperature, both before and after the meal. This enables bacteria to multiply rapidly. Many gastrointestinal illnesses have been traced to foods permitted to stand out too long without refrigeration. Foods often implicated in this type of poisoning are pastries, custards, cream fillings, potato salad, meats -- especially sliced and ground meats -- and poultry stuffings. Unfortunately contaminated food is often unaffected in looks, smell or taste by the poisonous bacteria -- changes which might warn the consumer. Those who travel a distance to holiday reunions and take along dishes for the dinner should refrigerate them during the trip or select foods that last well without refrigeration.

To reduce the danger of food poisoning, refrigerate perishable foods as soon as they come from the grocery store. Put frozen foods in the freezer at once to prevent bacteria growth, and never refreeze thawed-out foods. In thawing frozen foods, especially turkey and chicken, defrost them in the refrigerator or under cool running water at 70 degrees Fahrenheit or below so the cold temperature will inhibit bacterial growth.

In cooling hot foods before refrigerating them, enough bacterial toxin can be produced to cause illness. Food should be refrigerated as soon after cooking as possible. It is not necessary for foods to be cooled to room temperature before refrigerating them.

Personal Hygiene

Those who work in the kitchen should be careful about personal sanitation and cleanliness of the kitchen. A helpful precaution is the use of tissues by anyone who coughs, sneezes or has a nasal discharge. Persons with infected cuts or scratches on the hands should not handle food.

Remember that a delicious appearing turkey salad sandwich or cream-filled layer cake, if improperly prepared and stored, can turn your happy holiday guests into tormented victims with cramps, nausea, vomiting and diarrhea -- victims of food poisoning.

Kegler's Korner

By MARY MEYER

Some state tournament news is first this week. The Bank of Sikeston team reports good bowling by the team members. In the singles event, Mable Merrick bowled a 599 and Ruby Smith, 596. (Both scores were with handicap). Mable and Carletta Boardman bowled an 1,174 in doubles event.

The team's scratch series was 2,421. Members of this team are mable Merrick, Carletta Boardman, Mildred Cockrell, Ruby Andres, Flora Crouthers and Ruby Smith.

Another team left Friday for Springfield. The First National Bank team's members are Billie Garner, Donna Hodges, Freda Layton, Nora McMullin, Boots Schrader and Glenda Becker. The spokesman for the team said if the team bowls good, the results will be reported for the column; if not, she will just report a good time had by all. So be watching next week to see how this team does in the state tournament.

In weekly league bowling, with the Newcomers, Lois Blacker nad high individual game of 168 and Willie Burrow had the high individual series of 465. The Witches had the high team game, 793, and the Percolators had the high team series, 2,299. Betty Ramsey picked up the 5-7 split; Norma Johns, 4-5-7 and Shirley Crowley, 4-5.

The Sparettes blanked the Go-Getters, 4-0; the Percolators won 3 to the Witches' 1. The Hi-Los won 3 to the Peanuts' 1.

No report from the Housewives and Delta Imperialettes Leagues.

With Royal Keglers League, Jean Lee collected high individual game and series with scores of 214 and 561. There was a tie for high team 1,008. General Oil Company also had the high team series with 2,966.

There were some firsts for two of the bowlers in the league. Alma York bowled her highest game 156 and her first 400 series. Anna Schumacher bowled her highest game 190 and also the highest series she has ever bowled, a 480. Congratulations to both. Incidentally, they are both members of the same team, General Oil, which probably helped the team acquire that high team game and series Wednesday night.

Reported splits: Pat Duncan, 5-10; Betty Estes, 5-7; Mary Meyer, 5-6-10; Peggy Swacker, 4-7; Rose Bryant, 9-10; Anita Hope, 3-7-10 and Mable Merrick, 5-6.

General Oil Company blanked Wade's Body Shop 4-0; Malone and Hyde, 4-Hope's Auto Electric 0; Liberty Super Market 3-H. Herb Stephens 1 and C. D. Alcorn 3½ - Lewis Furniture Company ½. Bank of Sikeston split 2-2 with Busch Bavarian as did First National Bank and Holyfield Flying 2-2.

A note of appreciation to the Royal Keglers League was received from Alma York, Ruby Smith and Sandy York on behalf of their family, the Schaefer family.

With the Friday Bowlettes, Pearl Freeman bowled 192 for high individual game and Peggy Teague had high individual series of 515. Vogue Dress Shop collected both high team game and series with 751 and 2,141.

Reported splits: Wilma Acord, 5-7; Mary LeGrand 4-5-7; Sue Collier, 7-9; Minnie Ramsey, 5-10 and Betty Kelly, 2-10.

Games won and lost:

Vogue Dress Shop 3-E. P. Coleman 1; International Shoe no. 1 4-Canvas Products 0; Rogers Oil 3- Ziegenhorn Insurance 1; Anchor Toy 3- Nowell Construction 1; a local radio station 3- Beardsley Chevrolet 1; International Shoe no. 2 3-Medical Arts 1.

To reduce the danger of food poisoning, refrigerate perishable foods as soon as they come from the grocery store. Put frozen foods in the freezer at once to prevent bacteria growth, and never refreeze thawed-out foods. In thawing frozen foods, especially turkey and chicken, defrost them in the refrigerator or under cool running water at 70 degrees Fahrenheit or below so the cold temperature will inhibit bacterial growth.

In cooling hot foods before refrigerating them, enough bacterial toxin can be produced to cause illness. Food should be refrigerated as soon after cooking as possible. It is not necessary for foods to be cooled to room temperature before refrigerating them.

Personal Hygiene

Those who work in the kitchen should be careful about personal sanitation and cleanliness of the kitchen. A helpful precaution is the use of tissues by anyone who coughs, sneezes or has a nasal discharge. Persons with infected cuts or scratches on the hands should not handle food.

Remember that a delicious appearing turkey salad sandwich or cream-filled layer cake, if improperly prepared and stored, can turn your happy holiday guests into tormented victims with cramps, nausea, vomiting and diarrhea -- victims of food poisoning.

Vols Second In AP College Poll

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Tennessee gets a last chance to dislodge Southern California from first place in The Associated Press' major college football poll Saturday and an overwhelming victory by the Volunteers probably couldn't come at a more opportune time.

A decisive triumph by the Volunteers over a relatively weak Kentucky Wildcat team could play a large part in the final balloting for the national championship.

Southern Cal completed its regular campaign by defeating UCLA 21-20 last Saturday. Tennessee has two games remaining, against Kentucky (2-7) Saturday and against Vanderbilt (2-5-1) the following week.

The final poll will be taker after this Saturday's games and announced next Tuesday.

In the latest vote by a national panel of 47 sports writers and broadcasters, USC collected 21 votes for first-place and 432 points. Tennessee received 15 votes for the top position and 410 points on a basis of 10 points for a first-place vote, 9 for second etc.

Kentucky lost its first six games, then beat West Virginia 22-7 and Vanderbilt 12-7 before bowing to Florida 28-12 last Saturday.

Tennessee boosted its record to 7-1 the past weekend by downing Mississippi, 20-7. The Vols lost only to UCLA in the season opener for both teams.

Purdue remained a solid third in the latest poll, drawing 380 points, including 90 for nine first-place votes. The Boilermakers (8-1) beat Michigan State 21-7 last weekend.

UCLA, the leader a week ago, changed positions with Southern Cal in slipping to the No. 4 spot. Oklahoma, a 14-10 winner over Kansas, advanced two places to fifth.

Notre Dame, the defending national titleholder, climbed from ninth to sixth after routing Georgia Tech, 36-3. Wyoming is seventh followed in order by Oregon State, Alabama and Houston, the later two teams replacing Indiana and North Carolina State in the rankings.

Parma Jr. High Takes Twin Win

PARMA -- Risco bowed to the junior high Parma Pirates last night, suffering a 64-11 seventh grade basketball setback and a 60-19 eighth grade loss.

It marked the third win for each unit in as many games.

Dale Crews and Bob Miller paced the seventh grade victory scoring attack with 18 and 14 points respectively while playing only two quarters. Rick Stabaugh had five for the losers.

A balance scoring attack was paced by James Pope and Jesse Edmunds with 13 points. Eight shared in the eighth grade scoring. Bishop had 12 for the losers.

The eighth grade win marked its 11th over a two-year span without a loss.

The rest of the scorers for the eighth grade crew had Mike Garrard, Ed McCollough and Rick Sanders with eight each followed by David Sewell with five, Vance Pawielski with three and Larry Joseph with two.

Howard had the only other score for Risco.

Big Eight Coaches Meet

KANSAS CITY AP - Big Eight basketball coaches all predicted they would be as good or better than last year, then put Coach Ted Owens of Kansas in the hot seat as the title favorite in their annual preseason meeting here Monday.

Owens was gratified. He said "I'm happy we have enough talent that people consider us of championship caliber."

"Every team should be improved, including our own," he added. "If Kansas is to win, it must be better."

Glen Anderson, Iowa State coach, said Kansas has to be the favorite on paper, "but favorites don't always win."

Anderson said his team, built around center Don Smith, will be better because he has some sophomores for competing for starting jobs.

"We always say everyone is going to be stronger," said Tex Winter, K-State coach. "This year we have the statistics to bear it out. Eight of the top 10 scorers and seven of the top 10 rebounders are back.

The following is a letter from the general chairman of the Connie Mack World Series committee, to the coach and players of the 1967 Sikeston Potiatch Connie Mack baseball team:

Mr. N. P. McDaniel and players
of the Sikeston Potlatch Baseball Team
105 Terrace Drive
Sikeston, Missouri

Dear Mr. McDaniel:

It was a pleasure to have you with us as a participant in the 1967 Connie Mack World Series. The World Series Tournament Committee and the people of Farmington, New Mexico, wish to commend you on your fine conduct, both on and off the playing field. The excellent sportsmanship displayed by the Connie Mack participants contributes greatly to the success of the Series.

As a token of our appreciation, please accept the enclosed Certificate from the 1967 Connie Mack World Series Committee. We hope you will display this Certificate of Appreciation with pride as you have certainly earned it.

Needless to say, we hope you will return to Farmington, either as a participant in another World Series or as a visitor. Again our thanks for contributing to a successful World Series.

Very truly yours,

JAMES C. VANDIVER
General Chairman

Hunters reported 3,795 deer were slain Tuesday, the third day of Missouri's five-day hunting season.

The total since Saturday was 17,218, compared with 19,287 in the first three days of the 1966 season.

The leading counties are Texas County with 1,083 kills, Benton with 906, and Howell with 845.

The All-State high school selections will be made in Jefferson City Sunday and a number of the district's top gridders are up for the honors, as a matter of fact some 48 of them.

All of the players who were selected for the first team of both conferences on either offense or defense are eligible.

The Daily Standard's Southeast Missouri high school All-Star team, which will be released Friday, will have the top 22 of the district's nominees.

Among the most talked about are Poplar Bluff's John Brown, Sikeston's Mike Garner, Cape Central's Mark Stuart and Malden's Mark Norrid and Ralph Bowling.

Brown was the district's only All-State player in Southeast Missouri in 1966 and is almost a shoo-in with his fine 1967 season.

Garner will be bidding for linebacker spot on the class L All-State squad while Cape Central's Stuart will be vying for an offensive end position.

Malden's Norrid, a junior tackle, will be putting his statistics on the board in class M voting while senior Wave Linebacker, Bowling, will be the waves' second candidate.

Sikeston won the northern division championship of the Southeast Missouri football conference while Malden claimed the Southern division title.

The teams will most likely be released during the coming week, possibly Nov. 30.

The class S basketball regional for Southeast Missouri will be divided into two tournaments at Clarkton and Advance.

First and second round games will be played at each site with the semi-finals and finals in Clarkton.

- - - - -

Kennett meets Jackson in the opening game of the SEMO conference basketball tournament at Kennett Monday.

Kennett, Poplar Bluff, Sikeston and Dexter were seeded in that order for the tournament.

Monday's second game finds Dexter meeting Cape Central at 8:30 p.m.

Tuesday's schedule has Poplar Bluff meeting Perryville at 7 p.m. and Sikeston going against Charleston at 8:30 p.m.

A consolation bracket will be played.

- - - - -

Thirty two reported for basketball practice at Sikeston high school this season.

Among those reporting were footballers Bruce Farris, Dennis Snelling, Art Jackson, Charlie Dye, Turner Marshall, Eddie Felker and Tom Dunn.

We will take this week off from calling the area basketball game, because of the small schedule. Our calling will resume Tuesday.

Cooter Upsets Gideon In Pemiscot Tourney

WARDELL -- First seeded Clarkton and fourth seeded Delta C-7 survived first round action in the North Pemiscot high school basketball tournament at the Ross gymnasium east of here last night. Second seeded Gideon the District's tenth rated unit.

Clarkton stumbled open tournament action with an 86-41 decision over Risco followed by Delta's 80-48 win over Portageville. Then came the first upset of the tournament as unseeded Cooter banged out a 53-52 upset over Gideon.

Action continues tonight with the final first round game, one consolation game and a semi-final winners bracket match. First game at 6 p.m. finds third seeded Holcomb meeting North Pemiscot followed at 7:30 p.m. by Risco and Portageville and the 9 p.m. game with Clarkton meeting Delta C-7.

In last night's first game, Clarkton rolled up a 31-3 first period lead and sailed into the semi-finals behind the out-court shooting and rebounding of Larry Richardson, who lit for 18 points. Risco's leading scorer was Wayne Lawson with nine.

Portageville's hopes faded in the second period after Delta C-7 pulled into a 32-16 first period lead and scored 19 points in the second period, while limiting the Bulldogs to two, taking a commanding 51-18 lead at intermission. Jerry Watson led the chargers attack with 17 points. Kert Stuart had nine for Portageville.

Unseeded Cooter swapped baskets with the second - seeded Gideon quintet during the first half before allowing it to take a 30-25 half time lead. It then struck with fine out-court and free throw shooting along with good rebounding to overhaul the favorites.

Both teams swapped the ball back and fourth in the final seconds of the final period before Cooter's Ricky Clark was fouled with three seconds remaining in the game. He missed his charity shot. A desparation try by Gideon fell short as did its victory hops.

Cooter controlled the rebounding over the much taller Gideon quintet, 22-18, and hit 21 of 33 field shots for a .666 average while Gideon connected on 19 or 34 shots from the field for a .559 clip.

Rick Flowers had 18 points in leading the victory push for Cooter. Jim Johnson netted 15 points for the losers.

Bowl Picture Takes Shape

By the Associated Press

"It is mighty nice," said Tennessee Coach Doug Dickey, "to be wanted at a time like this."

The top postseason college football bowl games began taking shape Monday, the first day bids could be extended under NCAA rules.

Dickey's once-beaten Volunteers, rated second in the country, will meet Oklahoma, No. 5, in the Orange Bowl in Miami, Fla., the night of January 1.

"We're looking forward to the game," said Sooner Coach Chuck Fairbanks. "It's the one my boys wanted. But we've still got two tough games left."

Oklahoma can clinch the Big Eight title by beating Nebraska Thanksgiving Day and then Oklahoma State. Tennessee can wrap up the Southeastern Conference title with victories over Kentucky and Vanderbilt.

Alabama accepted a bid to meet the Southwest Conference champion in the Cotton Bowl Jan. 1 in Dallas. Bear Bryant's ninth-rated Crimson Tide is 7-1-1. If Texas A&M wins its traditional contest with Texas Thursday, the Aggies would be the host club.

Texas, Texas Tech and Texas Christian also still have a chance to go to the bowl. It will be the third appearance in the Dallas game for Alabama, which beat A&M 29-21 in 1942 and lost to Rice 28-6 in 1954.

Wyoming, the last of the major unbeaten college teams, will meet Louisiana State in the Sugar Bowl in New Orleans, La. The Cowboys, 10-0, are rated seventh in the latest poll. LSU is 5-3-1.

The news of the bid was warmly received in Laramie, Wyo., where students, players, the university president and even the governor showed their excitement. Some 10,000 residents of the state are expected to make the trip.

Southern California, of course, will be the host team in the Rose Bowl. The Trojans assured themselves of the Pacific 8 title with its 21-20 victory over UCLA. Indiana and Minnesota still are in contention for the Big Ten spot.

Indiana can go to the bowl if it beats Purdue or if it ties Purdue and Minnesota loses to winless Wisconsin. If both lost Indiana goes. The Hoosiers have never been to the Rose Bowl.

Colorado accepted a Bluebonnet Bowl bid for Houston on Dec. 23. The runner-up in the Southwest Conference could be the opposing team as could Georgia, which has also been sounded out by the Liberty Bowl, to be played in Memphis, Tenn., Dec. 16.

Penn State, 7-2, accepted a bid to the Gator Bowl in Jacksonville, Fla., Dec. 30. Chances are the opposition will be provided by the winner of this Saturday's Florida-Florida State game.

Miami is thought to be a Liberty Bowl possibility if it beats Notre Dame this week. Missouri was considered for the game, but the team decided Monday against accepting any bowl bid.

Mississippi, 4-3-1, will go to the Sun Bowl in El Paso, Tex., on Dec. 30. The selection committee was reportedly considering six teams— Syracuse, Nebraska, Florida, Florida State, Arizona State, and the University of Texas at El Paso— as possible opponents.

The following is a letter from the general chairman of the Connie Mack World Series committee, to the coach and players of the 1967 Sikeston Potlatch Connie Mack baseball team:

Mr. N. P. McDaniel and players
of the Sikeston Potlatch Baseball Team
105 Terrace Drive
Sikeston, Missouri

Dear Mr. McDaniel:

It was a pleasure to have you with us as a participant in the 1967 Connie Mack World Series. The World Series Tournament Committee and the people of Farmington, New Mexico, wish to commend you on your fine conduct, both on and off the playing field. The excellent sportsmanship displayed by the Connie Mack participants contributes greatly to the success of the Series.

As a token of our appreciation, please accept the enclosed Certificate from the 1967 Connie Mack World Series Committee. We hope you will display this Certificate of Appreciation with pride as you have certainly earned it.

Needless to say, we hope you will return to Farmington, either as a participant in another World Series or as a visitor. Again our thanks for contributing to a successful World Series.

Very truly yours,

JAMES C. VANDIVER
General Chairman

Hunters reported 3,795 deer were slain Tuesday, the third day of Missouri's five-day hunting season.

The total since Saturday was 17,218, compared with 19,287 in the first three days of the 1966 season.

The leading counties are Texas County with 1,083 kills, Benton with 906, and Howell with 845.

The All-State high school selections will be made in Jefferson City Sunday and a number of the district's top gridders are up for the honors, as a matter of fact some 48 of them.

All of the players who were selected for the first team of both conferences on either offense or defense are eligible.

The Daily Standard's Southeast Missouri high school All-Star team, which will be released Friday, will have the top 22 of the district's nominees.

Among the most talked about are Poplar Bluff's John Brown, Sikeston's Mike Garner, Cape Central's Mark Stuart and Malden's Mark Norrid and Ralph Bowling.

Brown was the district's only All-State player in Southeast Missouri in 1966 and is almost a shoo-in with his fine 1967 season.

Garner will be bidding for linebacker spot on the class L All-State squad while Cape Central's Stuart will be vying for an offensive end position.

Malden's Norrid, a junior tackle, will be putting his statistics on the board in class M voting while senior Wave Linebacker, Bowling, will be the waves' second candidate.

Sikeston won the northern division championship of the Southeast Missouri football conference while Malden claimed the Southern division title.

The teams will most likely be released during the coming week, possibly Nov. 30.

The class S basketball regional for Southeast Missouri will be divided into two tournaments at Clarkton and Advance.

First and second round games will be played at each site with the semi-finals and finals in Clarkton.

Kennett meets Jackson in the opening game of the SEMO conference basketball tournament at Kennett Monday.

Kennett, Poplar Bluff, Sikeston and Dexter were seeded in that order for the tournament.

Monday's second game finds Dexter meeting Cape Central at 8:30 p.m.

Tuesday's schedule has Poplar Bluff meeting Perryville at 7 p.m. and Sikeston going against Charleston at 8:30 p.m.

A consolation bracket will be played.

Thirty two reported for basketball practice at Sikeston high school this season.

Among those reporting were footballers Bruce Farris, Dennis Snelling, Art Jackson, Charlie Dye, Turner Marshall, Eddie Felker and Tom Dunn.

We will take this week off from calling the area basketball game, because of the small schedule. Our calling will resume Tuesday.

Cooter Upsets Gideon In Pemiscot Tourney

WARDELL -- First seeded Clarkton and fourth seeded Delta C-7 survived first round action in the North Pemiscot high school basketball tournament at the Ross gymnasium east of here last night. Second seeded Gideon the District's tenth rated unit.

Clarkton stumbled open tournament action with an 86-41 decision over Risco followed by Delta's 80-48 win over Portageville. Then came the first upset of the tournament as unseeded Cooter banged out a 53-52 upset over Gideon.

Action continues tonight with the final first round game, one consolation game and a semi-final winners bracket match. First game at 6 p.m. finds third seeded Holcomb meeting North Pemiscot followed at 7:30 p.m. by Risco and Portageville and the 9 p.m. game with Clarkton meeting Delta C-7.

In last night's first game, Clarkton rolled up a 31-3 first period lead and sailed into the semi-finals behind the out-court shooting and rebounding of Larry Richardson, who lit for 18 points. Risco's leading scorer was Wayne Lawson with nine.

Portageville's hopes faded in the second period after Delta C-7 pulled into a 32-16 first period lead and scored 19 points in the second period, while limiting the Bulldogs to two, taking a commanding 51-18 lead at intermission. Jerry Watson led the chargers attack with 17 points. Kert Stuart had nine for Portageville.

Unseeded Cooter swapped baskets with the second-seeded Gideon quintet during the first half before allowing it to take a 30-25 half time lead. It then struck with fine out-court and free throw shooting along with good rebounding to overhaul the favorites.

Both teams swapped the ball back and fourth in the final seconds of the final period before Cooter's Ricky Clark was fouled with three seconds remaining in the game. He missed his charity shot. A desparation try by Gideon fell short as did its victory hops.

Cooter controlled the rebounding over the much taller Gideon quintet, 22-18, and hit 21 of 33 field shots for a .666 average while Gideon connected on 19 or 34 shots from the field for a .559 clip.

Rick Flowers had 18 points in leading the victory push for Cooter. Jim Johnson netted 15 points for the losers.

Bowl Picture Takes Shape

By the Associated Press

"It is mighty nice," said Tennessee Coach Doug Dickey, "to be wanted at a time like this."

The top postseason college football bowl games began taking shape Monday, the first day bids could be extended under NCAA rules.

Dickey's once-beaten Volunteers, rated second in the country, will meet Oklahoma, No. 5, in the Orange Bowl in Miami, Fla., the night of January 1.

"We're looking forward to the game," said Sooner Coach Chuck Fairbanks. "It's the one my boys wanted. But we've still got two tough games left."

Oklahoma can clinch the Big Eight title by beating Nebraska Thanksgiving Day and then Oklahoma State. Tennessee can wrap up the Southeastern Conference title with victories over Kentucky and Vanderbilt.

Alabama accepted a bid to meet the Southwest Conference champion in the Cotton Bowl Jan. 1 in Dallas. Bear Bryant's ninth-rated Crimson Tide is 7-1-1. If Texas A&M wins its traditional contest with Texas Thursday, the Aggies would be the host club.

Texas, Texas Tech and Texas Christian also still have a chance to go to the bowl. It will be the third appearance in the Dallas game for Alabama, which beat A&M 29-21 in 1942 and lost to Rice 28-6 in 1954.

Wyoming, the last of the major unbeaten college teams, will meet Louisiana State in the Sugar Bowl in New Orleans, La. The Cowboys, 10-0, are rated seventh in the latest poll. LSU is 5-3-1.

The news of the bid was warmly received in Laramie, Wyo., where students, players, the university president and even the governor showed their excitement. Some 10,000 residents of the state are expected to make the trip.

Southern California, of course, will be the host team in the Rose Bowl. The Trojans assured themselves of the Pacific 8 title with its 21-20 victory over UCLA. Indiana and Minnesota still are in contention for the Big Ten spot.

Indiana can go to the bowl if it beats Purdue or if it ties Purdue and Minnesota loses to winless Wisconsin. If both lost Indiana goes. The Hoosiers have never been to the Rose Bowl.

Colorado accepted a Bluebonnet Bowl bid for Houston on Dec. 23. The runner-up in the Southwest Conference could be the opposing team as could Georgia, which has also been sounded out by the Liberty Bowl, to be played in Memphis, Tenn., Dec. 16.

Penn State, 7-2, accepted a bid to the Gator Bowl in Jacksonville, Fla., Dec. 30. Chances are the opposition will be provided by the winner of this Saturday's Florida-Florida State game.

Miami is thought to be a Liberty Bowl possibility if it beats Notre Dame this week. Missouri was considered for the game, but the team decided Monday against accepting any bowl bid.

Mississippi, 4-3-1, will go to the Sun Bowl in El Paso, Tex., on Dec. 30. The selection committee was reportedly considering six teams— Syracuse, Nebraska, Florida, Florida State, Arizona State, and the University of Texas at El Paso— as possible opponents.

Dear Bill:
On behalf of the Colson Corporation, I would like to thank you for the work that you are doing and the help you have given us in the past on acquiring skilled welders. We have hired several welders that have been trained in your school, and at this time, we still have in our employee, four of these welders. In the past, we have had other welders from your school working here, but they have left to find better paying jobs.

I don't know if you are familiar with our type of welding, but we must have some of the highest skilled welders available since our products are used in hospitals and such institutions. Unless we are lucky to find graduates from your school, or schools like yours, we would have to spend approximately six months training them. And in a company in business to make profit, this would not be an economical practice. Had it not been for the training of these people that we have employed from your school, they would not have been skilled enough for us to employee them. We are proud to say that we have thirteen welders employed at this time, four of which habe been through your training program.

If we can ever be of any assistance to you and your effort of training skilled workers, please do not fail to call on us.

Cordially,

DAV SPORTSMAN
By Bill Burton

Its deer hunting time in much of the U.S. now, or soon will be, so what topic could be more timely for our November issue?

Judging from the mail call here, stalking whitetails, mules or blacktails is the favorite sport of Dav'ers, many who have been thoughtful enough to send on some hunting tips, suggestions of where to go for the best trophies, or some very interesting statistics on their regions.

The optimism expressed by readers is also reflected in the forecasts of most state conservation departments. It looks as though we're in for a whale of a season 'most everywhere, living proof that deer especially whitetails, are a species of game that can adapt themselves to man's never ending invasion and takeover of their range.

Of all the wildlife picture, the status of the whitetail is the most heartening game as ducks must fight it out on a nip-and-tuck basis for survival. For example, how many would guess there are more whitetails in the country today than when the first pioneers came to clear the lands? Not many realize this true and proven fact?

When forests are cleared for farming, the deer thrive on agricultural products. The wise harvesting of timber results in a new growth that provides tasty buds and tender bark for deer. In most cases the hunger harvest, although seemingly enormous in many states, serves only to cultivate the herds and the population just continues to grow and grow.

Dallas Dav'er Charlie Braun forwarded a perfect illustration quoting the Texas Parks and Wildlife Department, which estimates there are more than 3.2 million deer there -- too many for a healthy herd. This, despite a kill of 270,000 last season.

Pittsburgh correspondent Don Jenkins, a veteran deer chaser and the life member, sent on a fact sheet that shows Pennsylvania's herd is now estimated at more than a half million, even though the kill there was just shy of 120,000 last season.

Deer have become so populous in a small state like Vermont, for example, that in some sectors one out of every four hunters bagged one in a special brief antlerless hunt.

But, for an exceptionally interesting illustration of how deer herds can mushroom when conditions are right, how about New Zealand where they've got whitetails coming out their ears?

Three deer- a buck and two does- were imported there in 1860 to "add a touch of old England" to the surroundings.

They added the "touch" all right. Now marauding herds are the number one problem as they destroy forests, pasture land and woody cover.

New Zealand has become the Deer Hunter's Paradise of the world with a year 'round season, no bag limit and no license needed. The government will even supply the ammo.

It got to the point that the government even tried poisoning to reduce herds, but then got a better idea. Now deer are being gunned by professional hunters for market to twenty-three countries, and bring in more than two million dollars annually. It is expected this figure will eventually be increased ten-fold.

This same whitetail is by far the most predominant species fo deer in the U.S., ranging throughout the entire country with the exception of the extreme West and a thin strip that runs horizontally through the nation as far east as Ohio.

The mule deer roams in much of the country west of the Missouri River, while the blacktail is found on the extreme West Coast.

But, whichever deer Dav'ers gun they'll be eligible for a little contest this column will pull on. The winner will receive a Model K-l Weaver scope with crossbar reticle.

Just send in the weight and total antler points (both sides of rack) along with where the kill was made and the date. Save your deer tag or other proof of the kill's statistics in the event you win, so we can double check. Don't send it along.

Be sure to print your name and address clearly. The deadline for entries is January 15, and we'll name the DAV Grand-Deerslayer in the April issue, along with those who came close.

In-as-much as deer vary in size according to species and geographical location this fact will be taken into consideration in choosing the winner. I've asked a nationally prominent wildlife expert to make the final decision. He knows the deer situation from coast to coast so everyone will bet a fair shake. Don't pass up a crack at that scope, just send along those statistics to me in care of the address at the end of the column.

Frank Swallow, of Salisbury, Md., says you can overcome the human scent disadvantage when stalking deer by rubbing your clothes with a freshly cut apple. And, if its a slow day and you get hungry while waiting on a stand you can eat the leftovers.

Henry Scripps, of Michigan's Upper Peninsula, informs me the night before he goes hunting he packs his hunting clothes in freshly cut everygreens to overcome the human scent.

Remember a small advertisement regarding the "All Game Cook Book" that appeared next to this column in last February's issue? Well, John S. Whiteman, an advertising representative for the DAV Magazine, sent a copy on to me, and I subsequently discovered it has some good tips for preparing venison. In particular, I liked the clear-broth venison stew.

The booklet also has recipes aplenty for 'most any game including rabbits, squirrels, opossums, bear, ducks, quail, moose pheasants and such - with even some fish cooking ideas thrown in.

John informs me copies are still available by sending a buck (the green kind) to James Publishing, Inc., Dept. 14, Mamaroneck, N.Y., 10543. Be sure to include your zip code.

If you're camping out on your deer hunt, Louis F. Walker, an auxiliary member from Plaserville, Calif., has a do-it-yourself suggestion. She reports a large lard can makes an ideal reflector type oven.

Place biscuits or whatever you're baking on the can's lid, then thrust it horizontally inside the container. Nestle the round can between two short logs to secure it and prop one or two burning logs in front of the open end. The heat will be reflected pretty evenly on the food, thus cook it up in grand style, she says.

Also, that lard can cover can serve as a makeshift frying pan in a pinch, she adds. Just punch a couple of holes in it and attach a wire handle using something like a coat hanger.

I might add a metal lard can is a good campsite storage bin, too. Its handles make it easy to carry, and camp pests such as skunks, mice or raccoons can't get into it.

By Bill Burton

Its deer hunting time in much of the U.S. now, or soon will be, so what topic could be more timely for our November issue?

Judging from the mail call here, stalking whitetails, mules or blacktails is the favorite sport of Dav'ers, many who have been thoughtful enough to send on some hunting tips, suggestions of where to go for the best trophies, or some very interesting statistics on their regions.

The optimism expressed by readers is also reflected in the forecasts of most state conservation departments. It looks as though we're in for a whale of a season 'most everywhere, living proof that deer especially whitetails, are a species of game that can adapt themselves to man's never ending invasion and takeover of their range.

Of all the wildlife picture, the status of the whitetail is the most heartening game as ducks must fight it out on a nip-and-tuck basis for survival. For example, how many would guess there are more whitetails in the country today than when the first pioneers came to clear the lands? Not many realize this true and proven fact?

When forests are cleared for farming, the deer thrive on agricultural products. The wise harvesting of timber results in a new growth that provides tasty buds and tender bark for deer. In most cases the hunger harvest, although seemingly enormous in many states, serves only to cultivate the herds and the population just continues to grow and grow.

Dallas Dav'er Charlie Braun forwarded a perfect illustration quoting the Texas Parks and Wildlife Department, which estimates there are more than 3.2 million deer there -- too many for a healthy herd. This, despite a kill of 270,000 last season.

Pittsburgh correspondent Don Jenkins, a veteran deer chaser and life member, sent on a fact sheet that shows Pennsylvania's herd is now estimated at more than a half million, even though the kill there was just shy of 120,000 last season.

Deer have become so populous in a small state like Vermont, for example, that in some sectors one out of every four hunters bagged one in a special brief antlerless hunt.

But, for an exceptionally interesting illustration of how deer herds can mushroom when conditions are right, how about New Zealand where they've got whitetails coming out their ears?

Three deer- a buck and two does- were imported there in 1860 to "add a touch of old England" to the surroundings.

They added the "touch" all right. Now marauding herds are the number one problem as they destroy forests, pasture land and woody cover.

New Zealand has become the Deer Hunter's Paradise of the world with a year 'round season, no bag limit and no license needed. The government will even supply the ammo.

It got to the point that the government even tried poisoning to reduce herds, but then got a better idea. Now deer are being gunned by professional hunters for market to twenty-three countries, and bring in more than two million dollars annually. It is expected this figure will eventually be increased ten-fold.

This same whitetail is by far the most predominant species fo deer in the U.S., ranging throughout the entire country with the exception of the extreme West and a thin strip that runs horizontally through the nation as far east as Ohio.

The mule deer roams in much of the country west of the Missouri River, while the blacktail is found on the extreme West Coast.

But, whichever deer Dav'ers gun they'll be eligible for a little contest this column will pull on. The winner will receive a Model K-l Weaver scope with crossbar reticle.

Just send in the weight and total antler points (both sides of rack) along with where the kill was made and the date. Save your deer tag or other proof of the kill's statistics in the event you win, so we can double check. Don't send it along.

Be sure to print your name and address clearly. The deadline for entries is January 15, and we'll name the DAV Grand Deerslayer in the April issue, along with those who came close.

In-as-much as deer vary in size according to species and geographical location this fact will be taken into consideration in choosing the winner. I've asked a nationally prominent wildlife expert to make the final decision. He knows the deer situation from coast to coast so everyone will bet a fair shake. Don't pass up a crack at that scope, just send along those statistics to me in care of the address at the end of the column.

Frank Swallow, of Salisbury, Md., says you can overcome the human scent disadvantage when stalking deer by rubbing your clothes with a freshly cut apple. And, if its a slow day and you get hungry while waiting on a stand you can eat the leftovers.

Henry Scripps, of Michigan's Upper Peninsula, informs me the night before he goes hunting he packs his hunting clothes in freshly cut everygreens to overcome the human scent.

Remember a small advertisement regarding the "All Game Cook Book" that appeared next to this column in last February's issue? Well, John S. Whiteman, an advertising representative for the DAV Magazine, sent a copy on to me, and I subsequently discovered it has some good tips for preparing venison. In particular, I liked the clear-broth venison stew.

The booklet also has recipes aplenty for 'most any game including rabbits, squirrels, opossums, bear, ducks, quail, moose pheasants and such - with even some fish cooking ideas thrown in.

John informs me copies are still available by sending a buck (the green kind) to James Publishing, Inc., Dept. 14, Mamaroneck, N.Y., 10543. Be sure to include your zip code.

If you're camping out on your deer hunt, Louis F. Walker, an auxiliary member from Plaserville, Calif., has a do-it-yourself suggestion. She reports a large lard can makes an ideal reflector type oven.

Place biscuits or whatever you're baking on the can's lid, then thrust it horizontally inside the container. Nestle the round can between two short logs to secure it and prop one or two burning logs in front of the open end. The heat will be reflected pretty evenly on the food, thus cook it up in grand style, she says.

Also, that lard can cover can serve as a makeshift frying pan in a pinch, she adds. Just punch a couple of holes in it and attach a wire handle using something like a coat hanger.

I might add a metal lard can is a good campsite storage bin, too. Its handles make it easy to carry, and camp pests such as skunks, mice or raccoons can't get into it.

Friendly Mutt Knows How to Make Own Way

NEW YORK (AP) — Just short of a year ago Army Spec. 4 Frank A. Coronato bought a mongrel pup for $2.80 from a native boy in Long Bonh, Vietnam.

Six months later the black and brown, knee high dog had won the heart of the entire 561st Transportation Corps, with which Coronato served.

The 22-year-old Staten Island soldier was proud of his new friend, whom he called Joe. The pup had earned the title of mascot of the entire 3,000-man outfit.

And earned it he had, living on scraps from the mess hall, even traveling with the troops on dangerous truck convoys through the Vietnamese countryside.

When Coronato ended his Vietnam duty last September he decided he couldn't part with Joe. But it cost $160 to ship the puppy home by air freight and soldiers' salaries being what they are, Coronato did not have the money.

So he asked Capt. George Douglas of the Moore-McCormack line's Robin Hood if he would take Joe to New York. Five minutes of hand-licking and paw-shaking later the pooch had a free trip to the states.

Monday, Joe arrived in his adopted land. As one might expect, he again had won everybody over. Douglas said: "We had a nice doghouse built for him but he didn't spend a night in it. He took to the bridge immediately. He thought he was an officer. And he had the run of the ship. He became the mascot of the whole 44-man crew."

But Joe's heart was true. When he spotted his old buddy Frank he bounded toward him, leaped into his arms and gave the ex-soldier a face-licking that had him reaching for his handkerchief time and again.

Douglas got a farewell hand licking from Joe and told Coronato, now an auto parts salesman, "If you ever want to get rid of him, just let me know."

$47 Million For Missouri Water Projects

WASHINGTON, D.C.-Congress has completed action on a public works appropriations bill that would provide $47,350,000 for Missouri flood control projects for fiscal year 1968, a total $2,730,000 above the amount that had been requested in the president's budget recommendation, according to Senators Stuart Symington (D-Mo.) and Edward V. Long (D-Mo.).

In view of the budget demands of the war in Vietnam, the Missouri senators said, "The appropriation was as much as could be expected," but expressed disappointment that their requests for additional funds for the Grand river basic and the Missouri river agricultural levees were not successful. Flood damage earlier this year focused national attention on the need for these flood control projects.

The largest increase in Missouri came to the Kaysinger Bluff area where $10 million was allocated to continue construction on the massive reservoir project. This was $1.2 million above the budget request.

Included in the Missouri projects and the amounts that were appropriated, president's budget, approved by senate and final action respectively:

Mississippi river between Ohio and Missouri rivers $1,500,000, $1,500,000, $1,500,000; St. Louis, flood control, $6,000,000, $6,000,000, $6,000,000; St. Louis harbor, St. Louis and Illinois, $75,000, $75,000, $75,000; White river basin Arkansas and Missouri, $380,000, $380,000, $380,000.

Remove Deodorant Stains With White Vinegar

By POLLY CRAMER

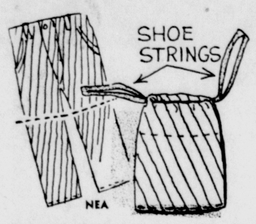
Polly's Problem

DEAR POLLY—The deodorant my husband uses has caused his T-shirts to become yellow and stiff under the arms. I have tried everything I know of to make them white and soft again, but with no success. Can someone tell me what will accomplish this?—HELEN

DEAR HELEN—The same mail brought the following letter which may be the answer to your problem.—POLLY

DEAR POLLY—Deodorant stains will disappear if you scrub the discolored area with white vinegar. Rinse thoroughly and then launder as usual.—DEBBIE

DEAR POLLY—After cutting off the legs of jeans to make shorts, the cut-off pieces make sturdy marble bags. The side seams are there, so just stitch the bottom, turn a top hem down and stitch. I use two shoestrings for good pull-up drawstrings.—MRS. A. F. S.



DEAR POLLY—It would be quite a chore to write the required information on individual labels for each package of food I prepare for my freezer. Being a teacher, I have resorted to the legend idea, much as one reads a map. One label that fits each identical group of food packages is written on a wide strip of freezer tape. A piece of colored yarn or a narrow strip of colored cloth is attached to it. Both are securely stuck on the inside of the freezer door or lid but one must be sure the spot is dry before attaching. Each package of food is sealed with a piece of the proper color of yarn or cloth firmly attached with a small piece of freezer tape. In the case of bags, this is put under the twister fastener to be easily seen. The legend of the contents of the freezer is there to be easily read. I have used this method for years and know I should have shared it long before this.—HELEN

DEAR POLLY—Bottles with a shaft spray often get to the point where they just will not spray. I have found a simple way to get them to work after they become stopped up. Put the push part in a container of almost-hot water and soak for a few minutes, then put the end back on and keep pushing until the shaft is open and will spray again.—LUCILE

Health Care Report Raps Rising Costs

WASHINGTON (AP) — A presidential commission's call for a major overhaul of the U.S. health care system is expected to spur new federal efforts to hold down rising medical costs.

While top officials of the Department of Health, Education and Welfare declined comment on specifics, sources said they were delighted by the commission report issued Monday.

"It does give us a tremendous amount of moral support and a great deal of encouragement," an informed source said. "I don't think there's an item in there we would disagree with."

The 15-member commission appointed by President Johnson last May told him: "There is a crisis in American health care. The intuition of the average citizen has foundation in fact."

Average citizens have become aware of the crisis, the commission said, by having to wait for long periods to see a doctor for routine care and then receiving "hurried and sometimes impersonal attention in a limited appointment time..."

And for the next 10 years, the commission forecast, patients are likely to receive even less personal attention. It noted 98 per cent of current medical school graduates go into specialties rather than general practice.

The commission did not make explicit how its recommendations would make more health professionals available for patient needs.

No large outlays of federal money or expansion of federal powers were recommended by the commission, and sources said the administration feels no dismay at this.

Highway Commission Asks Bids Dec. 14 On Work Totaling $21 Million

The Missouri State Highway Commission has issued a call for bids December 14 on an estimated $21,250,000 in highway construction and improvements on about 176 miles of the state's roads in 27 counties and the cities of Kansas City, St. Louis, Nevada and Excelsior Springs.

The call includes 6.1 miles of Interstate System work estimated to cost $8,500,000; 97.1 miles of Primary and Urban System improvements estimated at $8,750,000; and 72.6 miles of Secondary (Farm to Market) System work estimated at $4,000,000.

Interstate system projects are:

Sikeston, Mo.

Dear Santa Claus,

I am a little girl of 3 almost 4 years of age. I am a typical little girl. I have my good days and my bad ones, but mommy and daddy think I'm pretty good. I would like to have a talking Bugs Bunny by Mattel, a set of cooking utensils, an iron and ironing board, some playing cards and paper dolls. Also I would like a new dress and shoes.

Please don't forget my mommy and daddy and my Uncle Ronnie who is 6 and my cousin Linda Kay.

Thank You,
Kathy Christie

Dear Santa,

My name is Jan Quertermous. I live at 1701 E. Malone. I have been a very good little girl. I would like to have a swinger camera, jewelry, and clothes. Please remember all my friends Kathy, Martha, Lee Ann, Masy Lynn, and all the rest of my best friends. Please remember my sister Diane.

Love,
Jan Quertermous

P.S. We all have been very good. Oh yes, I would like anything else you happen to bring me.

Soviet Propaganda Claims U.S. to Invade Viet North

By WILLIAM L. Ryan
AP Special Correspondent

President Johnson is pictured as trying to persuade Americans that they are gradually winning in Vietnam. The Communist side is engaged at the same time in spreading the idea that an American attempt to insure victory would be dangerous to the world.

The Russians, confronted with their own dilemmas in Southeast Asia, probably would settle for a long, drawn-out stalemate in the Vietnam war, so long as the standoff continued to drain U.S. resources without raising the danger of a Soviet-American showdown. They may calculate that events could get out of hand, at least from their point of view.

Even if what Soviet propagandists say is intended only to introduce a red herring into the Southeast Asia situation, there is an ominous sound to it. The propaganda, notably that portion of it directed to Southeast Asia, insists that the United States has a new "escalation plan," based upon the invasion of North Vietnam and extension of the war into the rest of Indochina.

Radio Peace and Progress, Moscow's propaganda voice for Asia, makes the claim that Gen. William C. Westmoreland, the American commander, visited Washington specifically to talk with President Johnson about a new plan to invade the North.

"It appears Gen. Westmoreland wants to prove that it is indispensable to outflank the positions of the Vietnamese patriots for a U.S. victory," Moscow said. "The new criminal plan also provides for the extension of the war to Cambodia and Laos. With this aim in mind, Green Beret units are being transferred to the frontiers of Laos and Cambodia."

This suggests that should American fortunes in Southeast Asia improve dramatically, there exists an already built-in pretext for heavier Soviet involvement in the situation. There seems more than a veiled hint in the Soviet words that a U.S. attempt to achieve an appearance of victory would inevitably lead to wider war in Asia and perhaps to World War III.

The question of widened war in Asia may depend upon the definition of "victory." If victory for the American side means capitulation and withdrawal of North Vietnam's troops from the South, the Soviet Union will face the necessity of considering what response it should make to uphold its claim to the leadership of international communism.

President Johnson has spoken in terms of "limited victory." Neither the United States nor the Soviet Union seems to relish the prospect of an expanded war in Asia, though each is aware that events can make it inevitable.

Friendly Mutt Knows How to Make Own Way

NEW YORK (AP) — Just short of a year ago Army Spec. 4 Frank A. Coronato bought a mongrel pup for $2.80 from a native boy in Long Bonh, Vietnam.

Six months later the black and brown, knee high dog had won the heart of the entire 561st Transportation Corps, with which Coronato served.

The 22-year-old Staten Island soldier was proud of his new friend, whom he called Joe. The pup had earned the title of mascot of the entire 3,000-man outfit.

And earned it he had, living on scraps from the mess hall, even traveling with the troops on dangerous truck convoys through the Vietnamese countryside.

When Coronato ended his Vietnam duty last September he decided he couldn't part with Joe. But it cost $160 to ship the puppy home by air freight and soldiers' salaries being what they are, Coronato did not have the money.

So he asked Capt. George Douglas of the Moore-McCormack line's Robin Hood if he would take Joe to New York. Five minutes of hand-licking and paw-shaking later the pooch had a free trip to the states.

Monday, Joe arrived in his adopted land. As one might expect, he again had won everybody over. Douglas said: "We had a nice doghouse built for him but he didn't spend a night in it. He took to the bridge immediately. He thought he was an officer. And he had the run of the ship. He became the mascot of the whole 44-man crew."

But Joe's heart was true. When he spotted his old buddy Frank he bounded toward him, leaped into his arms and gave the ex-soldier a face-licking that had him reaching for his handkerchief time and again.

Douglas got a farewell hand licking from Joe and told Coronato, now an auto parts salesman, "If you ever want to get rid of him, just let me know."

$47 Million For Missouri Water Projects

WASHINGTON, D.C.-Congress has completed action on a public works appropriations bill that would provide $47,350,000 for Missouri flood control projects for fiscal year 1968, a total $2,730,000 above the amount that had been requested in the president's budget recommendation, according to Senators Stuart Symington (D-Mo.) and Edward V. Long (D-Mo.).

In view of the budget demands of the war in Vietnam, the Missouri senators said, "The appropriation was as much as could be expected," but expressed disappointment that their requests for additional funds for the Grand river basic and the Missouri river agricultural levees were not successful. Flood damage earlier this year focused national attention on the need for these flood control projects.

The largest increase in Missouri came to the Kaysinger Bluff area where $10 million was allocated to continue construction on the massive reservoir project. This was $1.2 million above the budget request.

Included in the Missouri projects and the amounts that were appropriated, president's budget, approved by senate and final action respectively:

Mississippi river between Ohio and Missouri rivers $1,500,000, $1,500,000, $1,500,000; St. Louis, flood control, $6,000,000, $6,000,000, $6,000,000; St. Louis harbor, St. Louis and Illinois, $75,000, $75,000, $75,000; White river basin Arkansas and Missouri, $380,000, $380,000, $380,000.

Remove Deodorant Stains With White Vinegar

By POLLY CRAMER

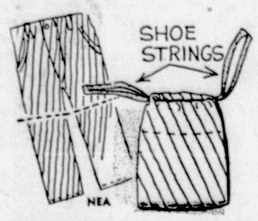
Polly's Problem

DEAR POLLY—The deodorant my husband uses has caused his T-shirts to become yellow and stiff under the arms. I have tried everything I know of to make them white and soft again, but with no success. Can someone tell me what will accomplish this?—HELEN

DEAR HELEN—The same mail brought the following letter which may be the answer to your problem.—POLLY

DEAR POLLY—Deodorant stains will disappear if you scrub the discolored area with white vinegar. Rinse thoroughly and then launder as usual.—DEBBIE

DEAR POLLY—After cutting off the legs of jeans to make shorts, the cut-off pieces make sturdy marble bags. The side seams are there, so just stitch the bottom, turn a top hem down and stitch. I use two shoestrings for good pull-up drawstrings.—MRS. A. F. S.



DEAR POLLY—It would be quite a chore to write the required information on individual labels for each package of food I prepare for my freezer. Being a teacher, I have resorted to the legend idea, much as one reads a map. One label that fits each identical group of food packages is written on a wide strip of freezer tape. A piece of colored yarn or a narrow strip of colored cloth is attached to it. Both are securely stuck on the inside of the freezer door or lid but one must be sure the spot is dry before attaching. Each package of food is sealed with a piece of the proper color of yarn or cloth firmly attached with a small piece of freezer tape. In the case of bags, this is put under the twister fastener to be easily seen. The legend of the contents of the freezer is there to be easily read. I have used this method for years and know I should have shared it long before this.—HELEN

DEAR POLLY—Bottles with a shaft spray often get to the point where they just will not spray. I have found a simple way to get them to work after they become stopped up. Put the push part in a container of almost-hot water and soak for a few minutes, then put the end back on and keep pushing until the shaft is open and will spray again.—LUCILE

Health Care Report Raps Rising Costs

WASHINGTON (AP) — A presidential commission's call for a major overhaul of the U.S. health care system is expected to spur new federal efforts to hold down rising medical costs.

While top officials of the Department of Health, Education and Welfare declined comment on specifics, sources said they were delighted by the commission report issued Monday.

"It does give us a tremendous amount of moral support and a great deal of encouragement," an informed source said. "I don't think there's an item in there we would disagree with."

The 15-member commission appointed by President Johnson last May told him: "There is a crisis in American health care. The intuition of the average citizen has foundation in fact."

Average citizens have become aware of the crisis, the commission said, by having to wait for long periods to see a doctor for routine care and then receiving "hurried and sometimes impersonal attention in a limited appointment time..."

And for the next 10 years, the commission forecast, patients are likely to receive even less personal attention. It noted 98 per cent of current medical school graduates go into specialties rather than general practice.

The commission did not make explicit how its recommendations would make more health professionals available for patient needs.

No large outlays of federal money or expansion of federal powers were recommended by the commission, and sources said the administration feels no dismay at this.

Highway Commission Asks Bids Dec. 14 On Work Totaling $21 Million

The Missouri State Highway Commission has issued a call for bids December 14 on an estimated $21,250,000 in highway construction and improvements on about 176 miles of the state's roads in 27 counties and the cities of Kansas City, St. Louis, Nevada and Excelsior Springs.

Dear Santa

Dear Santa,

My name is Susan Hodges. I would like for you to bring me a Baby's Hungry, a bassinet, and a doll playpen. That's all I want this year.

Love,
Susan Hodges
819 Harvard Rd.
Sikeston, Mo.

Dear Santa Claus,

I am a little girl of 3 almost 4 years of age. I am a typical little girl. I have my good days and my bad ones, but mommy and daddy think I'm pretty good. I would like to have a talking Bugs Bunny by Mattel, a set of cooking utensils, an iron and ironing board, some playing cards and paper dolls. Also I would like a new dress and shoes.

Please don't forget my mommy and daddy and my Uncle Ronnie who is 6 and my cousin Linda Kay.

Thank You,
Kathy Christie
128 4th St.
Sikeston, Mo.

Dear Santa,

My name is Jan Quertermous. I live at 1701 E. Malone. I have been a very good little girl. I would like to have a swinger camera, jewelry, and clothes. Please remember all my friends Kathy, Martha, Lee Ann, Masy Lynn, and all the rest of my best friends. Please remember my sister Diane.

Love,
Jan Quertermous

P.S. We all have been very good. Oh yes, I would like anything else you happen to bring me.

Soviet Propaganda Claims U.S. to Invade Viet North

By WILLIAM L. Ryan
AP Special Correspondent

President Johnson is pictured as trying to persuade Americans that they are gradually winning in Vietnam. The Communist side is engaged at the same time in spreading the idea that an American attempt to insure victory would be dangerous to the world.

The Russians, confronted with their own dilemmas in Southeast Asia, probably would settle for a long, drawn-out stalemate in the Vietnam war, so long as the standoff continued to drain U.S. resources without raising the danger of a Soviet-American showdown. They may calculate that events could get out of hand, at least from their point of view.

Even if what Soviet propagandists say is intended only to introduce a red herring into the Southeast Asia situation, there is an ominous sound to it. The propaganda, notably that portion of it directed to Southeast Asia, insists that the United States has a new "escalation plan," based upon the invasion of North Vietnam and extension of the war into the rest of Indochina.

Radio Peace and Progress, Moscow's propaganda voice for Asia, makes the claim that Gen. William C. Westmoreland, the American commander, visited Washington specifically to talk with President Johnson about a new plan to invade the North.

"It appears Gen. Westmoreland wants to prove that it is indispensable to outflank the positions of the Vietnamese patriots for a U.S. victory," Moscow said. "The new criminal plan also provides for the extension of the war to Cambodia and Laos. With this aim in mind, Green Beret units are being transferred to the frontiers of Laos and Cambodia."

This suggests that should American fortunes in Southeast Asia improve dramatically, there exists an already built-in pretext for heavier Soviet involvement in the situation. There seems more than a veiled hint in the Soviet words that a U.S. attempt to achieve an appearance of victory would inevitably lead to wider war in Asia and perhaps to World War III.

The question of widened war in Asia may depend upon the definition of "victory." If victory for the American side means capitulation and withdrawal of North Vietnam's troops from the South, the Soviet Union will face the necessity of considering what response it should make to uphold its claim to the leadership of international communism.

President Johnson has spoken in terms of "limited victory." Neither the United States nor the Soviet Union seems to relish the prospect of an expanded war in Asia, though each is aware that events can make it inevitable.

"VARIATIONS ON THE FIREBIRD," a major work by Cape Girardeau Sculptor James Garner, who is exhibiting other works in Madison Square Garden in New York was formally presented to Southeast Missouri State College in Cape Girardeau at a ceremony at intermission of the play "Becket." The work adorns the main lobby leading to the theater in the language arts building where the dedication was made in memory of the late Mrs. Paul Buchmueller of Sikeston by the Buchmueller family. From left are Garner, Dr. Mark F. Scully, president of the college who accepted the Firebird on behalf of the board of regents; Paul Buchmueller, architect and designer of the language arts building, who presented the gift, and Mrs. Byron Foust of Cape Girardeau, daughter of Buchmueller. The work is done in bronze, brass and steel. - Southeast Missourian photo.

Condemnation Suits Will Be Heard in Court

CAPE GIRARDEAU -- Three condemnation suits will be among the fou non-jury civil cases to be taken up in the fall term of federal district court for the Eastern District of Missouri, Southeastern Division, which convened.

The government is the plaintiff in one suit where 21.39 acres of land in Dunklin and New Madrid counties are requested for erection of electrical power lines.

One condemnation case involves the government versus owners of 84.70 acres of land in New Madrid county sought for flood control.

The government is also plaintiff in a suit which involves 80 acres of land in Shannon County sought for the Interior Ozark Scenic Riverway.

In the fourth civil suit, H. Y. Smith, doing business as H. Y. Smith Co., is asking judgment of $16,360 of Missouri Dry Dock and Repair Co. for an alleged breach of contract.

Stolen Checks Recovered

HAYTI -- Over $3,000 in checks, stolen from the B. A. Cross Big Star Grocery Saturday were found Monday in a deposit mail box in Caruthersville, according to the Pemiscot County sheriff's office.

B. A. Cross said that three or more Negro men entered the store after one a.m. Saturday and an argument started. Cross, who was in his office preparing the checks for deposit at the bank, came out to investigate the fight. Evidently, according to the police and sheriff's office, one of the group went into the office and placed the checks in a paper sack while the attention of Cross and other employes and shoppers were attracted by the argument. The checks taken were for a total of $3,481.

The Negro men were reported to have left the scene in a blue 1959 Oldsmobile headed east on Highway 84.

Hayti police, Pemiscot County authorities and the state highway patrol are investigating the incident.

Newspaper Carrier Robbed in Cairo

CAIRO -- Russell Long, a Cairo Evening Citizen newspaper carrier, was robbed of $15 to $20 at 27th and Commercial Ave., as he collected his route Friday afternoon.

Long, who was on his bicycle, was accosted by two Negro boys who demanded his money.

Martin Brown, general manager of The Cairo Evening Citizen, said that his company is posting a $200 reward for information leading to the arrest and conviction of the youths who robbed Long.

Brown also noted that The Citizen Company is cooperating with the Cairo police department in an effort to prevent city carrier boys from being robbed.

Reporters Get Sneak Peek at Soviet Airliner

WASHINGTON (AP) — A sleek Soviet jet liner has star billing at Dulles International Airport as it undergoes a series of tests aimed at clearing the way for nonstop Moscow to New York air service.

The Aeroflot IL62 touched down at Dulles Monday night and in the floodlit, televised confusion, four newsmen got a sneak preview of the inside of the craft from six pretty Soviet stewardesses.

They said they found the air stale— apparently due to a nonoperating ventilating system — but otherwise the interior of the plane appeared to measure up to standards of most American passenger jets.

In the terminal, Dimitry I. Petrov, inspector general of Soviet civil aviation, described the visit as "the first step for the beginning of direct communication between Moscow and New York."

The flight, Petrov said, brings the Soviet and American capitals to within 11 hours of each other.

Aeroflot and Pan American Airways have applied to the two governments for clearance to begin the direct air service. The two governments have completed negotiations for opening the two routes except for final operating details.

Pan American is sending a team of technicians to Moscow in December to obtain Soviet clearance on the 707-321B which it plans to use on the route.

Austin Strains Income Less Than Honolulu

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

If you're married, have two youngsters and earn around $8,000 a year, Honolulu is not for you. Austin, Tex., is more your speed.

That was the gist of a recent federal report that said the two cities were, respectively, the most expensive and least expensive of 39 U.S. metropolitan areas studied.

A random sampling of 33 items from houses to hamburgers by Associated Press reporters in both cities buttresses the Bureau of Labor Statistics report.

The cost of a new three-bedroom ranch-style house in a good, but not exclusive area, in Honolulu was put at about $27,000. The figure for a similar house in Austin: $22,500.

And in Honolulu most homes are built on leased land. You buy the house but rent the land it sits on.

The annual property tax for the Honolulu house would be $483. In Austin it would be $360.

Rental housing also was found to be more costly in Honolulu, where a two-bedroom apartment in a new apartment house rents for about $150 a month. The comparable Austin figure: $125.

The federal report said that a typical family of four— parents in their late 30s, son 13 and daughter 8— would need $11,190 annually to live moderately in Honolulu, Hawaii's major city. The figure for Austin was approximately $8,000.

Why the big difference?

According to Arthur Chase, assistant commissioner of the Bureau of Labor Statistics, the basic reason is that most items in the family budget must be shipped to Honolulu and these costs push up prices.

Austin is said to be typical of many smaller metropolitan areas in the South where housing and transportation costs are lower.

Deserters Say U.S. Servicemen Not in Favor of Viet War

MOSCOW (AP) — Four U.S. sailors who deserted the carrier Intrepid in Japan told the Soviet public today that a majority of American servicemen do not want to fight in Vietnam.

A Soviet "peace committee" looking after the four said they are "resting" in Moscow but declined to give their whereabouts or future plans or to allow foreign newsmen to talk with them.

The four young men said on Moscow television Monday night they deserted in protest against U.S. policy in Vietnam. They are Richard D. Bailey, 19, of Jacksonville, Fla.; John Michael Barilla, 20, of Catonsville, Md.; Craig W. Anderson, 20, of San Jose, Calif., and Michael Lindner, 19, of Mount Pocono, Pa.

The U.S. Embassy said it has no intention of trying to contact the deserters or inquiring about them. A spokesman said the embassy plans to ignore them.

In an interview today in Pravda, the Soviet Communist party newspaper, the sailors said they would go on to other countries to continue their work against "the inhuman war in Vietnam." They did not say which countries.

The four young Americans jumped ship Oct. 24 while the Intrepid was in Japan for a recreation stay after a tour bombing North Vietnam.

A Japanese peace group which looked after the deserters said they went to the Soviet Union because they apparently did not consider Japan neutral in the Vietnam war.

"I think the majority of Americans do not want to fight in Vietnam," Barilla told Pravda, "but many of them lack decisiveness. They are drafted and they 'do their duty'."

Barilla said his officers told him America has to fight in Vietnam to stop communism.

He turned against the war he said, after watching planes loaded with bombs fly off from the Intrepid on raiding missions day after day.

"It became clear to me that we were killing people," he said. "I am convinced that the United States does not have any right to be in Vietnam."

Anderson said, "We would like to be an example to those who are beginning to understand the Vietnamese war."

He said that on the basis of what he observed on the Intrepid, he did not think the majority of pilots favored the war.

Stocks React Feverishly to Pound Drop

NEW YORK (AP) — Stock, bond and commodity markets reacted feverishly to devaluation of the British pound and boosts in British and U.S. interest rates.

Many apprehensive traders sold Monday in an effort to protect their investments.

Prices fell sharply in early trading on the New York Stock Exchange but recovered most of their losses by the close.

The Dow Jones average of 30 industrials fell 14.96 points in the first half hour of trading but closed off 4.33 at 857.58.

In New York, the price of U.S. government bonds declined.

American grain prices dropped and meat prices dipped. Commodity prices, including cocoa, sugar and copper, were mixed.

Apprehension had built up among investors after the British pound was devalued to $2.40 from $2.80, the British lending rate was raised to 8 per cent from 6.5 per cent and the U.S. discount was increased to 4.5 per cent from 4 per cent during the weekend.

The devaluation was intended to bolster the sagging British economy by making exports more attractive by lowering their price by about 14.3 per cent. At the same time, the devaluation increased the price the English must pay for imports by about the same amount.

The British government, plagued by years of importing more than it exports, hoped the devaluation would change its balance of trade.

The boost in the British lending rate was designed to attract foreign investment in Britain by paying a higher interest rate and also to slew economic activity.

The U.S. Federal Reserve Board hiked its official lending rate for the same reason— to tighten the money supply.

A result of the devaluation may be that Americans will pay less for scotch, sweaters, china and other imports from Britain.

"VARIATIONS ON THE FIREBIRD," a major work by Cape Girardeau Sculptor James Garner, who is exhibiting other works in Madison Square Garden in New York was formally presented to Southeast Missouri State College in Cape Girardeau at a ceremony at intermission of the play "Becket." The work adorns the main lobby leading to the theater in the language arts building where the dedication was made in memory of the late Mrs. Paul Buchmueller of Sikeston by the Buchmueller family. From left are Garner, Dr. Mark F. Scully, president of the college who accepted the Firebird on behalf of the board of regents; Paul Buchmueller, architect and designer of the language arts building, who presented the gift, and Mrs. Byron Foust of Cape Girardeau, daughter of Buchmueller. The work is done in bronze, brass and steel. - Southeast Missourian photo.

Condemnation Suits Will Be Heard in Court

CAPE GIRARDEAU -- Three condemnation suits will be among the fou non-jury civil cases to be taken up in the fall term of federal district court for the Eastern District of Missouri, Southeastern Division, which convened.

The government is the plaintiff in one suit where 21.39 acres of land in Dunklin and New Madrid counties are requested for erection of electrical power lines.

One condemnation case involves the government versus owners of 84.70 acres of land in New Madrid county sought for flood control.

The government is also plaintiff in a suit which involves 80 acres of land in Shannon County sought for the Interior Ozark Scenic Riverway.

In the fourth civil suit, H. Y. Smith, doing business as H. Y. Smith Co., is asking judgment of $16,360 of Missouri Dry Dock and Repair Co. for an alleged breach of contract.

Stolen Checks Recovered

HAYTI -- Over $3,000 in checks, stolen from the B. A. Cross Big Star Grocery Saturday were found Monday in a deposit mail box in Caruthersville, according to the Pemiscot County sheriff's office.

B. A. Cross said that three or more Negro men entered the store after one a.m. Saturday and an argument started. Cross, who was in his office preparing the checks for deposit at the bank, came out to investigate the fight. Evidently, according to the police and sheriff's office, one of the group went into the office and placed the checks in a paper sack while the attention of Cross and other employes and shoppers were attracted by the argument. The checks taken were for a total of $3,481.

The Negro men were reported to have left the scene in a blue 1959 Oldsmobile headed east on Highway 84.

Hayti police, Pemiscot County authorities and the state highway patrol are investigating the incident.

Brown also noted that The Citizen Company is cooperating with the Cairo police department in an effort to prevent city carrier boys from being robbed.

ARMED FORCES

FT. McCLELLAN, ALA. (AHTNC) - Army Private Larry G. Barham, 22, son of Mr. and Mrs. Loren Barham, Route 2, Portageville, Mo., completed nine weeks of advanced infantry training Nov. 10 at Ft. McClellan, Ala.

The course, which simulates Vietnam conditions, includes training in such subjects as land naviation, communications, patrolling, guerrilla and survival techniques plus qualification with infantry weapons.

.....

FT. POLK, LA. (AHTNC) -- Army Private James A. Green, 19, son of Mr. and Mrs. Claude A. Green, Route 2, East Prairie, Mo., completed nine weeks of advanced infantry training Nov. 10 at Ft. Polk, La. His last week of training was spent in guerrilla warfare exercises.

During his guerrilla training, he lived under simulated Vietnam conditions for five days, fighting off night attacks and conducting raids on "enemy" villages. He was taught methods of removing booby traps, setting ambushes and avoiding enemy ambushes.

Other specialized training included small unit tactics, map reading, land mine warfare, communications, and firing the M-14 rifle, M-60 machinegun and the 3.5-inch rocket launcher.

.....

FT. HOOD, Tex. (AHTNC) -- Army Specialist Four Larry T. Johnson, 24, son of Ira E. Johnson, 601 First St., Portageville, Mo., graduated from the Fourth U. S. Army Noncommissioned Officer's Academy at Ft. Hood, Tex., Nov. 2.

The eight-week course is designed to school noncommissioned officers in the basic principles of leadership and increase their ability to instruct others. He learned such things as tactics, leadership, preventive maintenance and map reading.

Newspaper Carrier Robbed in Cairo

CAIRO -- Russell Long, a Cairo Evening Citizen newspaper carrier, was robbed of $15 to $20 at 27th and Commercial Ave., as he collected his route Friday afternoon.

Long, who was on his bicycle, was accosted by two Negro boys who demanded his money.

Martin Brown, general manager of The Cairo Evening Citizen, said that his company is posting a $200 reward for information leading to the arrest and conviction of the youths who robbed Long.

The Bennington, an antisubmarine warfare support aircraft carrier, waited on-station northeast of Midway island in the Pacific as the Apollo made its flight.

Reporters Get Sneak Peek at Soviet Airliner

WASHINGTON (AP) — A sleek Soviet jet liner has star billing at Dulles International Airport as it undergoes a series of tests aimed at clearing the way for nonstop Moscow to New York air service.

The Aeroflot IL62 touched down at Dulles Monday night and in the floodlit, televised conclusion, four newsmen got a sneak preview of the inside of the craft from six pretty Soviet stewardesses.

They said they found the air stale— apparently due to a nonoperating ventilating system — but otherwise the interior of the plane appeared to measure up to standards of most American passenger jets.

In the terminal, Dimitry L. Petrov, inspector general of Soviet civil aviation, described the visit as "the first step for the beginning of direct communication between Moscow and New York."

The flight, Petrov said, brings the Soviet and American capitals to within 11 hours of each other.

Aeroflot and Pan American Airways have applied to the two governments for clearance to begin the direct air service. The two governments have completed negotiations for opening the two routes except for final operating details.

Pan American is sending a team of technicians to Moscow in December to obtain Soviet clearance on the 707-321B which it plans to use on the route.

Austin Strains Income Less Than Honolulu

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

If you're married, have two youngsters and earn around $8,000 a year, Honolulu is not for you. Austin, Tex., is more your speed.

That was the gist of a recent federal report that said the two cities were, respectively, the most expensive and least expensive of 39 U.S. metropolitan areas studied.

A random sampling of 33 items from houses to hamburgers by Associated Press reporters in both cities buttresses the Bureau of Labor Statistics report.

The cost of a new three-bedroom ranch-style house in a good, but not exclusive area, in Honolulu was put at about $27,000. The figure for a similar house in Austin: $22,500.

And in Honolulu most homes are built on leased land. You buy the house but rent the land it sits on.

The annual property tax for the Honolulu house would be $483. In Austin it would be $360.

Rental housing also was found to be more costly in Honolulu, where a two-bedroom apartment in a new apartment house rents for about $150 a month. The comparable Austin figure: $125.

The federal report said that a typical family of four— parents in their late 30s, son 13 and daughter 8— would need $11,190 annually to live moderately in Honolulu, Hawaii's major city. The figure for Austin was approximately $8,000.

Why the big difference?

According to Arthur Chase, assistant commissioner of the Bureau of Labor Statistics, the basic reason is that most items in the family budget must be shipped to Honolulu and these costs push up prices.

Austin is said to be typical of many smaller metropolitan areas in the South where housing and transportation costs are lower.

Deserters Say U.S. Servicemen Not in Favor of Viet War

MOSCOW (AP) — Four U.S. sailors who deserted the carrier Intrepid in Japan told the Soviet public today that a majority of American servicemen do not want to fight in Vietnam.

A Soviet "peace committee" looking after the four said they are "resting" in Moscow but declined to give their whereabouts or future plans or to allow foreign newsmen to talk with them.

The four young men said on Moscow television Monday night they deserted in protest against U.S. policy in Vietnam. They are Richard D. Bailey, 19, of Jacksonville, Fla.; John Michael Barilla, 20, of Catonsville, Md.; Craig W. Anderson, 20, of San Jose, Calif., and Michael Lindner, 19, of Mount Pocono, Pa.

The U.S. Embassy said it has no intention of trying to contact the deserters or inquiring about them. A spokesman said the embassy plans to ignore them.

In an interview today in Pravda, the Soviet Communist party newspaper, the sailors said they would go on to other countries to continue their work against "the inhuman war in Vietnam." They did not say which countries.

The four young Americans jumped ship Oct. 24 while the Intrepid was in Japan for a recreation stay after a tour bombing North Vietnam.

A Japanese peace group which looked after the deserters said they went to the Soviet Union because they apparently did not consider Japan neutral in the Vietnam war.

"I think the majority of Americans do not want to fight in Vietnam," Barilla told Pravda, "but many of them lack decisiveness. They are drafted and they 'do their duty'."

Barilla said his officers told him America has to fight in Vietnam to stop communism.

He turned against the war he said, after watching planes loaded with bombs fly off from the Intrepid on raiding missions day after day.

"It became clear to me that we were killing people," he said. "I am convinced that the United States does not have any right to be in Vietnam."

Anderson said, "We would like to be an example to those who are beginning to understand the Vietnamese war."

He said that on the basis of what he observed on the Intrepid, he did not think the majority of pilots favored the war.

"But they prefer to remain silent," he said. "This personal indifference was one of the main reasons we decided to do something."

On the Moscow television program Monday night, broadcast in Russian and English and apparently recorded, the four answered questions put to them by three members of the Soviet peace committee.

Troop Payoff Denied

WASHINGTON (AP) — A South Korean official denies his country is sending combat troops to South Vietnam to repay massive U.S. economic aid and trade concessions.

Ambassador Kim Dong-Jo said South Korea's contribution of troops to the Vietnam war "is not in any sense a mercenary action."

His comments came Monday following publication by the St. Louis Post-Dispatch of a story saying South Korea is receiving millions of dollars worth of special aid and trade concessions in return for providing combat troops in the Southeast Asian struggle.

Post-Dispatch Washington correspondent Richard Dudman said the incentives were so generous "the administration has covered them with a security classification in an effort to prevent other allies in Vietnam from learning their terms."

Noting South Korea has some 48,000 troops in Vietnam, Dudman said the advantages offered by the United States were necessary to make it financially possible for the country to provide combat units in that strength.

In other war-related developments:

— The United States officially expressed regret to India for "any casualties that might be caused" the International Control Commission in Hanoi by American air attacks on the North Vietnamese capital.

The statement followed radio broadcasts from Hanoi that an Indian member of the ICC was killed and another wounded during a U.S. attack last week. The State Department said again it as not confirmed that U.S. aircraft were responsible for the reported casualties.

— Lt. Col. Frank W. Kiel, medical adviser to Army Intelligence, said the need for blood transfusions for Americans in Vietnam has increased from an average 5 pints a week in 1965 to up to 10,000 pints monthly late this year. Kiel spoke to a convention of the Association of Military Surgeons of the United States.

— Sen. Mark O. Hatfield, R-Ore., told newsmen in Columbus, Ohio, "the division of thinking on Vietnam is growing deeper every day." Hatfield has been a persistent critic of President Johnson's war policies.

Johnson's Burial

Andrew Johnson, 17th president of the United States, was buried wrapped in the Stars and Stripes, with a copy of the Constitution under his head.

MASTER SGT. RUBEN F. CURTIS, right, whose wife, Patsy, is the daughter of Mrs. Jewell Gentile of 226 Dorothy St., receives his certificate of retirement from the air force at Langley Air Force Base, Va. Col. D. D. The sergeant, a veteran of 25 years, served during World War II and the Korean war.

Weaver 'Disappointed' in M.U. Budget Cut Plea

COLUMBIA -- "I am, of course, keenly disappointed that the Commission on Higher Education has found it necessary to recommend a reduction in the University of Missouri's operational budget request for 1968-69 by nearly $5 million," University President John C. Weaver said today.

Dr. Weaver's comment followed the Commission's announcement of a recommendation to the General Assembly for a $74 million budget in place of the University's $78.6 million request for operation of its four campuses.

"Support at the levels they recommend would curtail many of the University's aspirations for progress," Dr. Weaver continued, "particularly at the expensive levels of advanced professional and graduate work, the very levels at which the Commission has indicated the University should concentrate its efforts. Nonetheless, the Commission's substantial recommendations would provide the basis for institutional advance."

"I am genuinely grateful for the solid recognition that has been given to the acute needs of the University on all four of its campuses in the area of capital construction. The Commission has given top priority listing to capital items rating $34 million from the University's overall request of $65.5 million."

"The University will seek to justify its total request in appearances before the appropriate legislative committees. It is my strong conviction that the University must seize every possible opportunity to speak with clarity, honesty and persuasiveness to the people of Missouri about the true costs of high quality higher education."

Award Turned Back for J School Students

COLUMBIA - Gloria Guinness, jet-set fashion writer for Harper's Bazaar and a winner in the first annual Penney-Missouri magazine awards competition, has given her prize of $1,500 to the University of Missouri, Columbia, to permit women student reporters to cover national events.

The gift is one of four such scholarships received within the last month by the university's school of journalism. They will go to outstanding seniors specializing in women' interest journalism who will cover fashion openings and other events for the Columbia Missourian.

The Penney magazine awards are made possible by a $30,000 grant to the school of journalism by the J. C. Penney Co. in honor of James Cash Penney, 92, founder of the company.

Mrs. Guinness, a regular on lists of the world's best dressed women, won the $1,000 women's interest magazine fashion writing award for her story titled "The Short, Short, Short Life of the Short, Short, Short Skirt." Mrs. Guinness flew from Paris to receive her award.

She announced the gift at the Penney awards luncheon in New York. Accepting the honor, she turned over the cash award and the $500 traveling expenses to the school of journalism. It will be used to permit student coverage of national events in the fields of fashion, home furnishings and food.

The three other recent grants are from the following donors:

California Fashion Creators: An annual grant of $300 to cover expenses of student coverage of the CFC National Press Week fashion showings in Los Angeles.

Texas Fashion Creators Association: A special fund to cover transportation and expenses of a student editor in coverning the annual TFCA fashion showings, to be held next spring in San Antonio, site of the Texas World Trade Fair, HemisFair '68.

American Institute of Men's and Boy's Wear: A similar fund covering expenses of student coverage of the AIMBW National Press Week showings, scheduled for Los Angeles in 1968, Chicago in 1969 and Dallas in 1970.

Stanley H. Lumsden

Lumsden Takes Pilot Training

LUBBOCK, Tex. -- Second Lt. Stanley H. Lumsden, son of Mr. and Mrs. Harold Q. Lumsden of Essex, Mo., has entered air force pilot training at Reese Air Force Base.

Lieutenant Lumsden will fly air force jet trainers and receive academic and military training during the year-long course. He will be awarded silver pilot wings upon completion of the air training command flying program.

The lieutenant, a graduate of Richland high school, received his commission in 1967 upon completion of the air force reserve officers training corps program at the University of Missouri where he arned his bachelor of science degree.

His wife, Mary, is the daughter of Mrs. Neva Jamar of Bloomfield, Mo.

Scientist Says More Birth Pill Research Needed

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — A Temple University scientist said today at least 20 years of extensive research is needed before doctors prescribe use of the controversial birth control pill "without some reservations as to safety."

Dr. Michael B. Shimkin, who spent 25 years as a cancer researcher for the U.S. Public Health Service, explained: "There is now no evidence that the pill is harmful, but there is also no evidence of its complete safety."

Shimkin spoke at a science writers' seminar at Temple University Health Sciences Center.

The Temple medical school professor said the pill contains estrogen, a female hormone, which has produced breast cancer and leukemia in mice.

"This does not mean it will produce breast cancer in women," he said, "but does indicate the need for more research before anyone is foolhardy enough to recommend its use without reservations."

Challenging Shimkin was Dr. Robert B. Greenblatt of the Georgia Medical School at Augusta.

Greenblatt said hormones do not cause cancer and he suggested use of birth control pills even for women in their early 40s, generally a short time before the menopause.

Long Announces Finance Chairman

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Edward V. Long, D-Mo., announced that St. Louis businessman Sidney Salomon Jr. will be finance chairman for Long's re-election campaign.

Salomon was treasurer of the National Democratic Committee in 1950-51 and served as national finance chairman for the Kennedy-Johnson Committee in 1960. He also has raised money for Democratic campaigns at the state and city levels.

Solomon is president of the St. Louis Blues Hockey Team. He is president of Sidney Salomon Junior and Associates and is a member of the board of several life insurance companies.

Highway to Alaska 25 Years Old

JUNEAU, Alaska (AP) — One of the construction wonders of World War II, the Alaska Highway, celebrated its 25th birthday Monday.

Conceived of necessity during those dar, early days when Japanese forces held virtual military control of the Pacific, the highway connecting Dawson Creek, B.C., with Fairbanks, Alaska, was completed on Nov. 20, 1942.

The road had been cut through an untracked wilderness at the incredible rate of eight miles a day, and completed in eight months and 11 days. Total cost for the 1,422 miles of road was $138,312,166.

After the devastating attack on Pearl Harbor Dec. 7, 1941, the United States found her huge territory of Alaska in danger of isolation.

Japanese vessels harried Allied shipping the length of the Pacific Coast, and the Alaska Defense Command reported a military air force of 23 planes. It had not a single up-to-date fighter.

In Congress, Alaska's delegate, Anthony J. Dimond, spoke of an urgent need for a supplemental transportation route to Alaska, and on Feb. 11, 1942, President Franklin D. Roosevelt gave the go-ahead for construction of the highway.

Moving out from four main bases— Dawson Creek and Ft. Nelson in British Columbia, Whitehorse in the Yukon Territory and Gulkana in Alaska— the Army Corps of Engineers tackled the big project.

Winding through narrow river valleys, along the sides of solid rock mountains and over seemingly endless muskeg flats, the route presented problems that engineers hadn't encountered since the Burma Road was finished in 1938.

During the summer months of 1942, the Army engineers found their way blocked time and time again by bogs which consumed rock and gravel as fast as it could be poured in.

Clouds of mosquitoes, the bane of the northern muskeg country, attacked every inch of exposed skin.

With the approach of winter, the road builders were beset by temperatures ranging down to 60 and 70 degrees below zero.

In all, some 10,000 American troops from seven Army Corps of Engineers regiments and approximately 6,000 civilians worked through the summer and early winter of 1942 to finish the road.

Ownership of the road reverted to Canada after the war, with a proviso that travel would be permitted to one and all. Now known as the Alaska Highway, the route was first known as the Alcan Highway. The men who built it had two other names. Because of the oil cans discarded indiscriminately along its length in the rush for completion, they called it the "Oil Can Highway" or the "All Can Highway."

The long convoys of military vehicles which once rushed defense materiel to Alaska have given way to streams of tourists, particularly during the summer, and huge truck-trailer rigs.

In a report to Congress in 1946, the old House Committee on Roads took official note of the obstacles which confronted highway builders:

"The construction of the Alaska Highway and its feeder facilities . . . constitutes one of the construction epics of modern times. It was a gigantic task performed under great pressure where the elements of nature put man and machines to the ultimate test of performance."

Lynda's Bridal Attendants to Don Red Velvet

WASHINGTON (AP) — Lynda Bird Johnson's seven bridal attendants will wear long gowns of a plush deep red velvet designed by Geoffrey Beene of New York, it was announced officially today.

Red was chosen because of the pre-Christmas Holiday time of the year.

Details of bride-to-be Lynda's wedding gown will not be announced in advance of the Dec. 9 White House wedding, Mrs. Elizabeth Carpenter, press secretary to the First Lady, said.

The bridegroom, Marine Capt. Charles S. Robb of Milwaukee, Wis., will wear his military dress blue uniform.

His fellow Marine best man will wear dress blues too, but the six other groomsmen will be in cutaways.

President Johnson, escorting his daughter, will wear the same cutaway he wore when his younger daughter Lucy was married in August 1966.

The 12-minute Episcopal ceremoney will be performed by the Rev. Canon Gerald McAllister of San Antonio, Tex.

Star Interview Offer Called off

LOS ANGELES (AP)— "The star night interviews have been discontinued. This is a recording. . .The star night interviews. . ."

The recording was affixed by Pacific Telephone Co. officials after more than 10,000 starry-eyed teen-agers throughout the world called to talk personally to singer Mark Lindsay.

I. D. Publications, which puts of "Dig" and "Fifteen" magazines, had promised their young readers a telephone chat with the singer.

But the flood of collect calls which cut off all other calls to Los Angeles for two hours "caught us by surprise and just raised hell with the system," a phone company spokesman said.

"We had no idea that in a big city like Los Angeles the phones would go out," a magazine spokesman said.

I. D. Publications said its star night program would be back next month.

Troop Payoff Denied

WASHINGTON (AP) — A South Korean official denies his country is sending combat troops to South Vietnam to repay massive U.S. economic aid and trade concessions.

Ambassador Kim Dong-Jo said South Korea's contribution of troops to the Vietnam war "is not in any sense a mercenary action."

His comments came Monday following publication by the St. Louis Post-Dispatch of a story saying South Korea is receiving millions of dollars worth of special aid and trade concessions in return for providing combat troops in the Southeast Asian struggle.

Post-Dispatch Washington correspondent Richard Dudman said the incentives were so generous "the administration has covered them with a security classification in an effort to prevent other allies in Vietnam from learning their terms."

Noting South Korea has some 48,000 troops in Vietnam, Dudman said the advantages offered by the United States were necessary to make it financially possible for the country to provide combat units in that strength.

In other war-related developments:

— The United States officially expressed regret to India for "any casualties that might be caused" the International Control Commission in Hanoi by American air attacks on the North Vietnamese capital.

The statement followed radio broadcasts from Hanoi that an Indian member of the ICC was killed and another wounded during a U.S. attack last week. The State Department said again it as not confirmed that U.S. aircraft were responsible for the reported casualties.

— Lt. Col. Frank W. Kiel, medical adviser to Army Intelligence, said the need for blood transfusions for Americans in Vietnam has increased from an average 5 pints a week in 1965 to up to 10,000 pints monthly late this year. Kiel spoke to a convention of the Association of Military Surgeons of the United States.

— Sen. Mark O. Hatfield, R-Ore., told newsmen in Columbus, Ohio, "the division of thinking on Vietnam is growing deeper every day." Hatfield has been a persistent critic of President Johnson's war policies.

Weaver 'Disappointed' in M.U. Budget Cut Plea

COLUMBIA -- "I am, of course, keenly disappointed that the Commission on Higher Education has found it necessary to recommend a reduction in the University of Missouri's operational budget request for 1968-69 by nearly $5 million," University President John C. Weaver said today.

Dr. Weaver's comment followed the Commission's announcement of a recommendation to the General Assembly for a $74 million budget in place of the University's $78.6 million request for operation of its four campuses.

"Support at the levels they recommend would curtail many of the University's aspirations for progress," Dr. Weaver continued, "particularly at the expensive levels of advanced professional and graduate work, the very levels at which the Commission has indicated the University should concentrate its efforts. Nonetheless, the Commission's substantial recommendations would provide the basis for institutional advance."

"I am genuinely grateful for the solid recognition that has been given to the acute needs of the University on all four of its campuses in the area of capital construction. The Commission has given top priority listing to capital items rating $34 million from the University's overall request of $65.5 million."

"The University will seek to justify its total request in appearances before the appropriate legislative committees. It is my strong conviction that the University must seize every possible opportunity to speak with clarity, honesty and persuasiveness to the people of Missouri about the true costs of high quality higher education."

Award Turned Back for J School Students

COLUMBIA - Gloria Guinness, jet-set fashion writer for Harper's Bazaar and a winner in the first annual Penney-Missouri magazine awards competition, has given her prize of $1,500 to the University of Missouri, Columbia, to permit women student reporters to cover national events.

The gift is one of four such scholarships received within the last month by the university's school of journalism. They will go to outstanding seniors specializing in women' interest journalism who will cover fashion openings and other events for the Columbia Missourian.

The Penney magazine awards are made possible by a $30,000 grant to the school of journalism by the J. C. Penney Co. in honor of James Cash Penney, 92, founder of the company.

Mrs. Guinness, a regular on lists of the world's best dressed women, won the $1,000 women's interest magazine fashion writing award for her story titled "The Short, Short, Short Life of the Short, Short, Short Skirt." Mrs. Guinness flew from Paris to receive her award.

She announced the gift at the Penney awards luncheon in New York. Accepting the honor, she turned over the cash award and the $500 traveling expenses to the school of journalism. It will be used to permit student coverage of national events in the fields of fashion, home furnishings and food.

The three other recent grants are from the following donors:

California Fashion Creators: An annual grant of $300 to cover expenses of student coverage of the CFC National Press Week fashion showings in Los Angeles.

Texas Fashion Creators Association: A special fund to cover transportation and expenses of a student editor in coverning the annual TFCA fashion showings, to be held next spring in San Antonio, site of the Texas World Trade Fair, HemisFair '68.

American Institute of Men's and Boy's Wear: A similar fund covering expenses of student coverage of the AIMBW National Press Week showings, scheduled for Los Angeles in 1968, Chicago in 1969 and Dallas in 1970.

Lumsden Takes Pilot Training

LUBBOCK, Tex. -- Second Lt. Stanley H. Lumsden, son of Mr. and Mrs. Harold Q. Lumsden of Essex, Mo., has entered air force pilot training at Reese Air Force Base.

Lieutenant Lumsden will fly air force jet trainers and receive academic and military training during the year-long course. He will be awarded silver pilot wings upon completion of the air training command flying program.

The lieutenant, a graduate of Richland high school, received his commission in 1967 upon completion of the air force reserve officers training corps program at the University of Missouri where he arned his bachelor of science degree.

His wife, Mary, is the daughter of Mrs. Neva Jamar of Bloomfield, Mo.

Scientist Says More Birth Pill Research Needed

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — A Temple University scientist said today at least 20 years of extensive research is needed before doctors prescribe use of the controversial birth control pill "without some reservations as to safety."

Dr. Michael B. Shimkin, who spent 25 years as a cancer researcher for the U.S. Public Health Service, explained: "There is now no evidence that the pill is harmful, but there is also no evidence of its complete safety."

Shimkin spoke at a science writers' seminar at Temple University Health Sciences Center.

The Temple medical school professor said the pill contains estrogen, a female hormone, which has produced breast cancer and leukemia in mice.

"This does not mean it will produce breast cancer in women," he said, "but does indicate the need for more research before anyone is foolhardy enough to recommend its use without reservations."

Challenging Shimkin was Dr. Robert B. Greenblatt of the Georgia Medical School at Augusta.

Greenblatt said hormones do not cause cancer and he suggested use of birth control pills even for women in their early 40s, generally a short time before the menopause.

Highway to Alaska 25 Years Old

JUNEAU, Alaska (AP) — One of the construction wonders of World War II, the Alaska Highway, celebrated its 25th birthday Monday.

Conceived of necessity during those dar, early days when Japanese forces held virtual military control of the Pacific, the highway connecting Dawson Creek, B.C., with Fairbanks, Alaska, was completed on Nov. 20, 1942.

Surtax Chances Pick up

WASHINGTON (AP) — Congressional passage of President Johnson's proposed income tax boost became a renewed possibility today as an indirect consequence of Britain's currency devaluation.

Chairman Wilbur D. Mills, D-Ark., of the House Ways and Means Committee, which calls the tax signals for Congress, announced a Nov. 28 hearing to consider a new administration surtax and cost-cutting package.

White House press secretary George Christian told newsmen Monday the package calls for the $7 billion, 10 per cent income tax surcharge Johnson requested Aug. 3, plus a matching $7 billion paring of expenditures.

But congressional sources said they understood the cost-cutting actually would amount only to about $4 billion in this fiscal year, which ends next June 30, including about $1 billion of cuts already made by Congress.

The surtax proposal had been considered dead for this session. If the British action has changed congressional sentiment, it could be enacted in time to take effect Jan. 1, Capitol Hill experts said, but only if Congress remains in session almost until Christmas.

The Ways and Means Committee shelved the Johnson tax plan on Oct. 3. It said the surtax would be considered again only if there was a firm agreement with the administration on reduced spending.

Mills apparently agreed to the new hearing despite some doubts it would bear fruit. He sandwiched his hearing announcement into a Hot Springs, Ark., speech that was sharply critical of the Johnson fiscal program.

"I have yet to receive a single, specific proposal from the administration as to how to implement the (committee's) expenditure control request," the Arkansas Democrat complained.

Mills rejected as "a fanciful notion" the argument of administration officials that Sunday's 14 per cent devaluation of the pound made a tax increase more necessary to defend the dollar from inflation and speculation.

"That a tax increase of the sort proposed will have any significant effect on our balance of payments in the reasonably near future and that it might contribute to the strengthening of the pound is completely without support of fact," he said.

But at the White House, Christian said the British move—followed by Federal Reserve Board action boosting its interest rate on loans to member banks from 4 to 4½ per cent—made the surtax package "absolutely imperative," in the opinion of the President.

Christian verified congressional reports of a determined administration drive to get the tax increase enacted by Jan. 1. He did not affirm the surmise of one reporter, framed as a question, that the administration was seizing on the British move — and the consequent concern of Congress over defense of the dollar-to get the surtax enacted.

Mills said Treasury Secretary Henry H. Fowler had been in touch with him over the weekend to tell him that the administration had something new to present.

He said Fowler, Budget Director Charles L. Schultze and Chairman William McChesney Martin of the Federal Reserve Board would be witnesses at the committee's executive session a week from today.

Christian confirmed that congressional leaders of both parties were brought to the White House for a briefing on the British and American monetary situation, and that House Democratic leaders, including Mills, had been advised of the impending British action on Friday.

Christian said he did not know exactly when Johnson learned of the coming devaluation. It was disclosed to the Cabinet at a 90-minute weekend meeting.

At the same meeting, the press secretary said, Johnson reported that in the absence of a tax increase the government would be taking $5 billion in new borrowings out of the money markets in the first half of 1968.

That would send interest rates up and shrink the supply of funds for housing and for state and local government borrowing, Johnson told the Cabinet officers. If the surtax is voted, he said, the process would be reversed; the government would be feeding $2.5 billion back into the financial markets in that period.

As for international considerations, Johnson was quoted as saying that the belief is widely held abroad that a tax increase is considered essential to maintaining confidence in the dollar.

Christian left the impression that the presidential plan would reduce a potential $29 billion deficit for fiscal 1968 to about half that amount.

Congressional sources, who disagreed with the White House version of the savings in prospect, expected to see the deficit reduced below $20 billion if the administration plan is carried out.

There was general satisfaction at the Treasury and Federal Reserve Board over the behavior of U.S. and world markets in the wake of the devaluation, which was coupled with ar $3 billion credit agreement among all major industrial nations to support the pound.

In the Senate, Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield called on Congress to forget about its planned mid-December adjournment and remain in session until it produces a tax increase. He said there is need for an increase larger than Johnson asked.

But Mansfield acknowledged that until the House acts, "our hands are tied."

Chlorine Danger Over

NEWTON, Ala. (AP) — Nearly 3,000 residents of this southeast Alabama town were back in their homes today after officials announced 10,000 gallons of deadly chlorine gas, unleashed in a railroad derailment, had dissipated.

"It seems like everything is back to normal now," Police Chief Charles Brackins reported Monday night.

The mass evacuation was ordered Saturday night after a railroad tank car containing the chlorine and 48 other cars derailed about a mile from the business district. Fire broke out in the wreckage and for a time officials feared an explosion might release all the gas at once.

Brackins said he believes the danger was eliminated when safety valves on the tank car popped open and allowed the gas to escape gradually.

Officials said the gas-carrying tanker flipped over in the crash and they were unable to move it. They also pointed out the danger of explosion was increased by several cars of butane and propane gas which also had plunged off the tracks.

Brackins said it took just 33 minutes to evacuate the town.

Yale, Vassar Discard Merger

NEW HAVEN, Conn. (AP) — Yale University and Vassar College in Poughkeepsie, N.Y. have decided to go their separate ways, ending a year-long study of the possibility of affiliation.

The women's institution announced Monday it had decided to remain in Poughkeepsie and continue to be "the mistress in our own house." At the same time it disclosed plans for an expansion program that would include setting up a coordinate men's college at Vassar.

In a separate and simultaneous announcement, Yale President Kingman Brewster Jr. announced his school would "explore the possibility" of founding its own women's college.

DONALD EUGENE SPARKS

Gang Member Sought

WASHINGTON -- Donald Eugene Sparks, a notorious alleged burglar and robber who is reported to be a member of a modern-day "James Gang" and is sought by authorities in several states, has been added to the FBI's list of "Ten Most Wanted Fugitives."

On May 10, 1966, upon completion of a burglary sentence at the Oklahoma State Prison, Sparks was taken to Lubbock, Texas, to face pending charges of armed robbery and assault resulting from a 1963 jewelry store holdup. He was released on bond and shortly thereafter Sparks and his associates reportedly forced their way at gunpoint into three different homes in Collinsville and Fort Payne, Alabama, and robbed the occupants of almost $10,000. The holdup victims were left bound and gagged and one victim was threatened with death and submerged in his bathtub to force disclosure of the location of his money. Sparks and one accomplice were stopped and questioned by local police shortly after the third home robbery on June 27, 1966, but, through a ruse, Sparks managed to evade arrest.

On August 5, 1966, a Federal warrant was issued at Gadsden, Alabama, charging Sparks with interstate flight to avoid prosecution for robbery.

The next arrest of Sparks occurred on August 20, 1966, when he was arrested at Reno, Nevada, on a disorderly charge. He was set free on bond which he subsequently forfeited.

Sparks was then arrested by local authorities at Rio Linda, California, on August 29, 1966, on charges of burglary and possession of stolen property but was released on bail before his fugitive status was discovered.

He was next briefly in custody in Oklahoma after he and Jerry Ray James, also one of the FBI's "Ten Most Wanted Fugitives," were arrested on the early morning of May 30, 1967, following an unsuccessful burglary at Adair, Oklahoma. The pair was seized after a high speed chase in which shots were allegedly fired at pursuing officers and both were confined at Pryor, Oklahoma, until the early morning of May 31, 1967, when they were released on bond.

Sparks is now wanted by authorities in California, Alabama, Texas and Oklahoma.

This fugitive, who has a reputation in the midwest as a professional burglar and safe-cracker, reputedly may travel distances of over a thousand miles by car or airplane to commit a crime. When previously arrested, he has had high quality, professional-type burglary tools as well as a gun in his possession. His long criminal record includes convictions for assault and battery and burglary.

In the past, Sparks has been employed as a bartender, bricklayer, farmer, iron worker, laborer, oil field worker, produce salesman and steel construction worker.

A white American, who was born on April 14, 1929, at Electra, Texas, Sparks is 5'9" to 5'10" tall, weighs 175 pounds, has a medium build, medium complexion, brown hair and blue eyes. He has scars between his eyes, on the right side of his face and right ear and a scar on his right side. He has tattoos of a heart, an arrow and the initials "DES" on his right forearm and a panther on his left forearm.

He may be accompanied by a woman posing as his wife and may also be accompanied by Jerry Ray Jones, an FBI "Top Ten" fugitive charged with bank burglary.

Sparks and his accomplices should be considered armed and extremely dangerous. Anyone with information concerning these individuals is requested to immediately notify the nearest office of the FBI, the telephone number of which may be found on the first page of the local telephone directories.

Mideast Plan Appears Set For Passage

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) — Despite a new Soviet delay, informed sources said today that the British Middle East peace plan is assured of approval when the Security Council meets again Wednesday afternoon.

Soviet Deputy Foreign Minister Vasily V. Kuznetsov obtained the 48-hour delay by introducing a proposal containing some of the provisions of the British plan. But they were worded in such a way that the resolution was immediately labeled pro-Arab.

The Soviet resolution omitted a key provision in three other pending proposals— the appointment of a special U.N. representative to aid in peace efforts.

Israeli Foreign Minister Abba Eban quickly rejected the Soviet resolution as did the United States. Ambassador Arthur J. Goldberg said the plan lacked balance. Eban called it "backward looking."

The British resolution, on the other hand, was reported to have lined up at least 12 of the council's 15 votes, with a possibility of a unanimous vote.

Crash Occurs Near Site of 1965 Mishap Fatal to 58

CINCINNATI, Ohio (AP) — They came from different directions just two years and 12 days apart, but their destinations were the same— flames, death and destruction.

It was within a few hundred yards from where 64 persons died in an airline crash Monday night that 58 others met death Nov. 8, 1965.

Both were headed toward the Greater Cincinnati Airport, just across the Ohio River in northern Kentucky, when they met disaster.

Monday night's TWA Convair 880 jet had come from the west and had turned south to land, clearing a hill that rises from the river bottom to landing level.

Two years ago, an American Airlines Boeing 707 jet had come from the east, turned to its left and never cleared the hill. It plowed into a wooded area, killing 58 of the 62 people aboard.

Both crashes were at night, Monday night's in light snow, the earlier one in light rain.

WHEN CONTROVERSY is good for you!

Avoiding controversy can sometimes be more hazardous than the frank expression of opposing views.

Opinions, cut from the cloth of fact, reason, and knowledge, inevitably gain weight and credence for one who wishes to be heard and understood. The values in differing points of view, sharpened on the grindstone of controversy, lead to better perspective and soundly-based action.

Thank you, call again!

It's one of those signs you see so many times—you almost forget that it means anything.

But it does. It's what America's business is all about.

Maybe a newspaper ad brought you to the store. Or perhaps a tv commercial persuaded you to whatever product you bought.

But it was you who went there. You paid for the item with your money and you are going to take it into your home.

And if you don't like it, there's no power on earth that can get you to go back to that store or buy that item again.

'Call again' is what puts you in control of the system. It keeps the people who make and the people who sell, very very sensitive to the fact that: "You pays your money and you takes your choice".

Surtax Chances Pick up

WASHINGTON (AP) — Congressional passage of President Johnson's proposed income tax boost became a renewed possibility today as an indirect consequence of Britain's currency devaluation.

Chairman Wilbur D. Mills, D. Ark., of the House Ways and Means Committee, which calls the tax signals for Congress, announced a Nov. 28 hearing to consider a new administration surtax and cost-cutting package.

White House press secretary George Christian told newsmen Monday the package calls for the $7 billion, 10 per cent income tax surcharge Johnson requested Aug. 3, plus a matching $7 billion paring of expenditures.

But congressional sources said they understood the cost-cutting actually would amount only to about $4 billion in this fiscal year, which ends next June 30, including about $1 billion of cuts already made by Congress.

The surtax proposal had been considered dead for this session. If the British action has changed congressional sentiment, it could be enacted in time to take effect Jan. 1, Capitol Hill experts said, but only if Congress remains in session almost until Christmas.

The Ways and Means Committee shelved the Johnson tax plan on Oct. 3. It said the surtax would be considered again only if there was a firm agreement with the administration on reduced spending.

Mills apparently agreed to the new hearing despite some doubts it would bear fruit. He sandwiched his hearing announcement into a Hot Springs, Ark., speech that was sharply critical of the Johnson fiscal program.

"I have yet to receive a single, specific proposal from the administration as to how to implement the (committee's) expenditure control request," the Arkansas Democrat complained.

Mills rejected as "a fanciful notion" the argument of administration officials that Sunday's 14 per cent devaluation of the pound made a tax increase more necessary to defend the dollar from inflation and speculation.

"That a tax increase of the sort proposed will have any significant effect on our balance of payments in the reasonably near future and that it might contribute to the strengthening of the pound is completely without support of fact," he said.

But at the White House, Christian said the British move— followed by Federal Reserve Board action boosting its interest rate on loans to member banks from 4 to 4½ per cent— made the surtax package "absolutely imperative," in the opinion of the President.

Christian verified congressional reports of a determined administration drive to get the tax increase enacted by Jan. 1. He did not affirm the surmise of one reporter, framed as a question, that the administration was seizing on the British move — and the consequent concern of Congress over defense of the dollar-to get the surtax enacted.

Mills said Treasury Secretary Henry H. Fowler had been in touch with him over the weekend to tell him that the administration had something new to present.

He said Fowler, Budget Director Charles L. Schultze and Chairman William McChesney Martin of the Federal Reserve Board would be witnesses at the committee's executive session a week from today.

Christian confirmed that congressional leaders of both parties were brought to the White House for a briefing on the British and American monetary situation, and that House Democratic leaders, including Mills, had been advised of the impending British action on Friday.

Christian said he did not know exactly when Johnson learned of the coming devaluation. It was disclosed to the Cabinet at a 90-minute weekend meeting.

At the same meeting, the press secretary said, Johnson reported that in the absence of a tax increase the government would be taking $5 billion in new borrowings out of the money markets in the first half of 1968.

That would send interest rates up and shrink the supply of funds for housing and for state and local government borrowing, Johnson told the Cabinet officers. If the surtax is voted, he said, the process would be reversed; the government would be feeding $2.5 billion back into the financial markets in that period.

As for international considerations, Johnson was quoted as saying that the belief is widely held abroad that a tax increase is considered essential to maintaining confidence in the dollar.

Christian left the impression that the presidential plan would reduce a potential $29 billion deficit for fiscal 1968 to about half that amount.

Congressional sources, who disagreed with the White House version of the savings in prospect, expected to see the deficit reduced below $20 billion if the administration plan is carried out.

There was general satisfaction at the Treasury and Federal Reserve Board over the behavior of U.S. and world markets in the wake of the devaluation, which was coupled with ar $3 billion credit agreement among all major industrial nations to support the pound.

In the Senate, Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield called on Congress to forget about its planned mid-December adjournment and remain in session until it produces a tax increase. He said there is need for an increase larger than Johnson asked.

But Mansfield acknowledged that until the House acts, "our hands are tied."

Chlorine Danger Over

NEWTON, Ala. (AP) — Nearly 3,000 residents of this southeast Alabama town were back in their homes today after officials announced 10,000 gallons of deadly chlorine gas, unleashed in a railroad derailment, had dissipated.

"It seems like everything is back to normal now," Police Chief Charles Brackins reported Monday night.

The mass evacuation was ordered Saturday night after a railroad tank car containing the chlorine and 48 other cars derailed about a mile from the business district. Fire broke out in the wreckage and for a time officials feared an explosion might release all the gas at once.

Brackins said he believes the danger was eliminated when safety valves on the tank car popped open and allowed the gas to escape gradually.

Officials said the gas-carrying tanker flipped over in the crash and they were unable to move it. They also pointed out the danger of explosion was increased by several cars of butane and propane gas which also had plunged off the tracks.

Brackins said it took just 33 minutes to evacuate the town.

The residents lived with friends, relatives, or stayed in motels. Others were quartered at a community center in nearby Ozark, Ala.

Yale, Vassar Discard Merger

NEW HAVEN, Conn. (AP) — Yale University and Vassar College in Poughkeepsie, N.Y. have decided to go their separate ways, ending a year-long study of the possibility of affiliation.

The women's institution announced Monday it had decided to remain in Poughkeepsie and continue to be "the mistress in our own house." At the same time it disclosed plans for an expansion program that would include setting up a coordinate men's college at Vassar.

In a separate and simultaneous announcement, Yale President Kingman Brewster Jr. announced his school would "explore the possibility" of founding its own women's college.

DONALD EUGENE SPARKS

Gang Member Sought

WASHINGTON -- Donald Eugene Sparks, a notorious alleged burglar and robber who is reported to be a member of a modern-day "James Gang" and is sought by authorities in several states, has been added to the FBI's list of "Ten Most Wanted Fugitives."

On May 10, 1966, upon completion of a burglary sentence at the Oklahoma State Prison, Sparks was taken to Lubbock, Texas, to face pending charges of armed robbery and assault resulting from a 1963 jewelry store holdup. He was released on bond and shortly thereafter Sparks and his associates reportedly forced their way at gunpoint into three different homes in Collinsville and Fort Payne, Alabama, and robbed the occupants of almost $10,000. The holdup victims were left bound and gagged and one victim was threatened with death and submerged in his bathtub to force disclosure of the location of his money. Sparks and one accomplice were stopped and questioned by local police shortly after the third home robbery on June 27, 1966, but, through a ruse, Sparks managed to evade arrest.

On August 5, 1966, a Federal warrant was issued at Gadsden, Alabama, charging Sparks with interstate flight to avoid prosecution for robbery.

The next arrest of Sparks occurred on August 20, 1966, when he was arrested at Reno, Nevada, on a disorderly charge. He was set free on bond which he subsequently forfeited.

Sparks was then arrested by local authorities at Rio Linda, California, on August 29, 1966, on charges of burglary and possession of stolen property but was released on bail before his fugitive status was discovered.

He was next briefly in custody in Oklahoma after he and Jerry Ray James, also one of the FBI's "Ten Most Wanted Fugitives," were arrested on the early morning of May 30, 1967, following an unsuccessful burglary at Adair, Oklahoma. The pair was seized after a high speed chase in which shots were allegedly fired at pursuing officers and both were confined at Pryor, Oklahoma, until the early morning of May 31, 1967, when they were released on bond.

Sparks is now wanted by authorities in California, Alabama, Texas and Oklahoma.

This fugitive, who has a reputation in the midwest as a professional burglar and safe-cracker, reputedly may travel distances of over a thousand miles by car or airplane to commit a crime. When previously arrested, he has had high quality, professional-type burglary tools as well as a gun in his possession. His long criminal record includes convictions for assault and battery and burglary.

In the past, Sparks has been employed as a bartender, bricklayer, farmer, iron worker, laborer, oil field worker, produce salesman and steel construction worker.

A white American, who was born on April 14, 1929, at Electra, Texas, Sparks is 5'9" to 5'10" tall, weighs 175 pounds, has a medium build, medium complexion, brown hair and blue eyes. He has scars between his eyes, on the right side of his face and right ear and a scar on his right side. He has tattoos of a heart, an arrow and the initials "DES" on his right forearm and a panther on his left forearm.

He may be accompanied by a woman posing as his wife and may also be accompanied by Jerry Ray Jones, an FBI "Top Ten" fugitive charged with bank burglary.

Sparks and his accomplices should be considered armed and extremely dangerous. Anyone with information concerning these individuals is requested to immediately notify the nearest office of the FBI, the telephone number of which may be found on the first page of the local telephone directories.

Mideast Plan Appears Set For Passage

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) — Despite a new Soviet delay, informed sources said today that the British Middle East peace plan is assured of approval when the Security Council meets again Wednesday afternoon.

Soviet Deputy Foreign Minister Vasily V. Kuznetsov obtained the 48-hour delay by introducing a proposal containing some of the provisions of the British plan. But they were worded in such a way that the resolution was immediately labeled pro-Arab.

The Soviet resolution omitted a key provision in three other pending proposals— the appointment of a special U.N. representative to aid in peace efforts.

Israeli Foreign Minister Abba Eban quickly rejected the Soviet resolution as did the United States. Ambassador Arthur J. Goldberg said the plan lacked balance. Eban called it "backward looking."

The British resolution, on the other hand, was reported to have lined up at least 12 of the council's 15 votes, with a possibility of a unanimous vote.

Crash Occurs Near Site of 1965 Mishap Fatal to 58

CINCINNATI, Ohio (AP) — They came from different directions just two years and 12 days apart, but their destinations were the same— flames, death and destruction.

It was within a few hundred yards from where 64 persons died in an airline crash Monday night that 58 others met death Nov. 8, 1965.

Both were headed toward the Greater Cincinnati Airport, just across the Ohio River in northern Kentucky, when they met disaster.

Monday night's TWA Convair 880 jet had come from the west and had turned south to land, clearing a hill that rises from the river bottom to landing level.

Two years ago, an American Airlines Boeing 707 jet had come from the east, turned to its left and never cleared the hill. It plowed into a wooded area, killing 58 of the 62 people aboard.

Both crashes were at night, Monday night's in light snow, the earlier one in light rain.

Discovery of VC Base in Cambodia Angers Sihanouk

EDITOR'S NOTE: The U. S. Command in Saigon for years has charged that Viet Cong and North Vietnamese forces find sanctuary in neighboring Cambodia, charges which Cambodia's ruler, Prince Norodom Sihanouk, has repeatedly denied. Western newsmen were admitted to Cambodia to cover the visit of Mrs. John F. Kennedy. Two Associated Press men went to the border across from War Zone C, which they have covered from the Vietnamese side.

By GEORGE MCARTHUR and HORST FAAS

PHNOM PENH, Cambodia (AP) -- The discovery of a Viet Cong camp site four miles inside Cambodia has angered Prince Norodom Sihanouk and raised doubts about his past denials that Vietnamese Communist forces were given sanctuary in his country.

Cambodia's ruling prince reportedly regards the discovery by American newsmen as a fabrication and part of a campaign against him by the U. S. press.

We found the Viet Cong camp, very recently used, on the border opposite War Zone C, about 70 miles northwest of Saigon. It had been used for several months and was most probably a staging area for the Loc Ninh battle, only nine miles away, earlier this month.

The outspoken prince, who contends the United States is the aggressor in Vietnam, reportedly told intimates our reports were part of a campaign inspired by the U. S. Command in Saigon to justify military operations against Cambodia.

We informed Prime Minister Son Sann of the camp site before the stories were published. His initial reaction was cautious and he said he would make an official investigation. However Prince Sihanouk reportedly accused us of hypocrisy, said our evidence was doubtful and questioned whether the camp site existed.

Evidence of Viet Cong occupancy found in the camp included military records written in Vietnamese, North Vietnamese medical supplies and similar items. Dated scraps of paper indicated the camp had been used for several months dating back to last February.

There were unmistakable signs that several hundred men, probably from a major headquarters command group, had used the camp. Occupants had left only a few days before. From the camp a heavily traveled road went through the dense jungle to the frontier, crossing it nine miles from Loc Ninh. Logs had been put down to counteract the monsoon mud. Tracks indicated many heavy trucks had used it.

One embarrassed young lieutenant escorting us said perhaps the road was used by timber thieves. Another suggested it was built by the forestry department.

American officers have charged for years that the Viet Cong and the North Vietnamese use Cambodia as a sanctuary when the going gets too rough for them.

American authorities in Vietnam have pinpointed at least 20 permanent campsites, many of them are in a five-mile area adjoining the border where the Cambodian army does not patrol and has no significant posts. Frontier security is left almost entirely to village militiamen, a questionable force open to Viet Cong pressure and infiltration.

Competent authorities say the Viet Cong operate just as clandestinely in Cambodia as they do in Vietnam. They select areas where they are unlikely to meet Cambodian soldiers, particularly the virtually uninhabited northeast where Cambodia, Laos and Vietnam came together. Here the Ho Chi Minh trail from Laos joins the Sihanouk trail in Cambodia.

Temperature at the surface of the sun is about 12,000 degrees.

Rolla School Offers Help to Municapities

ROLLA -- A small Missouri town with a water system built in 1937 now finds it inadequate and outdated, but had build up no reserve fund for maintenance and expansion.

In another community, city employes are beginning a street improvement program. They have the feeling that if they knew more about construction techniques and materials they could do the job more economically.

The city council and mayor of a town of about 6,000 would like to know just what services a municipality should offer.

A county highway supervisor wants to know how the county can most economically bring its rural roads and bridges up to date.

Help on these and other municipal problems is available simply for the asking from the University of Missouri at Rolla.

In response to requests, a flexible program of short courses dealing with engineering problems of counties and cities has been developed in the extension programs of the civil engineering department at UMR. Courses are tailored to meet the needs of the community. They may cover one topic or several. They may meet for one session, or as long as five or six sessions, if necessary to cover the material Instructors are UMR faculty members with specialties in the fields of engineering used by municipalities.

Students in the courses are elected or appointed city and county officials, nonprofessional city and county employes and just plain citizens who are interested in community development.

Short courses have been completed this year at Neosho and at several small communities in the Jackson county area. Courses are now under way at Trenton and Jackson, and are scheduled for the near future at Clinton and Linn.

"City officials in communities without city engineers--and there are many in the state--find themselves in the position of having to make decisions on technical matters that would ordinarily be handled by an engineer," according to John Heagler, UMR professor of civil engineering. Heagler, one of the short course instructors, was instrumental in planning the new program.

"University personnel do not do the work of an engineer for the cities visited, but educate and advise city officials so that they understand how to deal with their engineering problems more effectively and economically," Heagler said. "In some cases we update the technical knowledge of city employes. Private engineering firms are usually retained by the city for specific projects, and a competent engineer will save a municipality much more than his fee," he said.

The present courses grew out of a series on land use problems in urban fringe areas of Missouri given last spring by the UMR Extension Division. The land use courses, financed partly by a federal grant, dealt with problems arising in the rapidly developing areas of Missouri as the area is changed from agricultural to urban use. This series of course, which covers geological, engineering and economic problems, is also still available by request from the UMR Extension Division.

Many of the communities, however, requested more specific help than that included in the land use program. The result was the new series of courses, which is not limited to urban fringe areas, and is flexible enough to fit the special needs of the group requesting aid.

"This series of courses is another of the continueing efforts of UMR to serve the state through its Extension Division by making its expert knowledge available off campus," according to Steve Douglass, education coordinator of the UMR Extension Division.

Owner Says Cubans Can Keep Plane

HOLLYWOOD, Fla. (AP) -- The owner of a plane which was hijacked at gunpoint and flown to Havana says, "The Cubans can have the plane....as long as I get my two boys back."

The pilot, J.V. Raymond, 35, of Pompano Beach radioed that a passenger pulled a gun on him Monday over South Florida.

"There is a man aboard with a gun and he intends to take this plane to Havana....and that's exactly what he's going to do," Raymond told the Federal Aviation Agency in Miami.

He described the hijacker as Russian but George Nesmith, owner of the Crescent Air Taxi Service plane, said the man's nationality was not determined.

Monday night a spokesman for the Swiss Embassy in Havana said Raymond and the copilot, Jeff White, 22, of Miami, were unharmed and probably would return to the United States today. Earlier Havana Radio had announced that White, who got out of the U.S. Coast Guard three weeks ago, and Raymond would be released as soon as the necessary paper work was completed.

The newscast, monitored in Miami, made no mention of the incident until almost six hours after the plane touched down in Cuba.

Cuban security cars and a van came on the runway as the Piper Apache 23 landed after the two-hour flight.

"They'll probably shake the boys and the plane down real good," said Nesmith.

Two fighter jets armed with air-to-air missiles flew from Homestead Air Force Base and caught up with the plane when the hijack message was received but backed off when the hijacker took the radio and warned he would kill White and Raymond if the F104 interceptors were not called off.

The thin blond passenger, between 25 and 30 years old, gave his name as Felix S. Mariasy when he rented the plane. He was picked up in a helicopter in Miami, flown to Hollywood and was supposedly debarking on a trip to Bimini when he pulled the gun. He had told Nesmith he wanted to go to Bimini to pick up his wife.

Rolla School Offers Help to Municapities

ROLLA -- A small Missouri town with a water system built in 1937 now finds it inadequate and outdated, but had build up no reserve fund for maintenance and expansion.

In another community, city employes are beginning a street improvement program. They have the feeling that if they knew more about construction techniques and materials they could do the job more economically.

The city council and mayor of a town of about 6,000 would like to know just what services a municipality should offer.

A county highway supervisor wants to know how the county can most economically bring its rural roads and bridges up to date.

Help on these and other municipal problems is available simply for the asking from the University of Missouri at Rolla.

In response to requests, a flexible program of short courses dealing with engineering problems of counties and cities has been developed in the extension programs of the civil engineering department at UMR. Courses are tailored to meet the needs of the community. They may cover one topic or several. They may meet for one session, or as long as five or six sessions, if necessary to cover the material Instructors are UMR faculty members with specialties in the fields of engineering used by municipalities.

Students in the courses are elected or appointed city and county officials, nonprofessional city and county employes and just plain citizens who are interested in community development.

Short courses have been completed this year at Neosho and at several small communities in the Jackson county area. Courses are now under way at Trenton and Jackson, and are scheduled for the near future at Clinton and Linn.

"City officials in communities without city engineers--and there are many in the state--find themselves in the position of having to make decisions on technical matters that would ordinarily be handled by an engineer," according to John Heagler, UMR professor of civil engineering. Heagler, one of the short course instructors, was instrumental in planning the new program.

"University personnel do not do the work of an engineer for the cities visited, but educate and advise city officials so that they understand how to deal with their engineering problems more effectively and economically," Heagler said. "In some cases we update the technical knowledge of city employes. Private engineering firms are usually retained by the city for specific projects, and a competent engineer will save a municipality much more than his fee," he said.

The present courses grew out of a series on land use problems in urban fringe areas of Missouri given last spring by the UMR Extension Division. The land use courses, financed partly by a federal grant, dealt with problems arising in the rapidly developing areas of Missouri as the area is changed from agricultural to urban use. This series of course, which covers geological, engineering and economic problems, is also still available by request from the UMR Extension Division.

Many of the communities, however, requested more specific help than that included in the land use program. The result was the new series of courses, which is not limited to urban fringe areas, and is flexible enough to fit the special needs of the group requesting aid.

"This series of courses is another of the continueing efforts of UMR to serve the state through its Extension Division by making its expert knowledge available off campus," according to Steve Douglass, education coordinator of the UMR Extension Division.

CAA Meeting at Morley Tuesday

MORLEY - The community action agency will meet Tuesday at 8 p.m., in the old Morley grade school. A. W. Wright, director on Delta Area Economic Opportunity Corporation of Portageville, will speak.

The thrift shop women of Scott county will have a sewing class in the center Tuesday from 9:30 a.m. to 3 p.m. Miss Jewell Grady, area home ecomonist at Bloomfield, will conduct the class.

Owner Says Cubans Can Keep Plane

HOLLYWOOD, Fla. (AP) -- The owner of a plane which was hijacked at gunpoint and flown to Havana says, "The Cubans can have the plane....as long as I get my two boys back."

The pilot, J.V. Raymond, 35, of Pompano Beach radioed that a passenger pulled a gun on him Monday over South Florida.

"There is a man aboard with a gun and he intends to take this plane to Havana....and that's exactly what he's going to do," Raymond told the Federal Aviation Agency in Miami.

He described the hijacker as Russian but George Nesmith, owner of the Crescent Air Taxi Service plane, said the man's nationality was not determined.

Monday night a spokesman for the Swiss Embassy in Havana said Raymond and the copilot, Jeff White, 22, of Miami, were unharmed and probably would return to the United States today. Earlier Havana Radio had announced that White, who got out of the U.S. Coast Guard three weeks ago, and Raymond would be released as soon as the necessary paper work was completed.

The newscast, monitored in Miami, made no mention of the incident until almost six hours after the plane touched down in Cuba.

Cuban security cars and a van came on the runway as the Piper Apache 23 landed after the two-hour flight.

"They'll probably shake the boys and the plane down real good," said Nesmith.

Two fighter jets armed with air-to-air missiles flew from Homestead Air Force Base and caught up with the plane when the hijack message was received but backed off when the hijacker took the radio and warned he would kill White and Raymond if the F104 interceptors were not called off.

The thin blond passenger, between 25 and 30 years old, gave his name as Felix S. Mariasy when he rented the plane. He was picked up in a helicopter in Miami, flown to Hollywood and was supposedly debarking on a trip to Bimini when he pulled the gun. He had told Nesmith he wanted to go to Bimini to pick up his wife.

MISSILE MARGIN

1971-2

U.S.	U.S.S.R.	CHINA
1,710	580	?

The United States is believed to have roughly a three-to-one edge over the Soviet Union in intercontinental missiles at present. The U.S. arsenal breaks down to 1,000 land-based Minuteman, 656 submarine-launched Polaris and 54 Titan-2 missiles. The Soviet total is estimated to include 580 land-based and 130 submarine-launched missiles, too many to be blocked by the "thin" antimissile system proposed by Defense Secretary McNamara. The system actually is directed at Communist China, expected by 1971-2 to have a small arsenal of intercontinental missiles with nuclear warheads.

A LITTLE BOY SUIT (left upper) can't hide the girl inside when she finds her favorite cologne, perfume and bath oil gift set. The sophisticate (left lower) will be happy to include among her holiday souvenirs an aerosol cologne with matching dust powder. A very welcome basket to bring cheer (right) is the one that offers bath surprises and luxuries most women adore to receive but with which they don't indulge themselves.
(Prince Matchabelli; suit Majestic; Coron; Jean Nate)

EVENING STAR SHINE BRIGHTLY and that she will in her elegant (left) silk shirt. This simple, yet beautifully tailored model is perfect with a hearthside skirt for sophisticated entertaining or for casual daytime wear as well. A touch of the siren (right) is evident in this zebra-printed velvet hostess gown. (Boulevard Velvet Gown by Karam)

NOW THERE'S A GAME keyed to animal conservation. Wild Life (left) bases keen competition on trapping wild animals alive for zoos. Action involves adventure of safari, the problems of selling and shipping the wild animals. Fun Flowers (right) is a brand new idea in creative fun. With the metal Thingmaker unit, a heating element, come molds with 35 cavities, four bottles of colored Plastigoop, petal shaper, styrofoam flower arranger, water tray, handle, plastic knife, prying tool and even jewelry and bobby pins for making hair clips. By Howard E. Kershner, L.H.D.

We Wonder . . .

TRUE to the prediction made by three American ambassadors, this columnist and others during the days when Castro was carrying on his guerrilla activities in the mountains of eastern Cuba, Fidel Castro has now become the active, aggressive Communist leader, not only in Cuba, but throughout Latin America. Thousands of guerrillas are being trained in Cuba to fan out through Latin America to foment local revolutions. In July of this year Communist delegates from 27 nations and colonies met in Havana to plan their revolutionary activities. The organization is known as Latin American Solidarity Organization. Their purpose is to make revolutions; that is, to destroy existing governments in Latin America and to promote the formation of Communist governments.

Dr. Kershner

Thrilled by the demonstrated possibility of guerrillas to pin down large bodies of American troops, the plan is to bring about these developments in so many places that our country will be unable to respond to them. While the Soviet Union carries on its political agitation and propaganda in Latin America, to Castro has been entrusted the task of promoting as much guerrilla warfare as possible.

We wonder what the New York Times thinks now of its part in bringing Castro to power. We have heard no apology for the series of articles written by its correspondent, Herbert Matthews, extolling the virtues of Castro. We wonder what our State Department thinks as it remembers its advice to diplomats going to Latin America — that they have briefing sessions with this same Herbert Matthews. We wonder what former President Eisenhower thinks as he recalls the help our government gave to Castro that enabled him to overthrow the Batista government of Cuba. We wonder what our State Department thinks when it recalls how it rolled out the red carpet for Castro during his visit to the United States shortly after he rode triumphantly into Havana. We wonder what the close advisors of the late President Kennedy think when they recall that they persuaded JFK not to go through with the plans for ousting Castro at the Bay of Pigs. We wonder what multitudes of good people who have wanted peace so much that they refused to resist evil, are thinking about these days when it becomes increasingly obvious that their easy-going, pacifist policy has made Communism stronger and stronger, so that we are now facing a desperate battle for our lives.

If we have become so ease-loving and so reluctant to exert ourselves that we allow evil to flourish among us, it is only a question of time until we shall be the slaves of the evil which we could and should have destroyed. The Communist schedule calls for the overthrow of the American government long before Orwell's date of 1984.

IN MEMORIUM

On loving memory of Russell E. Long who was killed in a car accident Nov. 21, 1963.
It was four years age today,
That the angels came and bore your precious soul away.
How we all miss your sweet face,
Although we know you are in a better place,
It's lonely here without you, and our burdens hard to bear,
But it won't be long, dear, until we'll all be together over there.
We will always thank God for you -that he lent you for a while,
You brought many blessings to us with your kind and loving smile.
Sadly missed by your family

MISSILE MARGIN

1971-2

U.S. 1,710 U.S.S.R. 580 CHINA ?

The United States is believed to have roughly a three-to-one edge over the Soviet Union in intercontinental missiles at present. The U.S. arsenal breaks down to 1,000 land-based Minuteman, 656 submarine-launched Polaris and 54 Titan-2 missiles. The Soviet total is estimated to include 580 land-based and 130 submarine-launched missiles, too many to be blocked by the "thin" antimissile system proposed by Defense Secretary McNamara. The system actually is directed at Communist China, expected by 1971-2 to have a small arsenal of intercontinental missiles with nuclear warheads.

A LITTLE BOY SUIT (left upper) can't hide the girl inside when she finds her favorite cologne, perfume and bath oil gift set. The sophisticate (left lower) will be happy to include among her holiday souvenirs an aerosol cologne with matching dust powder. A very welcome basket to bring cheer (right) is the one that offers bath surprises and luxuries most women adore to receive but with which they don't indulge themselves.
(Prince Matchabelli; suit Majestic; Coron; Joan Nate)

EVENING STAR SHINE BRIGHTLY and that she will in her elegant (left) silk shirt. This simple, yet beautifully tailored model is perfect with a hearthside skirt for sophisticated entertaining or for casual daytime wear as well. A touch of the siren (right) is evident in this zebra-printed velvet hostess gown. (Boulevard Velvet Gown by Karam)

NOW THERE'S A GAME keyed to animal conservation. Wild Life (left) bases keen competition on trapping wild animals alive for zoos. Action involves adventure of safari, the problems of selling and shipping the wild animals. Fun Flowers (right) is a brand new idea in creative fun. With the metal Thingmaker unit, a heating element, come molds with 35 cavities, four bottles of colored Plastigoop, petal shaper, styrofoam flower arranger, water tray, handle, plastic knife, prying tool and even jewelry and bobby pins for making hair clips. Howard E. Kershner, L.H.D.

We Wonder . . .

Dr. Kershner

TRUE to the prediction made by three American ambassadors, this columnist and others during the days when Castro was carrying on his guerrilla activities in the mountains of eastern Cuba, Fidel Castro has now become the active, aggressive Communist leader, not only in Cuba, but throughout Latin America. Thousands of guerrillas are being trained in Cuba to fan out through Latin America to foment local revolutions. In July of this vear Communist delegates from 27 nations and colonies met in Havana to plan their revolutionary activities. The organization is known as Latin American Solidarity Organization. Their purpose is to make revolutions; that is, to destroy existing governments in Latin America and to promote the formation of Communist governments.

Thrilled by the demonstrated possibility of guerrillas to pin down large bodies of American troops, the plan is to bring about these developments in so many places that our country will be unable to respond to them. While the Soviet Union carries on its political agitation and propaganda in Latin America, to Castro has been entrusted the task of promoting as much guerrilla warfare as possible.

We wonder what the New York Times thinks now of its part in bringing Castro to power. We have heard no apology for the series of articles written by its correspondent, Herbert Matthews, extolling the virtues of Castro. We wonder what our State Department thinks as it remembers its advice to diplomats going to Latin America — that they have briefing sessions with this same Herbert Matthews. We wonder what former President Eisenhower thinks as he recalls the help our government gave to Castro that enabled him to overthrow the Batista government of Cuba. We wonder what our State Department thinks when it recalls how it rolled out the red carpet for Castro during his visit to the United States shortly after he rode triumphantly into Havana. We wonder what the close advisors of the late President Kennedy think when they recall that they persuaded JFK not to go through with the plans for ousting Castro at the Bay of Pigs. We wonder what multitudes of good people who have wanted peace so much that they refused to resist evil, are thinking about these days when it becomes increasingly obvious that their easy-going, pacifist policy has made Communism stronger and stronger, so that we are now facing a desperate battle for our lives.

If we have become so ease-loving and so reluctant to exert ourselves that we allow evil to flourish among us, it is only a question of time until we shall be the slaves of the evil which we could and should have destroyed. The Communist schedule calls for the overthrow of the American government long before Orwell's date of 1984.

IN MEMORIUM

On loving memory of Russell E. Long who was killed in a car accident Nov. 21, 1963.
It was four years age today,
That the angels came and bore your precious soul away.
How we all miss your sweet face,
Although we know you are in a better place,
It's lonely here without you, and our burdens hard to bear,
But it won't be long, dear, until we'll all be together over there.
We will always thank God for you -that he lent you for a while,
You brought many blessings to us with your kind and loving smile.
Sadly missed by your family
Mrs. Delours Long, Evelyn, Jimmie, Linda and Vest Long.

Ann Landers

Life Can Be Discussed In Plenty of Places

Dear Ann Landers: A word, please, to the 17-year-old girl who got into trouble when her boyfriend kissed her on the school premises. She was upset because she said there was no place for teen-agers to go to "discuss life."

If kids really want to discuss life (not make out), I can suggest several places for them to go. Here are just a few: the zoo, a bus depot or an airport, car dealers' showrooms, theater lobbies, the public library, a museum or art gallery. They can also get on a city bus and ride to the end of the line and back.

Please publish this letter for all teen-agers who want privacy and have no imagination.-- COOL CAR

Dear Cool: Your list sounds fine -- all except the car dealers' showrooms. Car dealers might not look kindly on teen-agers who want to sit in their showrooms and discuss life. Thanks for the other suggestions.

Dear Ann Landers: Recently my mother-in-law had to make a hurried trip to another city. My husband drove her in his car.

An unavoidable delay made it necessary for them to be away overnight. When they returned my husband told me they had checked into a hotel as Mr. and Mrs. He added hastily, "Twin beds, of course."

My mother-in-law is 67 and while I don't think a stranger would pick them out as a man and wife, one wouldn't pick her out as his mother.

Neither has money problems and my husband paid for the trip. He could have well afforded the price of a second room.

I am not questioning the morality of the situation. I am questioning the judgment of these two people. A comment from you, please.-- DETROIT

Dear Detroit: In an emergency, such a setup would be O.K. But since there was no emergency and money is no problem, they should have had separate rooms. The fact that they registered as Mr. and Mrs. made it a little too cute, in my opinion.

Dear Ann Landers: Get out the wet noodle and give yourself 20 lashes. Recently a woman wrote that she was furious with the newspaper for printing an engagement announcement without checking both sets of parents. Her son had not mentioned a word about getting married. She was certain the girl maneuvered him into it by giving the picture and story to the paper.

You told the mother that the paper was not at fault -- that the real problem was the lack of communication between her and her son. Then you added, "I know of no paper in the country that verifies engagement stories."

Our paper does and I'll tell you why. Several years ago, a rejected suitor wanted to get even with the girl who had turned him down. He sent her picture to the newspaper and announced her engagement to a young man who was several rungs beneath her on the social ladder. The girl's parents were prominent citizens and you can image the scene in the publisher's office.

You can be sure that now we check out all engagement announcements. -- E.H.C. ----- ATLANTA JOURNAL

Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of this newspaper enclosing a stamped, sefl - addressed envelope.

If You Were The Judge

Weather Bureau Not Liable for Errors

BY JACK STRAUSS, L.L.D.

After it had rained long and hard for several days and nights, Noah all but began to think about building an ark. Worried about possible flooding and the safety of certain merchandise in his warehouse, he first decided to call the U. S. Weather Bureau to check on the forecast.

"Will the rain continue," he asked nervously, "and will the river stay away from my door?"

"The rain will stop shortly" was the reassuring answer, "and the river will stay where it belongs."

As it developed, however, the Weather Bureau's forecast was about as reliable as a tip from a barber on a horse race. Not only didn't the rain stop for several additional days, but the river overflowed and Noah's warehouse glubbed-glubbed as it disappeared under the rising tide.

Badly water logged himself, Noah sued the government for the damage to and the loss of his merchandise.

"I was given a totally inaccurate weather report," he fumed in court. "Had I been correctly advised, I could have taken appropriate steps to protect my property."

"Weather is like a woman," was the defense. "It's likely to change it's mind at any time. That's the way the weather bounces."

IF YOU WERE THE JUDGE, would you permit the Weather Bureau to get away with giving inaccurate forecasts or would you permit Noah to collect?

This is how the judge ruled: Noah lost. The judge held that the Weather Bureau could not be held liable since experience has taught us that no one can always accurately forecast the extent of either rain or floods.

We are still Pilgrims

We no longer give thanks around a rough wooden table in a forest clearing. Our problems and rewards have taken different shapes too, but they are basically the same.

We are still making a pilgrimage, the same search for a fuller and more fruitful life under freedom of religion. And we are still thankful for the faith that sees us through adversity and guides us on that pilgrimage.

Thanksgiving Day was named for its meaning—the day that we come together to give thanks for our faith and our full life . . . and to remember that we are still pilgrims.

This Thanksgiving Day, give your thanks, strengthen your faith, enlighten your pilgrimage, at your place of worship.

If You Were The Judge

BY JACK STRAUSS, L.L.D.

After it had rained long and hard for several days and nights, Noah all but began to think about building an ark. Worried about possible flooding and the safety of certain merchandise in his warehouse, he first decided to call the U. S. Weather Bureau to check on the forecast.

"Will the rain continue," he asked nervously, "and will the river stay away from my door?"

"The rain will stop shortly" was the reassuring answer, "and the river will stay where it belongs."

As it developed, however, the Weather Bureau's forecast was about as reliable as a tip from a barber on a horse race. Not only didn't the rain stop for several additional days, but the river overflowed and Noah's warehouse glubbed-glubbed as it disappeared under the rising tide.

Badly water logged himself, Noah sued the government for the damage to and the loss of his merchandise.

"I was given a totally inaccurate weather report," he fumed in court. "Had I been correctly advised, I could have taken appropriate steps to protect my property."

"Weather is like a woman," was the defense. "It's likely to change it's mind at any time. That's the way the weather bounces."

IF YOU WERE THE JUDGE, would you permit the Weather Bureau to get away with giving inaccurate forecasts or would you permit Noah to collect?

This is how the judge ruled: Noah lost. The judge held that the Weather Bureau could not be held liable since experience has taught us that no one can always accurately forecast the extent of either rain or floods.

Witnesses To Gather At Kennett

KENNETT - A three-day convention of Jehovah's Witnesses will begin Friday.

The meeting will be sponsored by the Watchtower Bible and Tract Society of New York.

Two members of the Sikeston congregation will have a special part in the convention, Charles E. Ferrar, Jr., and Russell Knauer, presiding minister.

Knauer will open the Friday night program with "Songs and Experiences," as well an manage the refreshment department.

Ferrar will manage the service in the field department, and speak to the assembly, "True Faith is not Just Credulity; It Has a Firm Foundation".

Principal speaker will be Nicholas Kovelak, a representative of the Watchtower Society from New York.

Meetings at the Witnesses' Sikeston Kingdom Hall, 316 East Gladys St., will be cancelled for the weekend.

In August, 1965, 92 per cent of the households in the United States had at least one television set.

There are over four million members of the Society of Freemasons in the world.

We are still Pilgrims

We no longer give thanks around a rough wooden table in a forest clearing. Our problems and rewards have taken different shapes too, but they are basically the same.

We are still making a pilgrimage, the same search for a fuller and more fruitful life under freedom of religion. And we are still thankful for the faith that sees us through adversity and guides us on that pilgrimage.

Thanksgiving Day was named for its meaning—the day that we come together to give thanks for our faith and our full life . . . and to remember that we are still pilgrims.

This Thanksgiving Day, give your thanks, strengthen your faith, enlighten your pilgrimage, at your place of worship.

Apollo Crews Named

SPACE CENTER, HOUSTON, Tex. (AP) — Six astronauts, including two who never have ridden a rocket, today held key roles in two forthcoming space rehearsals for America's flight to the moon.

The space agency Monday named three-man crews for the first manned flights atop the Saturdn 5 rocket, whose triumphant test journey Nov. 9 gave the moon program the impetus it needed.

Air Force Lt. Col. James A. McDivitt, 38, commander of the 1965 Gemini 5 flight, is in charge of the first manned Saturn 5 flight planned for late next year.

Traveling with him will be Air Force Lt. Col. David R. Scott, 35, veteran of the Gemini 8 flight in 1966 and civilian astronaut Russell L. Schweickart, 32, venturing into space for the first time.

Early in 1969 Air Force Col. Frank Borman, 39, will command the second manned trip aboard a Saturn 5, joined by Air Force Lt. Col. Michael Collins, 37, and Air Force Maj. William A. Anders, 34. Borman commanded Gemini 7 in 1965, Collins rode Gemini 10 in 1966. Anders is a space rookie.

Once in space the men are to act out vital steps in the moonflight scenario. McDivitt's team is to carry out first manned space testing of the Apollo command craft, its service section and the moonlanding lunar module.

Borman and his colleagues will fly with orders to carry out lunar mission steps the way they would go during an actual flight to the moon.

Their big job will be for the lunar ferry and the command ship to start hundreds of miles apart, find each other and link up in a run-through of the rendezvous required to bring home safely the first Americans who will walk the moon.

The crews named Monday were for the second and third manned flights of the Apollo lunar landing program. The first flight is to go next summer using a more powerful version of the Saturn 1 vehicle.

Navy Capt. Walter M. Schirra Jr., 44, will command that flight, joined by civilian astronaut Walter Cunningham, 35, and Air Force Maj. Donn F. Eisele, 37. They are to check the spaceworthiness of the command craft and its ability to protect spacemen during its fiery skip back into earth's atmosphere.

The Schirra crew got its assignment after the three astronauts they understudied were killed in a fire in their Apollo ship atop a Saturn 1 at Cape Kennedy, Jan. 27.

Herbert Hoover of Bell City Dies

ADVANCE -- Herbert D. Hoover of Bell City, 37, a veteran of the Korean way, died Saturday in a hospital at Memphis, where he had been a patient since September.

Born June 2, 1930, at Bell City, son of Mr. and Mrs. Calvin Hoover.

Besides his parents, survivors are his wife, Mrs. Frances Hager Hoover, and seven children, Nathan Dale Hoover, St. Louis; Rebecca Sue, Cynthia Lynn, Carolyn Louise, Herbert Dale Jr., John Edward and Pamela Jo Hoover.

Other survivors are two half brothers, Melvin Allen, Carbondale, Ill., and Homer Allen, Indianapolis, and three half sisters, Mrs. Florence Bain, Bell City, Mrs. Blanch Roberts and Mrs. Marticia Winters, St. Louis.

The body is at the Morgan Funeral Home. While place of services has not been set, the hour will be at 1 p.m. Wednesday.

The Rev. Robert Carrow, pastor of the Bell City Pentecostal Church, will conduct the services and burial will be in Morgan Memorial Park.

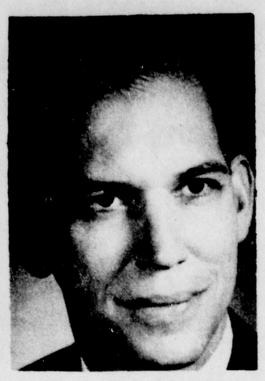
Alumni at Lilbourn Will Meet Saturday

LILBOURN -- The Lilbourn Alumni Association will have its 15th annual meeting Saturday at the old gymnasium.

The business meeting will begin at 8:30 p.m. Officers will be elected and reports from classes beginning with 1918 will be heard.

A dance for alumni and guests will follow with the Soul Seekers furnishing the music.

A. W. Wheeler



D. G. McMaster

Two Named to Head Mill Work

WICKLIFFE, Ky. -- David G. McMaster and Almon W. Wheeler have been named to head paper mill operations at West Virginia Pulp and Paper Company's new mill being constructed near Wickliffe.

McMaster was appointed general paper mill superintendent. He will be relieved of his duties at the company's Charleston, S. C., mill to begin his new assignment.

Wheeler, who was named paper mill superintendent, will continue in that capacity at the Tyrone, Pa., mill, phasing into his new duties over the next several months. Both men will be transferred to Wickliffe when construction of the new paper machine reaches an appropriate stage.

William I. Ross, Chaffee, Dies

CHAFFEE-William Isaac Ross, 52, died Saturday at a Cape Girardeau hospital where he had been a patient since Thursday.

Ross, a pipefitter for the Shell Oil Refinery at Wood River, Ill., was born April 23, 1915, at Parma. He was married May 16, 1955, to Mrs. Kathryn Hall of Chaffee, who survives.

Colorful Civil War Rebel Had Hannibal Background

HANNIBAL, Mo. (AP) — Today's postmen have their troubles with bad weather and churlish dogs, but none of them faces the hazards encountered by Ab Grimes.

Absolom Carlisle Grimes, besides being the "mailman of the Confederate army," must be ranked as one of the top spies and escape artists of the Civil War.

Before the fighting started, Grimes was a steamboat pilot on the Mississippi River. But he lost his license for refusing to take a loyalty oath to the Union and returned to his home in Hannibal.

For three weeks Grimes served in an informal rebel "army" along with another Hannibal lad who later achieved something of a name for himself. That was Samuel L. Clemens, who wrote under the name Mark Twain.

Grimes was soon captured by federal authorities and taken to prison at Springfield, Mo. But he soon led 60 Confederate inmates in a mass escape.

Recaptured a few weeks later, Grimes promptly got away again while being taken to prison at Alton, Ill.

It was then Grimes got the idea of carrying letters from home to Missouri and Kentucky soldiers fighting in the South. Several women who sympathized in the Confederate cause helped him assemble the letters, and he delivered them regularly to southern troops in Mississippi.

Not the sort of man to miss any opportunities, Grimes checked on Union troop movements and the federal ironclad fleet near Cairo, Ill., while covering his "mail route."

It was in Cairo that Grimes again was taken prisoner, but within three weeks he had cut a hole in the floor of his cell and disappeared.

Later Grimes was captured in St. Louis and sentenced to death as a spy. Prison officials were determined to keep him this time and shackled him with special handcuffs to a heavy cannon ball.

But a week later all that remained in Grimes' cell were the handcuffs, the cannon ball and a hole in the floor.

One of Grimes' most incredible feats was running the federal blockade at Vicksburg, Miss., in a submersible boat. He and a partner carried two loads of mail through the gunboat picket line to the besieged garrison.

In a storybook climax to his career, Grimes was captured for the last time on the eve of his wedding. While in prison he was stabbed and shot four times in futile escape attempts.

Tried again as a spy, Grimes was sentenced for a second time to die. But President Lincoln eventually pardoned him.

The war over, Grimes married his sweetheart and became one of the highest paid pilots on the river. At age 69 after his wife's death he married again and was involved in a shooting scrape over his new bride.

Grimes died in 1911 and is buried at New London, Mo.

Carrie Meredith Dies In Arkansas

POCAHONTAS, Ark. - Services were held Nov. 10 for Mrs. Carrie Eva Meredith, 92, mother of Mrs. Joe M. Shaver, 256 West Kathleen in Sikeston, Mo.

Burial was in Nelson cemetery in Reyno, with Cecil Wilson of Pocahontas, Ark., officiating.

Mrs. Meredith was born in Indianapolis, Feb. 25, 1875, daughter of John William and Phobe Catherine Russel. The family moved to Southern Illinois when she was a child. She married James Edward Meredith.

The couple moved to Memphis where her husband worked as a carpenter. She was a member of the Christian church and the Rebekah lodge.

Surviving are four daughters, Mrs. Shaver, Mrs. Ruby Schneider, St. Louis, Mrs. Grace Turner, Dalton, Ark., and Mrs. Gerogia Mock, Pocahontas, Ark., and one son, Guss Meredith, Reyno.

American Indians used turkey spurs for arrow points and the feathers for fletching the arrows.

Roy A. Faust, Oak Ridge, Dies

OAK RIDGE -- Roy A. Faust, 63, of Oak Ridge, died Sunday at 8:30 a.m. in a Cape Girardeau hospital.

Faust was born July 31, 1904, in Blandville, Ky.

On March 19, 1949, he married Hattie Slinkard, who survives.

Faust was an automobile mechanic in St. Louis, retiring in 1961 when he moved to Oak Ridge.

Surviving, besides his wife, are a daughter, Mrs. Woodrow Reece, St. Louis; a son, Walter Faust, Sikeston; a sister, Mrs. Dillie Tanksley, East Prairie; and a grandson, Ray Faust of St. Louis.

Services were in the Cracraft-Miller Funeral Home in Jackson Tuesday at 2 p.m.

The Rev. Ernest Punch, pastor of the Oak Ridge Baptist Church, of which Faust was a member, will officiate.

Burial will be in Russell Heights Cemetery in Jackson.

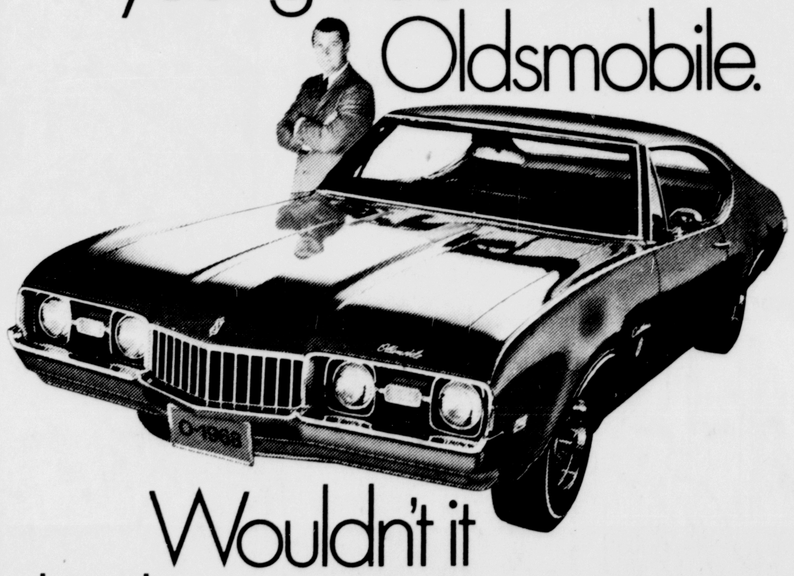
Look at this '68 "youngmobile" from Oldsmobile.



Wouldn't it look great in your driveway?

This new Cutlass S has a way of making things look younger. Even driveways. That's because of all the young ideas we built into it. A bigger 350-cubic-inch V-8, for instance. (Or, if you prefer, an Action-Line 6.) And a taut coil spring suspension that makes it easy to cut and turn in tight places. And you can order a whole carfull of young-it-up accessories like bucket seats, stick-shift or stereo. But if you think Cutlass S is young all over, don't forget that it is Olds all over, too. Olds quality, Olds engineering and the new GM safety features are all standard.

Rural Electric People Serve Their Neighbors And Like It That Way..

Rural electrics are small in an era of bigness. They serve only about 10 per cent of the American people with electricity.

But bigness is not the same as greatness. In their own way, rural electrics try to achieve a special kind of greatness . . . the kind that comes from providing a necessary service, and providing it continuously, economically, and dependably—but with very little fanfare.

With the help of Rural Electrification Administration loans, rural people created the rural electrics to serve themselves and their neighbors, and this is what they will continue to do.

They like it that way.

Apollo Crews Named

SPACE CENTER, HOUSTON, Tex. (AP) — Six astronauts, including two who never have ridden a rocket, today held key roles in two forthcoming space rehearsals for America's flight to the moon.

The space agency Monday named three-man crews for the first manned flights atop the Saturdn 5 rocket, whose triumphant test journey Nov. 9 gave the moon program the impetus it needed.

Air Force Lt. Col. James A. McDivitt, 38, commander of the 1965 Gemini 5 flight, is in charge of the first manned Saturn 5 flight planned for late next year.

Traveling with him will be Air Force Lt. Col. David R. Scott, 35, veteran of the Gemini 8 flight in 1966 and civilian astronaut Russell L. Schweickart, 32, venturing into space for the first time.

Early in 1969 Air Force Col. Frank Borman, 39, will command the second manned trip aboard a Saturn 5, joined by Air Force Lt. Col. Michael Collins, 37, and Air Force Maj. William A. Anders, 34. Borman commanded Gemini 7 in 1965, Collins rode Gemini 10 in 1966. Anders is a space rookie.

Once in space the men are to act out vital steps in the moon flight scenario. McDivitt's team is to carry out first manned space testing of the Apollo command craft, its service section and the moonlanding lunar module.

Borman and his colleagues will fly with orders to carry out lunar mission steps the way they would go during an actual flight to the moon.

Their big job will be for the lunar ferry and the command ship to start hundreds of miles apart, find each other and link up in a run-through of the rendezvous required to bring home safely the first Americans who will walk the moon.

The crews named Monday were for the second and third manned flights of the Apollo lunar landing program. The first flight is to go next summer using a more powerful version of the Saturn 1 vehicle.

Navy Capt. Walter M. Schirra Jr., 44, will command that flight, joined by civilian astronaut Walter Cunningham, 35, and Air Force Maj. Donn F. Eisele, 37. They are to check the spaceworthiness of the command craft and its ability to protect spacemen during its fiery skip back into earth's atmosphere.

The Schirra crew got its assignment after the three astronauts they understudied were killed in a fire in their Apollo ship atop a Saturn 1 at Cape Kennedy, Jan. 27.

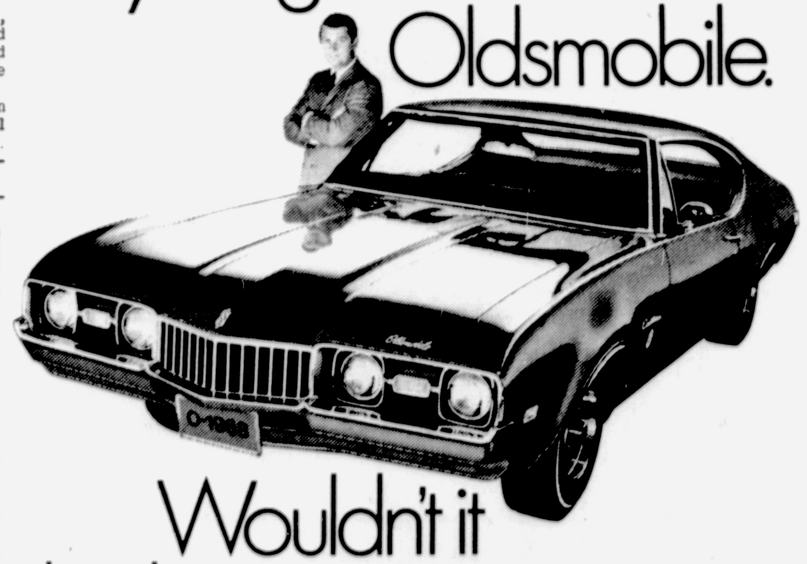
Look at this '68 "youngmobile" from Oldsmobile.



Wouldn't it look great in your driveway?

This new Cutlass S has a way of making things look younger. Even driveways. That's because of all the young ideas we built into it. A bigger 350-cubic-inch V-8, for instance. (Or, if you prefer, an Action-Line 6.) And a taut coil spring suspension that makes it easy to cut and turn in tight places. And you can order a whole carfull of young-it-up accessories like bucket seats, stick-shift or stereo. But if you think Cutlass S is young all over, don't forget that it is Olds all over, too. Olds quality, Olds engineering and the new GM safety features are all standard.

Rural Electric People Serve Their Neighbors And Like It That Way..

Rural electrics are small in an era of bigness. They serve only about 10 per cent of the American people with electricity.

But bigness is not the same as greatness. In their own way, rural electrics try to achieve a special kind of greatness . . . the kind that comes from providing a necessary service, and providing it continuously, economically, and dependably—but with very little fanfare.

With the help of Rural Electrification Administration loans, rural people created the rural electrics to serve themselves and their neighbors, and this is what they will continue to do.

They like it that way.
